AN ACT TO AMEND THE CHARTER OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

PASSED APRIL 14, 1857, THREE-FIFTHS BEING PRESENT.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SEC. 1. The Corporation now existing, and known by the name of "The Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty of the city of New York," shall continue to be a body politic and corporate, in fact and in name, by the same name, and shall have perpetual succession, with all the grants, powers, and privileges heretofore had by "the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty of the city of New York."

§ 2. The legislative power of the said Corporation shall be vested in a Board of Aldermen and a Board of Councilmen, who together shall form the Common Council of the city of New York.

§ 3. The Board of Aldermen shall consist of one Alderman to be elected from each district in the city and county of New York, as hereinafter provided for. The members of the Board of Aldermen first elected under this act shall be classified as follows: The Aldermen from districts having an odd numerical designation shall hold such office for the term of one year, and those from districts having an even numerical designation shall hold such office for the term of two years. At all subsequent elections for Aldermen, they shall be elected for the full term of two years.

§ 4. There shall be six Councilmen elected from each senatorial district in the city of New York, as the same now are, or may hereafter be, constituted, by general ticket, in each of said districts; and the persons so elected from each of said senatorial districts shall together form the Board of Councilmen for the said city. The Councilmen shall be chosen for one year.

§ 5. No person shall be eligible to the office of Alderman or Councilman, who shall not, at the time of his election, be a resident of the district from which he is chosen.

§ 6. Each Board of the Common Council shall have power to direct a special election to be held, to supply the place of any member whose seat shall become vacant by death, removal from the city, resignation, or otherwise, and in either case the person elected to supply the vacancy shall hold his seat only for the residue of the term of office of his immediate predecessor.

§ 7. The Boards shall meet in separate chambers, and a majority of either shall be a quorum to do business. Each Board shall appoint a President from its own body, and shall choose its clerk and other officers, determine the rules of its own proceedings, and be the judge of the election returns and qualifications of its own members. Each Board shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and its doors shall be kept open, except when the public welfare shall require secrecy; and all resolutions and reports of Committees, which shall recommend any specific improvement, involving the appropriation of public moneys, or the taxing or assessing the citizens of the city, shall be published immediately after the adjournment of the Board, under the authority of the Board, in all the newspapers employed by the Corporation, and shall not be passed or adopted until after such notice has been published at least two days; and whenever a vote is taken in relation thereto, the ayes and noes shall be called, and published in the same manner.

§ 8. Each Board shall have the authority to compel the attendance of absent members, to punish its members for disorderly behavior, and to expel a member with the concurrence of two-thirds of the members elected to the Board; and the member so expelled shall, by such expulsion, forfeit all his rights and powers as an Alderman or Councilman, and no Alderman or Councilman shall be questioned in any other place for any speech or vote in either Board.

§ 9. The stated and occasional meetings of each Board of the Common Council shall be regulated by its own ordinances; and both Boards may meet on the same or on different days, as they may severally judge expedient.

§ 10. Any person holding office under this charter, who shall, during his term of office, accept, hold, or retain, any other civil office of honor, trust, or emolument, under the Government of the United States, or under this charter, or who shall, during his said term of office, receive any fees or emoluments, directed to be paid by any ordinance of the Common Council, except as is hereinafter provided, shall be deemed thereby to have vacated his office.

§ 11. Every legislative act of the Common Council shall be by ordinance, act, or resolution, which shall have passed the two Boards of Common Council, before it shall take effect, shall be presented, duly certified, to the Mayor of the city for his approval. If he approve, he shall sign it; if not, he shall return it within ten days thereafter, with his objections, to the Board in which it originated, or, if such Board be not then in session, at its next stated meeting. The Board to which it shall be returned shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and cause the same to be published in one or more of the daily newspapers of the city. But no ordinance, act, or resolution shall be valid, unless the same shall have received the assent of both Boards within the same year.

§ 12. The Board, to which such ordinance, act, or resolution shall have been so returned, shall, after the expiration of not less than ten days thereafter, proceed to reconsider the same. If, after such reconsideration, at least two-thirds of all the members elected to the Board shall agree to pass the same, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other Board, by which it shall be likewise reconsidered, and, if approved, by at least two-thirds of all the members elected to such Board, it shall take effect as an act or law of the Corporation. In all such cases, the votes of both Boards shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the passage of the ordinance reconsidered shall be entered on the journal of each Board respectively.

§ 13. If the Mayor shall not return the ordinance so presented to him within the time above limited for that purpose, it shall take effect in the same manner as if he had approved of it.

§ 14. Any ordinance of the Common Council may originate in either Board, and, when it shall have passed one Board, may be rejected or amended by the other. But no ordinance shall be passed by either Board, except by the vote of a majority of all the members elected to such Board.

§ 15. Neither the Mayor nor Recorder of the city of New York shall be a member of the Common Council thereof.

§ 16. The executive power of the Corporation shall be vested in the Mayor and the Executive Departments.

§ 17. Whenever there shall be a vacancy in the office of Mayor, or whenever the Mayor shall be absent from the city, or be prevented by sickness, or any other cause, from attending to the duties of his office, or shall be removed as hereinafter provided for, the President of the Board of Aldermen shall act as Mayor, and shall possess all the rights and powers of the Mayor, during the continuance of such vacancy, absence, or disability, and until the next charter election, in the case of a vacancy or removal from office.

§ 18. It shall be the duty of the Mayor—

1. To communicate to the Common Council, at least once a year, and oftener if he shall deem it expedient, a general statement of the situation and condition of the city, in relation to its government, finances, and improvements.

2. To recommend for the adoption of the Common Council all such measures connected with the police, security, health, cleanliness, and ornament of the city, and the improvement of its government and finances, as he shall deem expedient.

3. To be vigilant and active in causing the ordinances of the city to be duly executed and enforced.

4. To exercise a constant supervision over the conduct and acts of all subordinate officers, and to receive and examine into all such complaints as may be preferred against any of them for violation or neglect of duty, and generally to perform all such duties as may be prescribed for him by the charter and city ordinances, and the laws of this State or the United States.

5. To appoint such clerks as may be authorized by the Common Council, and as may be required in his office, to aid him in the discharge of his official duties.

§ 19. The Mayor, Comptroller, and Counsel to the Corporation, shall each be elected by the electors of the city; the Mayor for the term of two years, the Counsel to the Corporation for the term of three years, and the Comptroller for the term of four years. The Comptroller shall be voted for on a separate ballot. The other heads of departments shall be appointed by the Mayor, with the advice and consent of the Board of Aldermen. The Board of Aldermen shall have power to confirm or reject all nominations of officers made by the Mayor; and whenever any person nominated by the Mayor shall be rejected by the Board of Aldermen, the Mayor shall immediately nominate another person.

§ 20. The Mayor, Comptroller, and Counsel to the Corporation, may each be removed by the Governor, for cause, in the manner provided by law in the case of sheriffs. The vacancy occasioned by the removal of the Comptroller, or Counsel to the Corporation, shall be filled by the Mayor, with the advice and consent of the Board of Aldermen, until it shall be supplied at the next annual election of charter officers.

§ 21. The other heads of the Executive Departments, except the officers of the Croton Aqueduct Board, shall hold their office for two years, and until the appointment of their successors. The Mayor shall have power to suspend, for cause, during any recess of the Common Council, and by and with the consent of the Board of Aldermen, to remove any of the heads of departments, except the Comptroller and the Counsel to the Corporation, which suspension, and the cause thereof, shall be communicated to the Common Council, if in session; and if not, then at the first meeting thereof. The Board of Aldermen shall have power, without the consent of the Mayor, by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected, to remove any of the heads of departments, for cause, other than the Comptroller and Counsel to the Corporation. The heads of departments shall have power to appoint and remove the chiefs of bureaux and clerks in their respective departments; except that the Chamberlain shall be appointed by the Mayor, with the consent of the Board of Aldermen, and may be removed in the same manner with heads of departments. The chiefs of bureaux and clerks of departments and bureaux shall hold office during the same term enjoyed by the heads of departments, unless sooner removed. The Chief Engineer of the Fire Department shall be elected in the same manner as is now, or may hereafter be, prescribed by law. The number of clerks to the departments shall be as fixed by the Common Council, who shall also fix the terms of all offices created by them under authority of law.

§ 22. There shall be an executive department, which shall be denominated the "Department of Finance," which shall have control of all the fiscal concerns of the Corporation, and shall prescribe the forms of keeping and rendering all city accounts; and all accounts, rendered to or kept in the other departments of the City Government, shall be subject to the inspection and revision of the officers of this department. POLICE DEPARTMENT.

AN ACT

TO AMEND AN ACT, ENTITLED, "AN ACT TO ESTABLISH A METROPOLITAN POLICE DISTRICT, AND TO PROVIDE FOR THE GOVERNMENT THEREOF," PASSED APRIL FIFTEENTH, EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SEVEN.

PASSED APRIL 10, 1860; THREE-FIFTHS BEING PRESENT.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SEC. 1. The act, entitled, "An act to establish a Metropolitan Police District, and to provide for the government thereof," passed April fifteenth, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

§ 2. The counties of New York, Kings, Westchester, and Richmond, and the towns of Newtown, Flushing, and Jamaica, in the county of Queens, are hereby constituted and territorially united, for the purposes of police government and police discipline therein, into one district, which shall be known as, and called, the Metropolitan Police District of the State of New York.

§ 3. The powers and duties connected with and incident to the police government and discipline of the said district shall be, as is hereinafter more especially provided for, vested in and exercised by a Board of Metropolitan Police, Commissioners of Metropolitan Police, and by a Metropolitan Police force, composed of a Superintendent of Metropolitan Police force, Inspectors of Metropolitan Police force, Captains of Metropolitan Police, Sergeants of Metropolitan Police, and Patrolmen of Metropolitan Police.

§ 4. On or before the tenth day of April, A. D. eighteen hundred and sixty, and thereafter, from time to time, as may become requisite, the Governor shall nominate, and, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint, from among the electors of the Metropolitan Police District, three Commissioners of Metropolitan Police, who shall constitute the Board of Metropolitan Police, and two of them shall form a quorum for the transaction of business. The Governor shall have power to fill up any vacancy or vacancies that may happen in such Board during the recess of the Senate, by appointing a Commissioner or Commissioners, who shall hold office until appointment shall be made for the remainder of the unexpired term, in the manner hereinbefore provided. Any one of the Commissioners may be at all times removed by the Governor under the provisions of statutes relating to the removal from office of sheriffs, which provisions are hereby extended so as to relate to each one of the said Commissioners.

§ 5. The said three Commissioners, after having been duly appointed under this section, shall assemble together in the office of the Secretary of State, and there proceed to draw lots for three terms of office expiring respectively on the first days of April, in the years eighteen hundred and sixty-two, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, and eighteen hundred and sixty-six. At the expiration of each of the said respective terms, the full term succeeding shall be one of six years.

§ 6. Any one of the said Commissioners who shall, during his term of office, accept or hold any other place of public trust, or civil emolument, or who shall, during his term of office, be publicly nominated for any office elective by the people, and shall not, within ten days succeeding the same, publicly decline the said nomination, shall be in either case deemed hereby to have resigned his commission to the Governor, and to have vacated his office, and the Governor shall proceed as in case of vacancy.

§ 7. Upon the said three terms of office having been determined, as aforesaid, by lot, and a certificate of the result, attested by each Commissioner, having been filed in the office of the Secretary of State, there shall be issued to each Commissioner, from said office, the proper commission of appointment to office, for the term so drawn by lot, and each Commissioner shall, on receipt thereof, take and subscribe before the Secretary of State, for deposit in his office, the oath required by the Constitution for judicial officers.

§ 8. The said three Commissioners, appointed under this section, shal then take the places of the five Commissioners of Police of the said the Metropolitan Police District, now fulfilling office therein under the act hereby amended, and the terms of office of each of the said five Commissioners shall thereupon be at an end. The Board of Metropolitan Police, composed of the said three Commissioners, and of no other officers or persons, shall succeed and take the place of the Board of Police then existing.

§ 9. The said "The Metropolitan Police District" shall be divided by the Board of Metropolitan Police into precincts, not exceeding forty in the whole number thereof, and to each precinct shall be assigned a Captain of Metropolitan Police, and as many sergeants and patrolmen of the Metropolitan Police force as the said Board may deem sufficient. Any number of said precincts may be joined into a sub-district by the said Board, and assigned to the charge of an inspector of police force. Any number of precincts may be likewise joined into surgical sub-districts, and assignments made thereto of Surgeons of Police by the said Board. In precincts within the county towns of Kings, or the towns of Newtown, Flushing, and Jamaica, in the county of Queens, or in the counties of Richmond or Westchester, respectively, the said Board may appoint therein any patrolman as acting sergeant in command of such precinct, with powers of captain, under the rules and regulations of the Board, but without increase of pay.

§ 10. The Board of Metropolitan Police, whenever vacancies occur, or the same becomes requisite, shall appoint the Superintendent of Metropolitan Police force, and the Inspectors of Metropolitan Police force, not exceeding four, and the Captains of Metropolitan Police, not exceeding forty, and the Sergeants of Metropolitan Police, not exceeding one hundred and sixty, and the patrolmen of Metropolitan Police, to the number authorized or restricted by this act. The Board of Metropolitan Police shall promulgate all regulations and orders through the Superintendent of Police, who shall be the executive head of the whole police force of the Metropolitan District, and who shall have the direction and control of said force, subject to the rules and regulations of the Board of Police.

§ 11. The quota of patrolmen for the county of New York, and whose services are to be paid for by the contribution of said county to the Metropolitan Police Fund, shall not exceed one thousand four hundred, unless the Board of Supervisors of said county shall, by resolution, determine an additional number to be necessary. The Commissioners of Metropolitan Police, and the Comptrollers of the cities of New York and Brooklyn, convened as a board of estimate and apportionment, shall annually, on or before the first day of September, make up a financial estimate of the sums required annually for expenses in the execution of criminal process, or for the fitting up, warming, lighting, and furnishing police station-houses, and the house for the detention of witnesses, and for alterations, and additions to, and repairs of the same, and for office accommodation and printing, and stationery, and telegraph apparatus and fixtures, and for badges, emblems, and equipments of the police force, and also of the sums necessary for counsel fees, law expenses and disbursements incurred by the Board of Metropolitan Police, or by the Commissioners of Metropolitan Police, or rendered necessary in criminal or civil actions and proceedings against the superintendent or inspectors, or property clerk, or members of the Metropolitan Police force, for acts done in the discharge of duty, and to defray the salaries and pay required by this act, and such other general expenses as may, from time to time, in the judgment of such apportionment board, become necessary, with the enumeration thereof. Such estimate shall be accompanied with a written apportionment, by said board, of the proportion of expenses applicable to each city, county, town, or village, in the Metropolitan Police District, interested therein, in the ratio of the number of patrolmen authorized by this act, and employed by such city, county, town, or village, respectively. The said estimate shall then be submitted to an auditing committee, composed of the Presidents, respectively, of the Board of Supervisors of the counties of New York, Kings, Westchester, and Richmond, and of the Board of Aldermen of the city of Brooklyn, and of the Supervisors of the respective towns of Newtown, Flushing, and Jamaica, in the county of Queens, who may meet by a majority thereof to consider the same, on or before the first Monday of October, in each and every year. If the said auditing board, on or before the second Monday of said October, shall object, in writing, to such estimate and apportionment, or any portion thereof, and so notify or cause to be notified the said board of estimate and apportionment, it shall be the duty of the latter to immediately and carefully revise the same, and consider the said objections. If such board shall adhere to their original action of estimate or apportionment, or if they shall modify the same, then the final determination shall be binding upon the respective counties, or cities, or towns, or villages interested therein, except that in the counties of Richmond, Westchester, and Queens, no proportion of the general expenses of the Board of Police, in each year, shall be chargeable to any of said counties, or to any town or village therein, except such county, town, or village shall have voted to employ and pay patrolmen.

§ 61. The Board of Supervisors of the county of New York, and the joint Board of Supervisors and Aldermen of the city of Brooklyn, are hereby respectively empowered and directed annually to order and cause to be raised and collected by tax upon the estates, real and personal, subject to taxation according to law, within the said county of New York and city of Brooklyn, respectively, the sums of money as aforesaid annually estimated and apportioned as the share of said county or city, of the said total expenses of the Metropolitan Police District.

§ 62. The several sums of money provided for by the preceding sections shall be paid into the treasury of the State, and shall be paid therein and therefrom under the fiscal regulations of law relating to the school fund of the State of New York.

§ 63. The Commissioner of Metropolitan Police, who shall be selected as treasurer of the Board of Metropolitan Police, shall receive an annual salary of three thousand dollars, and each other Commissioner shall receive a compensation of eight dollars for each day of actual service, the same to be annually certified to the Comptroller of the State by the said treasurer of the Board. The Superintendent of the Metropolitan Police shall receive an annual salary of five thousand dollars. Each Inspector of Police shall receive an annual salary of two thousand dollars. Each Surgeon of Police shall receive an annual salary of fifteen hundred dollars. The Chief Clerk to the Board of Metropolitan Police shall receive a like salary of two thousand dollars. The Property Clerk shall receive a like salary of twelve hundred dollars; and each Deputy Clerk a like salary of one thousand dollars. Each Captain of Metropolitan Police shall receive an annual salary of twelve hundred dollars. Each Sergeant of Metropolitan Police shall receive an annual salary of nine hundred dollars. The pay of each patrolman shall be at the yearly rate of eight hundred dollars, and that of each doorman at the rate of seven hundred dollars per year. The salaries and pay aforesaid shall be paid monthly to each person entitled thereto, in modes to be prescribed by the rules and regulations, subject to such deductions each month from the salary or pay of members of the Metropolitan Police force as the treasurer shall make (and which deductions he is hereby authorized to retain), to satisfy fines imposed on any member of the Metropolitan Police force by way of discipline or punishment, and as prescribed by the rules and regulations of the Board. The salary of the Treasurer, and the compensation of each other Commissioner, shall be paid by the Comptroller of the State out of the Metropolitan Police Fund.

§ 64. No member of the Board of Metropolitan Police, under any pretense whatsoever, shall, for his own benefit, share in any present, fee, gift, or emolument for police services, additional to his regular salary or compensation.

§ 65. The Board of Police, for meritorious and extraordinary services rendered by any member of the police force, in the due discharge of his duty, may permit any member of the police force to retain for his own benefit any reward or present tendered him therefor; and it shall be cause of removal from the Metropolitan Police force for any member thereof to receive any such reward or present without notice thereof to the Board of Metropolitan Police. Upon receiving said notice, the said Board may either order the said member to retain the same, or shall dispose of it for the benefit of the Police Life Insurance Fund.

§ 66. All fines imposed by the Board of Police upon members of the Metropolitan Police force, by way of discipline, and collectible from pay or salary, and all rewards, fees, proceeds, or gifts and emoluments that may be paid and given for account of extraordinary services of any member of the Metropolitan Police force (except when allowed to be retained by said member); and all moneys remaining for the space of one year in the hands of the Property Clerk, or arising from the sale of unclaimed goods; and all proceeds of suits for penalties, under this amended act, shall be deposited and paid into the bank wherein the Treasurer of the Board of Metropolitan Police shall keep an account. The payments so made shall constitute and be deposited and kept as a fund, to be called the "Police Life Insurance Fund," and the persons who shall, from time to time, fill the office of the said Treasurer of the Board of Metropolitan Police, and that of Comptroller of the city of New York and city of Brooklyn, are hereby declared the trustees of the said fund, and may, from time to time, invest the same, in whole or in part, as they shall deem most advantageous for the objects of such fund, and are empowered to make all necessary contracts and take all necessary remedies in the premises.

§ 67. If any member of the Metropolitan Police force, whilst in the actual performance of duty, shall become permanently disabled, so as to render his dismissal from membership necessary, or if any such member shall become superannuated after ten years of membership, the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars, as an annuity, to be paid such member, shall become chargeable upon the Metropolitan Police Life Insurance Fund. If any member of the Metropolitan Police force, whilst in the actual discharge of his duty, shall be killed, or shall die from the immediate effect of any injury received by him whilst in such discharge of duty, and shall leave a widow, or, if no widow, any child or children under the age of sixteen years, a like sum, by way of annuity, shall become chargeable upon the said fund, to be paid to such widow, so long only as she remains unmarried, or to such child or children so long only as said child, or the youngest of said children, continues under the age of sixteen years. In every case the Board of Metropolitan Police shall determine the circumstances thereof, and order payment of the annuity to be made by draft, signed by each trustee of the said fund. But nothing herein contained shall render any payment of said annuity obligatory upon the said Board, or the said trustees, or chargeable as a matter of legal right. The Board of Metropolitan Police, in its discretion, may at any time order such annuity to cease.

§ 68.—1. All property, or money alleged or supposed to have been feloniously obtained, or which shall be lost or abandoned, and which shall be thereafter taken into the custody of any member of the Metropolitan Police force, or criminal court in the city of New York, or which shall come into custody of any police justice, shall be by such member or justice, or by order of said court, given into the custody of and kept by the property clerk of the Metropolitan Police district, and all such property and money shall be particularly registered by said property clerk in a book kept for that purpose, which shall contain also a record of the names of the person from whom such property or money was taken, the names of all claimants thereto, the time of the seizure, and any final disposition of such property or money.

2. Whenever property or money shall be taken from persons arrested, and shall be alleged to have been feloniously obtained, or to be the proceeds of crime, and whenever so brought with such claimant and the person arrested, before some magistrate for adjudication, and the magistrate shall be then and there satisfied from evidence that the person arrested is innocent of the offense alleged, and that the property rightfully belongs to him, the said magistrate may thereupon, in writing, order such property or money to be returned, and the property clerk, if he have it, to deliver such property or money to the accused person himself, and not to any attorney, agent, or clerk of such accused person.

3. If any claim to the ownership of such property or money shall be made on oath before the magistrate, by or in behalf of any other persons than the persons arrested, the said accused person shall be held for trial or examination, such property or money shall remain in the custody of the property clerk until the discharge or conviction of the persons accused.

4. All property or money taken on suspicion of having been feloniously obtained, or of being the proceeds of crime, and for which there is no other claimant than the person from whom such property was taken, and all lost property coming into the possession of any member of the said Metropolitan Police force, and all property and money taken from pawnbrokers, as the proceeds of crime, or by any such member, from persons supposed to be insane, intoxicated, or otherwise incapable of taking care of themselves, shall be transmitted, as soon as practicable, to the property clerk of the Metropolitan Police district, to be duly registered and advertised for the benefit of all persons and parties interested, and for the information of the public as to the amount and disposition of the property so taken into custody by the police.

5. All property and money that shall remain in the custody of the property clerk for the period of six months, without any lawful claimant thereto, after having been three times advertised in public newspapers, shall be sold at public auction, and the proceeds of such sale shall be paid into the Police Life Insurance Fund.

6. If any property or money placed in the custody of the property clerk, shall be desired as evidence in any police or other criminal court, such property shall be delivered to any officer who shall present an order to that effect from such court; such property, however, shall not be retained in said court, but shall be returned to said property clerk, to be disposed of according to the previous provisions of this act.

§ 69. The persons in the respective offices of General Superintendent, Deputy Superintendent, Captains, Sergeants, and Patrolmen of the Metropolitan Police district, at the time of the passage of this amended act, and who have taken and subscribed an oath of office, as members of the police force of such district, are hereby continued in office during good behavior, subject to such promotion as may have been provided by previous sections hereof, and to removal from office only according to the provisions of this amended act.

§ 70. The Board of Police shall, at all times, cause the ordinances of the cities of New York and Brooklyn, not in conflict with the provisions of this act, to be properly enforced, and it shall be the duty of said Board, at all times, whenever consistent with the rules and regulations of the Board, and with the requirements of this act, to furnish all information desired.

§ 71. This act shall take effect immediately.

5. It shall be the duty of each surgeon—

1. To report to the Commissioners of Police, as often as he may deem proper, but at least once every three months, on the health of the police force, and the sanitary condition of the station-houses in the district assigned to him.

2. To render professional services to all members of the police force stationed in his district, who may be ill, whether such illness be in consequence of injuries received on duty, or from ordinary sickness or indisposition, and to report thereon, in writing, to the chief clerk of police, on the last day of each month, the cause of such illness, and specifying the number of days when any officer in his district was unable, from wounds received while on service, or from illness contracted by exposure, to perform duty.

3. To visit daily, and, from time to time, carefully inspect and report to the Commissioners of Police, the sanitary state of the station-houses, the condition and ventilation of the cells, and on all matters connected with the station-houses or other buildings in charge of the Board of Police, within his district, which may affect injuriously the health of the inmates.

4. To attend all prisoners confined in the station-houses in his district, on the requisition of a captain of police, or officer in command.

5. 6. To visit, from time to time, all injured persons in his district whose cases are undergoing investigation, in order that he may be able to give full and complete medical evidence, when necessary, on the trial of the accused parties.

7. To inspect, whenever called upon by a captain of police, the carcasses of any animals, within his district, suspected to be diseased, or any butcher meat, fish, poultry, or other articles of provisions suspected to be unsound, or unwholesome, or in a state unfit for human food, and to give evidence thereon, in court, when required.

8. To inspect, on the requisition of a captain of police, any adulterated provisions within his district, and to give evidence thereon when required.

6. It shall be the duty of the captains of police to report, in writing, to the surgeons of their respective precincts, the names of all officers under

7. It shall be the duty of those surgeons of police who receive fifteen hundred dollars per annum for their services, in consideration of their larger compensation, to examine the physical condition of all candidates for police appointments, whose applications shall have been favorably considered by the Board of Police, and report thereon, in writing, whether such candidates possess the qualifications prescribed in respect to health, strength, stature, and age. Such reports shall be signed by at least two of the surgeons referred to in this section, and be filed in the office of the chief clerk. It shall be the duty of all the surgeons of the police to make the examination herein mentioned whenever required by resolution of the Board of Commissioners.

8. It shall be the duty of one or more of the surgeons of police to repair to any part of the Metropolitan Police District, whenever so directed by the Board of Commissioners, to examine and report upon the presence of contagious or infectious disease; upon the existence of nuisances dangerous to the public health, or upon any matter or thing within the said police district, that may be supposed prejudicial to the public health.

9. The surgeons shall file with the chief clerk, once in every month, reports of the names of policemen who have received professional attention from them, and stating the number of days they have been ill and unable to do duty, the nature of the illness, and whether contracted in the service of the Department.

6. Each boat on night duty shall be provided with a signal-lantern, to throw flashes of red light on shore; and it shall be the duty of the patrolmen on West or South streets, who may see the light, to repair to the place where the boat shall land, to render such assistance as may be required.

7. The boats on night duty shall, in addition to the signal-lanterns, carry rockets, provided for the purpose, which they shall discharge when requiring assistance from the other boats on service; and it shall be the duty of the other boats to repair immediately to that part of the river or bay whence the rocket was discharged.

The Judge at Chambers will continue to hold the same to and including the Saturday preceding the first Monday of the succeeding month except when otherwise directed herein.

All applications for business to be transacted at Chambers and Special Term must be made to the Judge assigned to hold that branch of the Court.

REGULATIONS.

All issues of fact already joined and triable in the city of New York will be noticed to the Clerk, and be put on the Calendar for the ensuing January Circuit.

During the first week of that Circuit, motions to correct the Calendar may be made.

After that week the Calendar will remain unchanged, and continue the Calendar for every successive circuit until all the causes on it shall be tried; each Circuit beginning on the Calendar where the immediately preceding Circuit left off, and new causes to be placed in order at the foot of the permanent Calendar.

After the first week of each Circuit (during which motions to correct the Calendar may be made), the Calendar of the causes which may have gone down at the previous Circuit and the new issues will be entered as part and in continuation of the permanent Calendar; and so on, from court to court, until the end of the year.

These regulations do not affect the question of noticing the causes for trial to the opposite party, as the statute may require.

Hereafter no causes will be reserved, generally, after they are placed on the day Calendar.

No cause on any day Calendar will be passed, except where the counsel is actually engaged in a trial of a cause in another court in the city, or in the Court of Appeals ; and then only until such an engagement is discharged, or upon proof of the absence of a witness duly subpœnaed.

Parties, by consent, may apply to the clerk, and have any cause on the Circuit Calendar reserved generally, and set down for a particular day, before it is placed on the day Calendar; and may, on filing with the clerk a like consent, have the same placed on the day Calendar, or apply to the Court, on a notice of two days therefor.

SPECIAL CIRCUIT CALENDAR.

At any Circuit, until further orders, any causes belonging to either of the following classes may be placed on a special Circuit Calendar, unless the trial is likely to occupy more than one hour.

1st. Where the action is on contract, and the answer merely denies the allegations in the complaint, without setting up any new matter.

2d. Where the action is on contract, and new matter is set up in the answer, and there shall be reason to believe that the defense is made only for the purpose of delay; or, where it shall appear, by affidavit, that the cause can be tried in an hour.

To entitle the cause to be placed on such Calendar, the Plaintiff's Attorney must give a notice of four days, to be heard before a Judge at Chambers, that he will move to have the cause placed on such Calendar; and, if the motion be granted, the cause may be heard on any subsequent Friday.

If the motion be founded on the belief that the defense is for delay, or that the cause can be tried in an hour, affidavits must be served at the time of notice.

The Plaintiff's Attorney must deliver to the Clerk of the Circuit a like notice one day before such Friday, containing also the number of the cause on the General Circuit Calendar.

If the cause shall actually occupy more than one hour on the trial, the trial may be suspended, at the discretion of the Court, and the cause be put down at the foot of the Calendar.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

C. P. Daly, Justice.
John R. Brady, " Henry Hilton, "
Nat. Jarvis, Jr., Clerk.

REGULATIONS.

Causes may be generally reserved, by a written consent of the attorneys, filed at any time before the case is on the day Calendar. Cases so reserved may afterwards be placed upon the day Calendar, on the application of either party to the Judge at Chambers, provided two days, previous notice of such application be given to the adverse party.

All causes marked "off for the term" shall have priority at the succeeding term, and will be placed in their order, at the head of the Calendar therefor.

Causes passed, or run down, will be placed upon the Calendar for the succeeding term, as of the date of issue when thus passed or run down.

At 10 o'clock in the morning daily, except Sundays, New Year's Day, Good Friday, Thanksgiving, and Christmas Days, the Fourth of July, and the days of the Annual Election, Special Terms shall be held at Chambers to hear non-enumerated motions and applications required to be made in open Court; also for the trial of causes which the parties and the Justice sitting in such Term may consent to have tried before him, without a jury, and giving judgment therein; and also for giving judgment in actions under ch. 1., tit. 8, 2d part of the Code. And as many Special Terms for such purposes may be held simultaneously, as there may be Justices attending to hold the same.

Where the notice of a motion or application states that it will be made at Chambers, or at a Special Term at Chambers, it shall be heard there only, unless the parties otherwise agree; and either party may there take the other's default therein.

Motions noticed to be heard at the Special Term Room will be there heard.

SPECIAL TRIAL CALENDAR.

In actions on contract, where there is reason to believe that the defense is interposed for the purpose of delay, and that the trial will not occupy more than one hour, the plaintiff may apply by motion at Chambers or Special Term, on a notice of four days, to have the issue placed upon a Special Calendar for trial (serving with such notice any affidavits or papers he may wish to use on the motion, which have not already been served); and the same may be so ordered in the discretion of the Justice before whom the motion shall be made.

If such motion be granted, the cause will be entered on a Special Calendar to be made by the Clerk, on receiving a note of the issue specifying the number of the cause on the General Trial Calendar, and the date of the order directing it to be placed on such Special Calendar. Such Note of Issue to be filed with the Clerk four days before the day on which the cause shall be so entered.

The Special Calendar will be called on the second and last Friday of each Trial Term in Part No. 1, for trials, by the Justice there presiding, and the causes may be tried in either Part, as may be directed by such Justice.

If the trial of the cause shall occupy more than one hour, the trial may be suspended at the discretion of the Court, and the cause be placed at the foot of the General Trial Calendar.

New causes noticed for January, or any subsequent Term, will be placed at the end of the General Calendar, in their order, according to date of issue.
2. Causes may be generally reserved by a written consent of the attorneys, filed at any time before the case is on the day calendar. Cases so reserved may afterwards be placed upon the day calen-

7. In any action on contract, where there is reason to believe that the defense is interposed for delay, and that the trial will not occupy more than one hour, the plaintiff may, upon a notice of four days, apply at Chambers to have the cause placed upon the Special Calendar for short cases, and which will be made up for the last Friday in each trial term.

   The notice must be accompanied by the affidavits (if any) upon which the motion will be founded.

SIXTY-FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES, 1862.

To the Representatives of the Fire Department of the City of New York:

Gentlemen—In the discharge of the various duties intrusted to our care, none are more pleasing to your Trustees than to render an annual account of their stewardship.

The unanimity of your Honorable Body, in approving of the acts of your Trustees, is alone sufficient incentive to continue to discharge, to the best of their ability, the sacred object of our noble institution.

The patriotism of the Fire Department has been well tested during our national troubles. For it is well known that they have furnished, in proportion to their numbers, as many, if not more, men and treasure than any other organization in this city, and often have we been called to mourn the loss of our brethren who have perished on the battle-field in defense of the "Constitution and laws of our country."

It may not be considered that your Trustees are departing from their duty in presenting to your Board the position in which a member of the Department is placed on enlisting in the United States Army. At the commencement of our national troubles, the members of the Department were foremost to respond in defense of our country. At that time it was hardly supposed that those who joined the Army would be absent over three months, and it was the unanimous wish of the Department that the Commissioners should grant to the absentees their time during their absence from the city, if the same was compatible with their duties. Your Trustees, on consulting their legal adviser, regret to state that he is clearly of the opinion that a member of the Department, enlisting in the Army or Navy of the United States, ceases to be a member of the New York Fire Department. This decision, no doubt, will fall heavily on some. Nevertheless, it must be remembered, that the Active and Exempt Members claimed the right (which has been admitted) of their exemption from militia duty; the same was demanded and granted to the Firemen of New York during the War of 1812. The above decision will only affect those who had not served their whole term of service in the Department previous to their enlistment.

Although our fellow-citizens have generously responded to the calls of Charitable Institutions, yet we find, year after year, as the rule, the donations from those whose names are stereotyped on the credit side of the Treasurer's ledger. The members of the Department, to their credit, are ever and always ready to assist with their time and money in aid of our Fund. And it has long been a mystery to your Trustees that one of the most worthy Charitable Institutions in this city is seldom or ever the recipient of those munificent legacies bequeathed by our wealthy citizens to societies whose spheres of usefulness are comparatively unknown to our city. We trust that those, whom fortune has caressed in their sojourn on earth, will not forget the claims and wants of the widows and orphans of the New York Firemen, but will place the Charitable Fund of the Fire Department of the City of New York as one of the deserving Institutions, which requires the assistance of our wealthy citizens.

In calling your attention to the annexed Report of the Treasurer, you will find there was a balance, at the last Report, in the Butchers and Drovers' Bank, to the credit of the Department, of one hundred and eighty-four dollars and eighty-nine cents ($184.89). Since then he has received from various sources the sum of forty-five thousand one hundred and twenty-two dollars and five cents ($45,122.05) ; making in the aggregate the amount of forty-five thousand three hundred and six dollars and ninety-four cents ($45,306.94).

In the above amount there was received for bonds and mortgages canceled, five thousand nine hundred dollars ($5,900), and three thousand three hundred dollars ($3,300) received for a temporary investment in United States Government bonds ; the whole of which, to wit, nine thousand two hundred dollars ($9,200), has been reinvested in bonds and mortgages ; making the actual receipts thirty-five thousand nine hundred and twenty-two dollars and five cents ($35,922.05). The disbursements since the last Report have in the aggregate amounted to the sum of forty-four thousand nine hundred and eighty-seven dollars and sixty-one cents ($44,987.61), including the sum of nine thousand two hundred dollars reinvested ($9,200). Also, a temporary loan on Government bonds of four thousand dollars ($4,000), which makes the actual disbursements for the fiscal year the sum of thirty-one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven dollars and sixty-one cents ($31,787.61), leaving a balance in the Butchers and Drovers' Bank to the credit of the Department, of three hundred and nineteen dollars and thirty-three cents ($319.33). The Permanent Fund, in the aggregate, remains the same as last Report, namely, ninety-seven thousand dollars ($97,000), invested in bonds and mortgages, and two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) in Manhattan Bank stock. In comparing the above with the last Report, you will find that the sum of five thousand dollars has been expended this year over the preceding year.

In reviewing the various sources of revenue, it is with pride, that, during the past year, the members of the Department have contributed the largest amount in aid of the Fund ; not only in the receipt of ten thousand four hundred and fifty-seven dollars ($10,457) through the hands of John Decker, Esq., Chief Engineer, for Initiation Certificates, but also for the cordial co-operation of the Board of Representatives, rendered to the Special Committee on Donations and Benefits, on the occasion of a Benefit given in aid of the Fund, at Niblo's Theatre, October 25, 1862. The Committee take this method of returning their thanks to their colleagues of the Representative Board for their valuable assistance. And although at this time they cannot report in full, but would respectfully announce that thirteen hundred and ten dollars ($1,310) has been placed in the hands of the Treasurer, being nearly the whole of the net proceeds. The Committee regret that they are unable to report in full, owing to the neglect on the part of some who were intrusted with tickets, in not making their returns in time for this Report.

From the Agents of Foreign Insurance Companies doing business in this city, the sum of six thousand three hundred and ninety-five dollars and eighty-one cents ($6,395.81) ; from the Firemen's Ball Committee the sum of three thousand two hundred and seventy-four dollars and thirty cents ($3,374.30), being the net proceeds of the 33d Annual Ball.

To comment on the above is unnecessary, for by their acts are they known.

To George C. Genet, Esq., Attorney to the Corporation, the sum of seven hundred and fifty dollars ($750), paid to the Treasurer for penalties collected for violations of the Hoistway Ordinance.

To Wesley Gleason, Esq., Attorney to the Fire Department, the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250), for penalties for violations of the Building Laws of 1860 and 1862.

To the Honorable Common Council, we gratefully acknowledge their annual donation of two thousand dollars ($2,000).

To the proprietors of the various city presses we acknowledge the pecuniary, as well as the editorial, assistance afforded to the Department.

To the proprietors of the Herald and Sun, the full amount of their respective bills.

To the Odd Fellows' Hall Association, through their Secretary, John J. Davies, Esq., the sum of one hundred dollars.

During the past year the Committee on Schools have expended for shoes the amount of sixteen hundred and thirty dollars and seventy-four cents ($1,630.74). They regret to report there still exist two vacancies in the Van Schaick Scholarships. Your earnest attention is called to the above, as it is important that the same should be filled without delay.

The Committee on Fuel have expended the sum of four thousand one hundred and eighty-two dollars and fifty-four cents ($4,182.54) for coal for the various recipients of the Department. Contracts have been made for shoes and coal for the ensuing season; owing to the high price of the above articles, a much larger amount has been expended than heretofore.

Before closing our Report, we deem it our duty to call your attention to the many accidents, some of which resulting fatally, from the too common practice of racing in going to and returning from fires. We do not charge those engaging in such acts as willful, but we are satisfied that in their zeal to discharge their duty they are apt to neglect that caution which is necessary to protect them from injury. It is gratifying to know that the Chief Engineer has endeavored, as far as he has the power, to prevent the practice of racing, as well as in his endeavors to discountenance Runners. The material of the Department being composed of some of our best citizens, there is no reason why they should not continue to preserve the position which it has ever had, as one of the most important of our municipal organizations. Your Trustees, during the past year, have had calls on them for assistance, from the above cause; in some cases the loss of life as the result, from this evil practice.

In conclusion, we congratulate you, as well as our citizens, in the constant improvement of the discipline of the Department; the execution of various laws, conferring power on the Boards of Commissioners, is rapidly removing the evils which had to be contended against in former years; trusting that the members of the Department are fully alive to the importance of persevering in maintaining that high position which can only be awarded to them by a strict compliance with the Laws passed for their general benefit.

The term of service of Messrs. Jonas M. Phillips, Adolphus F. Ockershausen, and George F. Nesbitt, will expire at the annual meeting; it will be necessary to elect three Trustees, for three years each. All of which is respectfully submitted.

By order of the Board of Trustees.

HENRY A. BURR, President.

GEORGE F. NESBITT, Secretary.

SEVENTH REGIMENT ARMORY.

The Seventh Regiment Armory is situated on the east side of the Bowery or Third avenue, and occupies the block between Sixth and Seventh streets. It is constructed of iron, and is three stories high.

The first floor is used as a market, and known as "Tompkins Market." The second floor is divided into company armories and meeting rooms, which are fitted up and furnished at the expense of the several companies of the regiment. The third floor is used for a drill-room by the whole regiment. The basement or floor beneath the market has been prepared for target practice and squad drills.

By resolution of Common Council, approved April 6, 1855, the use of the armory was given the Seventh Regiment, New York National Guard, during the pleasure of the Common Council—but was not occupied until three years after said date.

☞ According to the above estimate, the entire amount of the existing Debt of the City, payable from the Sinking Fund, is abundantly provided for, without taking into consideration the large amount of Real Estate owned by the Corporation, the proceeds of which, when sold, are pledged and will be applied to said Fund. After redeeming the several Stocks and Bonds now outstanding, as they respectively become due and payable, there will be a very large surplus remaining in 1898, the year in which the last of them matures.

* The sum of $4,657.36 is by law (chapter 301, of 1853) required to be raised by tax, annually, and invested by the Commissioners of the Sinking Funds, to constitute a fund for the redemption of the Public Education Stock, when it becomes due. The said amount has accordingly been raised in each year since and including the year 1854, and paid over to the credit of the Sinking Fund for the Redemption of the City Debt for the above purpose, it being calculated that the aggregate amount of such annual contributions, with the accumulation of interest thereon, would produce a sum sufficient to pay the principal of the stock at its maturity, in 1873.

THE FREE ACADEMY.

The Free Academy of the city of New York is the first institution established in this State by the popular sovereignty, and maintained at the public expense, for the purpose of extending to the pupils of the Common Schools the advantages of free education in those higher departments of learning, which cannot be obtained but at a considerable expense in the colleges previously established in this State. It was intended to be the complement of the system of free public schools—making them complete and available for all classes of the people, and by their courses of studies and means of instruction, fitted to meet the wants of all, from the elementary instruction of early childhood to the more various and profound studies in literature and science, which constitute the higher departments of collegiate learning.

The Board of Education of the city of New York took the first action in reference to the establishment of this institution, by the adoption of a resolution, introduced by Commissioner Townsend Harris, July 27, 1847, raising a Committee to report upon the subject. On January 20, 1847, a report was presented by said Committee, recommending the establishment of "a Free College or Academy," and presenting its design, nature, and objects, in this language: "Your Committee will not at present enter into the details of the proposed institution, but will briefly remark, that their design is to offer the idea of a college, which, while it shall be in no way inferior to any of our colleges in the character, amount, or value of the information given to the pupils, the course of studies to be pursued will have more especial reference to the active duties of operative life, rather than those more particularly regarded as necessary for the pulpit, bar, or the medical profession."

The report was published, and considered at a meeting of the Board, held on the 10th of February, 1847, when a Committee was appointed to draft a memorial, in the name of the Board, to be presented to the Legislature, praying, among other things:

First—"That the Legislature will be pleased to pass a law directing the Regents of the University to pay over to the Board of Education such amount of the literature fund as may be apportioned by them to the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth Senate Districts of this State; such moneys to be applied to the support of a free college or academy, in the city of New York, for the instruction of students who have been pupils in the Common Schools of the said city."

Second—"That the Legislature will further authorize the Board of Education in said city to call on the Supervisors, from time to time, to raise by tax such sums as may be required for the erecting, furnishing, and fitting up of said college or academy, and supporting the same, such sums to be notified to, and raised by the said Supervisors, in the same manner and under the same heading of taxation that the moneys for the support of Common Schools in said city are now raised."

The memorial was drafted, and presented to the Legislature, offering, among others, the following views and purposes:

"One of the important objects designed to be secured by establishing a Free Academy is, to bring the advantages of the best education that any school in our country can give within the reach of all the children of the city, whose genius, capacity, and desire of attainments are such as to render it reasonably certain that they may be made, and by such means would become, eminently useful to society; the permanency of our free institutions, the future state of society, the extent to which the laws of the country will be regarded, and social quiet and order preserved, depend essentially upon the virtue and intelligence of the people."

"Another object of the proposed free institution is, to create an additional interest in, and more completely popularize, the Common Schools. It is believed that they will be regarded with additional favor, and attended with increased satisfaction, when the pupils and their parents feel that the children, who have received their primary education in these schools, can be admitted to all the benefits and advantages furnished by the best endowed college in the State, without any expense whatever. It is believed that such an institution as the proposed Free Academy is designed to be, in addition to the great benefits it will confer by annually graduating a large number of highly-educated young men, destined to pursue some of all the various pursuits of life, would stimulate tens of thousands, who might never enter into this academy, to additional industry and greater advances, while in the Common Schools. The certainty, to a young man of good abilities and desirous of making large acquisitions in knowledge, of having the opportunity of gaining as extensive an education as can be acquired in any institution in the State, if his parents can only furnish him the means to subsist at home, is in the highest degree cheering, while the certainty that the limited earnings of his parents will preclude him, in the existing state of things, from having any such advantages, tends to repress such generous aspirations, paralyze effort, and prevent the full development of his ability to become extensively useful to the class in which his lot may be cast, or to society at large."

Such were the objects presented to the Legislature, to induce the passage of the law authorizing the establishment of the Free Academy. The people were promised an institution which, in the character, amount, and value of the education imparted, should be inferior to none of our colleges, and at the same time should be so organized that the course of studies to be pursued would tend to educate the pupils practically, and particularly qualify them to apply their learning to advance and perfect the operations of the various trades and occupations in which they may engage; and, also, to furnish peculiar facilities for instruction of the highest order in various branches of knowledge, omitted altogether, or not practically taught, in our colleges. These views were approved by the Board, and concurred in by the succeeding Boards, who always have considered the Academy as a part of the Common School system of the city, by which, in easy and continuous development, students may pass on, as far as they are able, to the higher levels of literary and scientific education—an institution uniting in a properly progressive system the usual duties of the American Academy and the American College—retaining always its characteristic peculiarity of an agency of the Government, in offering to all the people, equally, the means of educating their sons up to the point from which they respectively are to start in the pursuits of manhood and citizenship, and meeting the wants not only of those whose wealth is largely taxed to support education, but of those, more numerous, whose aggregate taxes are still larger, and also those whose more slender resources are subject to no direct pecuniary tax, but who, in numberless indirect exactions, contribute their full share in supporting the burdens of organized society.

The act authorizing the Board to establish a Free Academy was passed May 7, 1847, providing, as a condition to its becoming a law, that the question, whether such academy should be established according to its provisions, should be submitted to the people at the election to be held on the first Monday of June, 1847, and that a majority of the votes given must be in favor of the proposition. The question was so submitted, and 19,404 votes were given in favor of it, to 3,409 against—leaving a majority of 15,995.

ORGANIZATION OF THE FREE ACADEMY.

By the statute, it is made the duty of the Board of Education:

"To continue to furnish, through the Free Academy, the benefits of education gratuitously, to persons who have been pupils in the Common Schools of the said city and county, for a period of time to be regulated by the Board of Education, not less than one year.

"To supervise, manage, and govern said Free Academy, and make all needful rules and regulations therefor; fix the number and compensation of teachers and others to be employed therein; prescribe the preliminary examination, and the terms and conditions on which pupils shall be received and instructed therein and discharged therefrom; direct the course of studies therein, and provide in all things for the good government and management of the said Free Academy; and purchase the books, apparatus, stationery, and other things necessary and expedient to enable the said Free Academy to be properly and successfully conducted, and to keep the said building or buildings properly repaired and furnished. And the Board, upon the recommendation of the Faculty of the Free Academy, may grant the usual degrees and diplomas in the arts to such persons as shall have completed a full course of study in the said Free Academy.

"To appoint annually a standing committee of not less than five persons of their number, who shall, subject to the control, supervision, and approbation of the said Board, constitute an Executive Committee, for the care, government, and management of the said Free Academy, under the rules and regulations prescribed as aforesaid, whose duty it shall be to make detailed reports to the said Board of Education, and, among other things, to recommend the rules and regulations which they deem necessary and proper for the said academy."

The organization of the institution, based on the above enactments, is shown in the following digest of the by-laws of the Board of Education and regulations of the Faculty.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

The examination of candidates for admission takes place immediately after the general examination in July, and continues at the same hours every day, until concluded. No student can be admitted to the Academy unless he resides in the city, be fourteen years of age, shall have attended the Common Schools in the city twelve months, and shall pass a good examination in

Spelling,	Algebra, as far as quadratic equations,
Reading,	Geography, [inclusive,
Writing,	History of the United States,
English Grammar,	Constitution of the United States,
Arithmetic,	Elementary Book-keeping.

No candidate can be examined for admission unless he shall present to the Principal of the Academy a certificate, in the form prepared by the Executive Committee, signed by the Principal of the school or schools of which he has been a member, and specifying the age of the candidate, the Common Schools of the city which he has attended, the length of time in each, and when. If the number qualified for admission be more than can be admitted, the preference is given to those who have attended the Common Schools the greater period.

At either of the regular examinations, members may be admitted to one or all of the classes, to pursue the studies of any one or more departments, provided they shall have attended the Common Schools the requisite period — shall be of the proper age — shall pass the proper examination in the requisites for admission, and also an examination satisfactory to the Faculty, in the previous studies of the class or departments to which they are to be admitted.

No person is allowed to be present at the examination, except the instructors in the Academy and members of the Board of Education, and other school officers ; neither are the names of the candidates, nor the schools from which they come, made known to the instructors conducting the examinations, but each candidate is designated during examination by a number given to him on a card, by the Principal. Only the names of such as have passed a good examination are afterwards ascertained, in order to be inscribed on the rolls of the Academy.

Students are not allowed to reside or board in the Academy ; they reside or board with their parents or guardians. By removing from the city, they forfeit their right to remain in the institution.

Graduates may become resident graduates, and continue their studies at option.

DISCIPLINE.

The discipline of the Academy is mild, persuasive, and just, but steady, strict, and unyielding. The law on this point is clear and explicit.

"Every student," it says, "shall conduct himself according to the rules of good manners, good morals, and manly propriety; shall give punctual and constant attendance to all his duties; shall use the property of the institution with care and economy, and restore the same when required."

The punishments inflicted in the Academy are demerit marks, private admonition, admonition by the Principal in presence of the Section and of the instructor in the recitation-room, suspension by direction of the Principal, public admonition by the Principal in presence of all the students at roll-call, final admonition by the Principal in a meeting of the Faculty, and dismission for misconduct, to be directed by a vote of the Faculty.

Every violation of the rules is recorded in the Book of Discipline, together with the degree of punishment inflicted, and the amount of demerits received. No student is demerited without receiving notice of the fact, and the cause.

Every student admitted into the Academy receives a certificate thereof, stating that on leaving the institution with a good character, after one year, he shall receive another certificate or diploma, stating the period he has been in the Academy, and the studies there pursued by him; and, provided he shall have satisfactorily accounted for all the books and other property committed to him, and shall have maintained a good character, he shall, on so leaving the Academy, receive such diploma; but no student shall receive a certificate of dismission if he be dismissed for misconduct; and, in each certificate, it shall be stated that he is furnished with a statement of his standing in the Academy, as it shall appear on the records during his whole connection with the Academy.

It shall not be lawful for any public cartman to neglect or refuse to carry and transport a good and sufficient load, as much as can be conveniently and safety stowed on his cart, or is reasonable for one horse to draw, nor any article of less than two thousand pounds weight, when required so to do, unless he be then actually otherwise employed; and every public cartman and public porter shall be entitled to be paid the legal rate of compensation allowed and provided in this ordinance, immediately upon the carting or transportation of any article or thing; and it may be lawful for any such public cartman or public porter to retain any article or thing so carried or transported by him, for which he is not so paid his cartage, and to convey the same, without delay, to the office of Chief of Police, and he shall be entitled to the lawful rate of pay or compensation for the so conveying. It shall not be lawful for any person who has been licensed to keep public carts, or to be a public cartman, and whose license has been suspended or revoked by the Mayor, to keep, drive, or use any public cart in the city of New York, under the penalty of twenty-five dollars for every such offense.

The stanchions of every public cart employed in the transportation of any fire-wood shall be shouldered with a band of iron around the part which enters the mortise, and the mortise cased with iron, so as to prevent the wearing of the stanchion or mortise; or, at least, three feet distant from the floor of the cart, there shall be fixed across, from one stanchion to the other, an iron chain, so as to prevent the stanchions from spreading, and no public cartman shall cart any fire-wood in violation of any of these provisions.

LAWS TO REGULATE PUBLIC PORTERS.

1. The Mayor shall license and appoint as many and such persons as he may think expedient, to be public porters of the city of New York, and revoke or suspend any or all such licenses, at his pleasure; and it shall not be lawful for any person to use any wheelbarrow or hand-cart, to carry within said city, for hire, wages, or pay for such conveyance, or to be at any hotel, boarding-house, ferry, steamboat-landing, railroad-station, or depot, and solicit of strangers, travelers, citizens, or other persons, or accept the conveyance of baggage, or other articles, without being licensed, as aforesaid, by the Mayor.

This section shall not be construed to prevent any person keeping, or employed in, any hotel or boarding-house, from conveying any baggage or other articles to or from such hotel or boarding-house, and using a hand-cart or wheel-barrow therefor; provided the name of the hotel or boarding-house, and the keeper thereof, be painted distinctly on both sides of such wheel-barrow or hand-cart, and on a badge worn on the front of his hat or cap, so as to be easily and distinctly seen.

2. All licenses to public porters, granted as aforesaid, shall run one year from the date thereof, and may be renewed by the Mayor at any time within the said year for a succeeding year.

3. Every person receiving a license to be a public porter, as aforesaid, shall pay to the Mayor, for the use of the city, one dollar; and a further sum of seventy-five cents upon the renewal of every such license.

4. Every public porter shall wear in a conspicuous place about his person, so as to be easily seen, a brass plate, or badge, on which shall be engraven his name, the words "public porter," and the number of his license; and it shall be unlawful for any other person to wear or exhibit any badge, purporting to be, resembling, or similar to, the badge of a public porter; and no public porter shall permit any other person to wear his badge, or use his name in any way whatever, in the transportation or conveyance of anything.

5. Public porters shall be entitled to charge and receive for the carrying or conveyance of any article, any distance within half a mile, twelve cents, if carried by hand, and twenty-five cents if carried on a wheelbarrow or hand-cart; if the distance exceeds half a mile, and is within one mile, one-half the above rates in addition thereto, and in the same proportion for any greater distance.

6. If any public porter shall ask or demand any greater rate of pay or compensation for the carrying or conveyance of articles than is herein provided, he shall not be entitled to any pay for the said service; and to so ask, demand, or receive any such greater pay or compensation, shall be deemed a violation of this ordinance.

7. It shall not be lawful for any person to represent himself as, or to wear or exhibit any badge, inscription, card, or device, purporting or implying that he is employed or authorized by the keeper, proprietor, agent, or officer of any hotel, boarding-house, vessel, steamboat or railroad company, to solicit, receive, or convey persons, baggage, or other things to or from any such hotel, boarding-house, vessel, steamboat, or railroad company's station or depot, without being actually and duly authorized by such keeper, proprietor, officer, or agent, so to do, under the penalty of twenty-five dollars for every offense.

All persons, who shall violate or fail to comply with any of the provisions of this ordinance, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished pursuant to the provisions of sections 20 and 21 of an act relative to the powers of the Common Council of the city of New York, and the criminal courts of said city, passed by the Legislature of the State of New York, January 23, 1833, or, in lieu thereof, shall forfeit and pay, for the use of said city, ten dollars for each and every offense, except where a penalty is prescribed in said ordinance.

Every driver or owner of a hackney coach, carriage, or cab, shall carry, transport, and convey, in and upon his coach, carriage, or cab, in addition to the person or persons therein, one trunk, valise, saddle-bag, carpet-bag, portmanteau or box, if he be requested so to do, for each passenger, without charge or compensation therefor; but for every trunk or other such article above named, more than one for each passenger, he shall be entitled to demand and receive the sum of six cents.

In case of disagreement as to distance or price, the same shall be determined by the Mayor, or Superintendent of Hackney Coaches or Carriages.

The owner of any hackney coach or carriage shall not demand or receive any pay for the conveyance of any passenger, unless the number of the carriage, and the rates and prices of fare, shall be fixed and placed in a manner hereinafter directed by section second of title fourth of this ordinance, at the time such passenger may be conveyed in such carriage.

The owner or driver of any hackney coach or carriage shall not be entitled to recover or receive any pay from any person from whom he shall have demanded any greater price or rates than he may be authorized to receive as aforesaid.

Upon the trial of any cause commenced for the recovery of any of the aforesaid prices or rates, it shall be incumbent upon the plaintiff or plaintiffs, in such action, to prove that the number and prices or rates were placed and fixed in pursuance of the provisions of this ordinance, at the time the services were rendered, for which the suit may be brought.

No owner or driver of any hackney coach or carriage in the city of New York shall ask, demand, or receive any larger sum than he or they may be entitled to receive as aforesaid, under the penalty of ten dollars for every such offense, to be sued for and recovered from the owner or owners, or driver of any such hackney coach or carriage, severally and respectively.

The Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty of the city of New York, in Common Council convened, do ordain as follows:

§ 1. All the provisions of this ordinance, to which this is an addition, as far as relates to carts and cartmen, and not inconsistent herewith, excepting sections 2, 3, 5, 10, 17, and 18, are extended to, and shall include and be applicable to, all wagons and other vehicles, commonly known as express wagons, which shall be kept or used, driven or employed, for the transportation of anything whatsoever, to or from any place within the city of New York, from or to any place whatsoever, for hire, wages, or pay; provided always, that the owner or owners of such wagons or vehicles shall have a place in the city of New York for the transaction of such business.

FORMATION OF WARDS.

In 1683, the city of New York was divided into six wards, under the designation of "South," "Dock," "East," "North," "West," and "Out" Wards; for map showing the boundaries of these wards, see page 212 of Manual of the Common Council for 1848.

The Montgomerie Charter, dated January 15, 1730, designates, in addition to the above, the boundaries of the "Montgomerie" Ward.

By an act of the colonial government, passed February 28, 1791, the wards are designated numerically from 1 to 7, and the bounds of each described.

By an act of the Legislature, passed March 8, 1803, the wards are increased to nine, numerically designated, and boundaries described.

The Tenth Ward was erected from the Seventh, by act of March 18, 1808.

The Eleventh and Twelfth Wards were formed, and the boundaries of all described, by an act passed April 25, 1825. (Chap. 195, Laws of 1825.)

HISTORICAL.

Indian Wars in and about New Amsterdam.

BY D. T. V.

AS might be supposed, in a community established in a region occupied by a barbarous people, the various causes of difference which always arise from the vicinage of nations having different castes, customs, and interests, were a very serious cause of trouble and annoyance to the Dutch in New Amsterdam. It was, however, the settled policy of the Government to avoid giving offense to their savage neighbors, and for the same reason to overlook causes of complaint which they might justly entertain against them.

It is not too much to say, on behalf of the Indians in this neighborhood, that, whether from fear of or friendship towards the Dutch, their historical record compares favorably, in respect to their fairness and propriety of behavior, with those of other sections of this continent. While individual instances of treachery and crime occasionally occurred during the earlier years of the settlement, yet these do not seem to have been sympathized with by the natives, and many years elapsed before any concerted system of enmity was entertained against the peace of the country.

Still, however, the progress of events gradually tended towards such a culmination; the Dutch were growing stronger, and with their strength grew the disposition to despise the original lords of the land. Tract by tract the hunting grounds of the natives had been purchased from them for trifles, which soon became destroyed or useless, and the hereditary lands of the Indians, their maize lands and hunting grounds, became the property of the whites, and their plantations sprang up adjoining the uninclosed maize lands of the Indians. A document which we will quote illustrates the danger apprehended by the Government to arise from the latter cause, and the desire evinced by them to avoid this obvious cause of difficulty:

In Council, May 9, 1640—"Whereas, daily complaints are made by the savages, that the hogs and other animals destroy their corn-hills when the corn is beginning to grow, and great injury may arise therefrom, inasmuch as it is possible maize may be very scarce next fall, and our people may want in consequence, and moreover it should be considered that the savages may be minded to leave our neighborhood, and, indulging in their spite against us, become sooner or later causes of great mischief.

"We are under orders to avoid this, and therefore, having given the subject due consideration, the Director-General and Council command all inhabitants whose lands are adjoining the plantations of savages, to have their horses, cows, hogs, goats, and sheep kept in fenced pastures, so that they cannot injure the corn of the savages, under penalty of compensating for losses, and a fine to the Attorney-General."

Then, again, an extensive trade grew up between the two nations, both in articles adapted to foreign trade and those of domestic consumption. The Indians not only sold to the Dutch their skins and peltries, which were the chief articles of export to the Old World, but they supplied them for a long time with all, or nearly all, the corn, beans, and other grains, also oysters, fish, and venison, consumed by the people. In an intercourse which necessarily became familiar, and where the capacities for successful barter were so much in favor of the civilized race, jealousies and distrust grew up. Many of the Dutch traders, intent on a speedy acquisition of gain, were grasping, overreaching, and dishonest; and although kept in wholesome fear when the power of the natives was so greatly predominant, the same restraint was thrown off as the decaying strength of the Indians became more obvious.

The completion of Fort Amsterdam, in 1635, was the most ostensible intimation to the Indians that they were gradually being brought under the yoke of foreign masters, and the restless and ambitious spirits among them naturally chafed under the conviction.

Not long after, their restiveness became more apparent than had previously been observed; opportunities of private quarrel were not only not avoided on their part, but sought by them, and, as their passions, when excited, were under slight control, they sometimes committed excesses at which offense could not be taken.

There were also among the Dutch individual characters whose former pursuits and vagrant modes of life little fitted them to patiently endure personal injuries or insults. Some had been freebooters among the islands in the Gulf, and been thrown by the wave of fortune upon this scene of adventure, and some, though brought hither by ordinary currents of trade and speculation, were adventurous and sanguine spirits, diverted to new pursuits from the military service.

From the various causes intimated, the spirit of retaliation grew up in the minds of the Dutch, and an inroad of a few beggarly savages upon the pig-pens or cattle-yards of the settlers occasioned a popular ferment; and, when to these minor offenses was added the occasional murder of an unlucky settler, revenge took the form of retaliation by war against the race with whom the perpetrators of these outrages were allied.

We should not overlook, in this connection, the evils arising from the immoralities which grew up under the habits of familiar association between the two races. The squaws seem to have been of easy virtue, and needed but the invitation to prostitute themselves in the most public manner. An instance, among many recorded, will illustrate the debasing character of this intercourse.

April 7, 1639.—The Attorney-General commenced a suit against Hans Stein, a corporal, charging him with being guilty of fornication while on duty, and in confirmation submitted affidavits which stated substantially that while Stein and the other soldiers were on duty in the Corps de Garde, he at the time lying upon a bench, a squaw came in the Corps de Garde, whom Stein called to him and asked to lie by his side, which she did, and he covered her with his blanket. She remained until morning.

For this (with some other more trifling offenses) Hans Stein was condemned by the Court to "ride three hours on the wooden horse," and do duty as a common soldier during fourteen days.

But without being more minute in instancing causes of the growing enmity arising between the two races, it is sufficient to say, that the Government anticipated danger in the future, and pursued measures to secure the whites from the consequences of an outbreak.

March, 1639.—The Director-General and Council notified their agents at Fort Orange and other remote places that, as they had discovered that many persons, in violation of the orders of the Government, were in the habit of selling to the Indians guns, powder, and balls, and that some misfortunes had arisen therefrom already, and if no measures were taken against the practice, the most pernicious consequences must result; they therefore forbade all persons to sell to any Indians, in this neighborhood, any guns, powder, or ball, under penalty of death, and further offering a reward, equivalent to twenty dollars, for information which would lead to a conviction of such offense.

It was further ordered at the same time, that no person should sail with boats to Fort Orange, or other places named, except with a permit from the proper officers of Government.

September 22, 1639.—The inhabitants were warned by the Government not to trade with Indians at a rate below what was equivalent to nine bushels of maize for a frieze coat, until further orders.

The progress of the rising difficulties will be illustrated, to some extent, by the following record of the Council:

July 16, 1640.—"Whereas, the Indians living in the Raretang (Raritan) have heretofore been very hostile to us, even to the effusion of b'ood, yet in 1634 we concluded peace with them, and continued to trade with them, sending there, every spring, a shallop, with goods, to trade for beaver-skins.

"But in this spring, 1640, our shallop then having only three men in it, the savages tried to surprise them, with the intention to kill the men and plunder the cargo, but fortunately they were repulsed, with no loss to us but that of a canoe. Shortly afterwards, they appeared on Staten Island, and killed some hogs and plundered a negro's cottage.

"For these insults we demanded to have amends, and gave them notice to that effect, but they only mocked and laughed at us.

"Now this is a matter of great consequence, as it affects the dignity of the Government as well as the security of our lives and our property.

"Therefore, we have resolved to send thither fifty soldiers and twenty sailors, with the secretary and a sergeant, with peremptory orders, that unless the savages are willing to make peace, with compensation for damages, that then the force shall assault them, destroy their corn, and bring in as many prisoners as they can capture."

July 4, 1641.—"Whereas, the savages of Raretan daily grow bolder and bolder in their hostilities, notwithstanding they sent a messenger to us to solicit peace, who, at the time he was dismissed, assured us that within twelve days the talk of his chief should be brought to us. This, however, has not been done, and the same Indians whom we treated with so much kindness have, in the mean time, killed four tobacco planters laboring on the lands of Mr. De Vries and David Pietersen, on Staten Island, at the same time firing the dwelling and tobacco house.

"From these occurrences, the exposed settlers fear for the loss of their lives and goods, of which, indeed, there is great danger, as the Government cannot, on account of the thickness of the woods at this season, as well as the weakness of our forces, lend them assistance.

"Wherefore, considering the circumstances, we have adopted the means which seem to us best suited to the emergency, viz. : to secure the help of our Indian allies in their neighborhood, over whose territory the enemy must cross, and who may stop them in their wild forays, or at least give timely notice of their approach. And in order to encourage them the more, and lure them with greater ardor to espouse our cause, we engaged to pay them, for every head of a Raretan, ten fathoms of sewant, and for every head of any of those who murdered our people on Staten Island, twenty fathoms of sewant."

These measures, however, failed of a beneficial result, and the long-expected event of a general war began to be taken into more serious consideration by the Dutch.

On the 29*th August*, 1641, the following propositions were made by the Director-General and Council to the heads of families residing here :

"1. If it is not just that the murder lately committed by a savage upon Claes Smits be avenged; and in case the Indians will not surrender the murderer, if it is not just to destroy the whole village to which he belongs?

"2. When and in what manner this should be executed?

"3. By whom it can be effected?"

Twelve men being selected by the people to answer these queries, replied as follows :

"To the first. They deem it every way expedient that the murder should be avenged, at such time as the opportunity, under God, shall offer best advantages. In the mean time, preparations should be made, and the Director-General is requested to provide a sufficient number of coats-of-mail for those who go out.

"To the second. Trade and intercourse should be kept up with them as usual until the time comes. All men to be on their guard, but none to adopt hostile measures. When the Indian warriors are absent on their hunting expeditions, then we may divide ourselves in two parties, one to land at Rapela, and the other at Wechquaeskeck, and take them by surprise on both sides. The Director to employ as many negroes as he can spare, and arm them with a tomahawk and small half-pike.

"To the third. That, as the people recognize no other head than the Director-General, therefore they prefer that he should lead the van, while they, on their part, offer their persons to follow his steps and to obey his commands."

They deemed it further advisable that the Director should send once more, or twice, or even thrice, a shallop to demand the surrender of the murderer, and that this should be done in a manner of ostensible good understanding, and for the furtherance of justice merely, thus luring the savages into a sense of security, without using threats.

Thus having advised, the twelve men took an oath to keep matters secret, and were invited to participate freely in the discussions as well as the measures to be put in execution in anticipation of the time of action.

Order in Council—Declaration of War.

February 25, 1643. "We authorize Maryn Andriesen, at his request, with his associates, to attack a party of savages skulking behind Corlaer's Hook or plantation, and act with them in such a manner as they shall deem proper, and the time and opportunity will permit.

"Sergeant Rodolf is commanded to take a troop of soldiers, and lead them to Pavonia, there to drive away and destroy the savages lying near Jan Evertsen's, but to spare, as much as possible, their wives and children, and take them prisoners. Hans Stein, who is well acquainted with the haunts of the Indians, is to go with him. The exploit should be executed at night, with the greatest caution and prudence. God bless the expedition."

A resumé of the Indian troubles was soon after published by the Government.

February 27, 1643. Whereas, the insolence of the savages roving all around us has within the last two or three years risen to such a height, notwithstanding the kindness continually bestowed by us upon them, even indeed as much as we could bestow upon Christians, by taking them under our wings when they were persecuted by their enemies, yet their malice continually increased.

"They insolently destroyed many of the goats, hogs, cows, and horses, belonging to our people, and finally set their hands to destroy Christian people, and at various times several innocent persons were murdered under the cloak of friendship, so that no inhabitant felt himself safe in his own house, and much less might he in security cultivate his own fields.

"And whereas, we left nothing untried to persuade them to surrender the murderers, but all in vain, but our efforts seemed rather to increase their insolence, and therefore it was, in the course of last year, concluded to send a body of men among the savages to appease the blood of our murdered ones. But the expedition was fruitless, having been misled in the darkness of the night; however, it spread terror among them so that they sued for peace, which was listened to provided they surrendered the murderer of Claes Rademacker. But nothing came of it; on the contrary, going on further with their wanton injuries, they killed Gerrit Van Voorst, living behind the Col (near Newark Bay), while he was roofing his house; and they also killed an Englishman in their own village, and refused either to deliver up, or to punish the murderer.

"Indeed, it now seems to appear as if they really had the opinion that we only landed here to become their vassals, as they have recently approached within half a mile of the fort in squads of fifty to a hundred men. Then crossed over the river to Pavonia (Jersey City), leaving behind them a suspicion that they were plotting to commit, as they boasted, a general massacre here, as had been actually committed in Virginia and other places.

"We were thus roused to seek for justice and revenge for Christian blood, for God would not permit us to endure their indignities any longer.

"In this mind, some persons, delegated by the people, petitioned us to be allowed to take revenge, while those savages were within our reach, apparently delivered in our hands by Divine Providence. We entertained an aversion to bring the country into a condition of uproar, and pointed out to those persons the consequences to result from their design, particularly with regard to those whose dwellings were situated in exposed places, as our forces were too few to attempt to defend every house with a sufficient number of soldiers, and we also presented to them other considerations. They, however, persisted in their desire, and told us that if we refused our consent, the blood would come upon our own heads, and we finally found ourselves obliged to accede to their wishes, and give them the assistance of our soldiers. And these latter killed a considerable number, as did also the militia on their side.

A party of the savages who escaped, assaulted the exposed and distant dwellings, in every direction, burned four houses with all the contents and the stock, killed ten Christians. Upon our advancing, however, with our soldiers, they were compelled to retreat, and further excesses were prevented. But our soldiers were too few to defend every place, and, considering the state the country was in, we thought it advisable to take as many of the farmers as offered themselves into our service. Indeed, they threatened that otherwise they would remove to the North, as it was in vain to attempt planting here until the heathens were curbed. This accomplished, every man might cultivate his land in peace. We engaged them therefore in our service for one or two months, and we do not at all doubt that in the mean time we shall obtain a salutary peace. Our inhabitants are separated from each other at considerable distances, over a space of ten miles east and west, and seven miles north and south, from which it will be seen that we cannot provide for the protection of all with such scanty means as we here possess."

March 4, 1643. "Whereas we continue to suffer much trouble and loss from these heathen, and many of the inhabitants find their lives and property in jeopardy, which no doubt is the consequence of our manifold sins; Therefore, the director and council have deemed it proper that next Wednesday, being the fourth of March, shall be holden a general fast and prayer, for which every individual is solicited to prepare himself, that we may all, with true penitence and incessant prayer, seek God's blessed mercy, and not give occasion through our iniquities that God's holy name may be contemned by the heathens."

The following proclamation shows that a show of peace was soon after made with some of the Indians; but, as will afterwards appear, the flame which had been ignited was not to be so quietly extinguished:

"Whereas, some time past, several misunderstandings have taken place between the savages of Long Island and our nation, by reason of which the blood on both sides has streamed over the land, houses have been robbed and burned, the stock killed, and grain carried off by the Indians. Now, this is to signify that a solid peace has been established between us and those who follow the banner of their Great Chief Pennewitz; so that all injuries on both sides are hereby forgiven and forgotten.

"Wherefore, all our inhabitants are commanded to respect said peace religiously, and not in any manner to injure any Indian belonging to the tribes residing on Long Island, unless in return for actual hostilities committed by them against us, in which case every one is free to defend himself; and to this end, also, it is further agreed to, and the savages are commanded not to approach any of our inhabitants with any sort of arms.

"All which, under penalty of arbitrary correction and of further punishment as disturbers of the public peace.

"Done and published in Fort Amsterdam, March 25, 1643, N. S."

On the 25th of April, 1643, a treaty similar in substance to the above was concluded between the Dutch authorities and Oratatnin, Sachem of the savages residing at Ackinkeshacky, and delegated, also, by those residing at Tappaan, Reckgawawank, Kicktawanck, and Sint-sinck.

In connection with the fight at Pavonia (Jersey City), in February, the following declaration of parties who were present shows an interesting incident of the fight:

"We, the undersigned, sergeant, corporal, and soldiers, at the request of the Attorney-General, attest that on the —— February, 1643, in the morning, after we had beaten a party of savages at Pavonia, behind Egbert Woutersen's, the wife of Dirck Straetmaker, with a few Englishmen, arrived on the spot where the slain were lying, with a view to plunder maize or any other article. We declare solemnly, we warned said Dirck Straetmaker and his wife, and told them to go home, to which Dirck replied, 'there is no danger. If there were a hundred savages none of them would hurt us.' Upon which, the undersigned left the spot, according to their orders, to go to the house of Egbert. When they arrived there they heard a shriek; then the sergeant ordered some of his soldiers towards the spot, where they found Dirck, aforesaid, wounded (who died awhile after of his wounds), and his wife dead. The soldiers saved the English, who had only one gun amongst them all.

"Thomas Willet declared that Dirck aforesaid, being asked, 'Why did you not come with us when we warned you,' answered: 'I might have well escaped by running, but I did not wish to leave my poor wife.'

"All which, the undersigned declare to be true. Done 18th May, 1643, in New Netherlands.

"The mark of JURIAEN RODOLF, Sergeant.
PETER PIETERSEN, Corporal.
THOMAS WILLET."

The war progressed through two years, the incidents of which, between the first fight at Pavonia and its closing scenes, we do not propose to give. It suffices to say that they were attended with all the horrors connected with a war with barbarians.

May 24, 1645.—"Appeared in the fort a Chief, WITTANYWHEN, Sachem of Mockgonnehonch, situated on Long Island, with forty-seven armed savages, who offered themselves to do any service to the Government. On which the Director called together the following persons, namely: Mons. La Montagnié, Captain Underhill, Ensign de Lecuw, Olof Stevensen, and Gysbert Opdyck, Commissaries, and Jan Evertsen, Jacob Stoffelsen, delegates, before whom the Sachem made his speech. Upon which, it was resolved that he shall embark in one of the company's yachts, and sail towards a spot where he may land his spies, to learn where the enemy is to be found, after which, he must leave nothing untried to beat and destroy them. When the work is accomplished, it is expected that he will return hither, to be recompensed according to his merits. The Director shall provide the yacht with victuals for their sustenance, during the expedition."

May 29, 1645.—"Appeared before the Director and Council, WITTANYWHEN, Sachem of Mockgonneconk, declaring that he was fully qualified by his brethren, named as follows, viz.: ROCKON, the grootist Sachem of Cotsjewannink, MAMAWICKTOW, Sachem of Catseyick, WARINTENICH, Sachem of Miranto-hacky, and declared, as well in his own name as in that of his brothers, that they had taken under their protection the villages named Onwerwiking, Suchty-hacky, Sicketany-hacky, Nisinqui-hacky (at which place the Mattineconcks are now residing), and Reckon-hacky, and solicited to make a treaty of peace and friendship.

"They engaged that neither by themselves, nor by any of their people in those villages, should Christians be injured in any manner whatsoever, but on the contrary should be treated with kindness, and inasmuch as he, in testimony of his good faith, proposed with his party to take the field against our enemies, and performed his promise, actually returning with the head and hands of one of the enemy, and further solemnly engages to assist us henceforward, always against the savages our enemies, which we accept. In confirmation of this treaty we engage to make a present to said Sachem, and promise that as long as they keep their engagement faithfully, we will make no attempt to conquer them, but show them every mark of friendship.

"In truth whereof this was signed by us, and confirmed with our seal, and is in this manner delivered to the Sachem, our seal being annexed below with a ribbon, on the 29th of May, 1645, in Fort Amsterdam, in New Netherland."

"This day being the 30TH OF AUGUST, 1645, appeared in the Fort Amsterdam, before the Director and Council, in the presence of the whole Commonalty, the sachems or chiefs of the savages, as well in their own behalf as being authorized by the neighboring savages, namely, ORATANEY, Chief of Ackinkes-hacky, SESSEKENICK and WILLIAM, Chiefs of Tappan and Reckgawawank, PACHAM and PENNEWINK (who were here yesterday and gave their power of attorney to the former, and also took upon themselves to answer for those of Onaney and the vicinity, of Majanwetinnemin, of Marechowick, of Nyack and its neighborhood), and AEPJEN, who personally appeared, speaking in behalf of Wappinx, Wiquaeskecks, Sintsinks, and Kicktawons.

"FIRST. They agree to conclude with us a solid and durable peace, which they promise to keep faithfully, as we also obligate ourselves to do on our part.

"SECOND. If it happen (which God in his mercy avert), that there arise some difficulty between us and them, no warfare shall ensue in consequence, but they shall complain to our Governor and we shall complain to their sachems.

"If any person shall be killed or murdered, justice shall be directly administered upon the murderer, that we may henceforth live in peace and amity.

"THIRD. They are not to come on Manhattan Island, nor in the neighborhood of Christian dwellings with their arms, neither will we approach their villages with our guns, except we are conducted thither by a savage to give them warning.

"FOURTH. And, whereas, there is yet among them an English girl whom they promised to conduct to the English at Stamford, they still engage, if she is not already conducted there, to bring her there in safety, and we promise in return to pay them the ransom which has been promised by the English.

"All which is promised to be religiously performed throughout the whole of New Netherlands.

"Done in Fort Amsterdam, in the open air, by the Director and Council in New Netherland, and the whole commonalty, called together for this purpose in the presence of the MAQUAS ambassadors, who were solicited to assist in this negotiation as arbitrators, and Cornelius Anthonissen, their interpreter and an arbitrator with them in this solemn affair. Done as above."

The original treaty was signed with the mark of Sisendogo; the mark of Claes Norman; the mark of Orataney; the mark of Sesseke-mis; the mark of William Tappan; William Kieft, La Montagne; the mark of Jacob Stoffelsen, Jan Underhill, Francis Doughty, George Baxter, Richard Smith, Gysbert Opdyck; the mark of Aepjen, Sachem of the Mohicans, Jan Evertsen Bout, Oloff Stevensen, Cornelis Haykens; the mark of Cornelis Teunisen.

Below was written, "By my order," and signed "Cornelis Van Tienhoven, Secretary."

Thus closed the first Indian war, and for ten years subsequently comparative quiet and good understanding prevailed, not unbroken, however, as the following record shows. Governor Stuyvesant, subsequent to the period before written of, had come into power, and his policy was one of conciliation.

July 17, 1647.—"We, undersigned, declare that on this 6th ——, being in the Company's service, and having been sent by Director Kieft, at the request of the savages called Raritans, with the intention to trade with them when we arrived at their usual trading place in the yacht, the Raritan savages, instead of their customary kindness and courtesy, commenced with mocking us, then coming on board the vessel they showed us squirrels, and while offering them for sale struck Cors. Pietersen's face with one of them. Several of the savages then arrived at the vessel, armed with axes, blades, and other weapons, in consequence of which we were compelled to haul off, and descending the creek struck ground and remained fast. When the Raritans observed this they followed us in their canoes, and being all stout, lusty fellows, gave us a lift and ranged their canoes on both sides the yacht, and offered to bring us again to the spot which we left, but our chief care was to prevent a surprise and preserve our arms. The savages, whom we had left, then insisted on our coming on shore, and called to us to bring their friends on shore and come with them; but we declined and said, 'You have your own canoes, make use of those.' When they perceived, at last, that we were on our guard, they dared not make any further attempt. But meanwhile they kept our canoe in spite of us, nor could we recover it, as they were too numerous for us. Happily at that instant it pleased Almighty God to raise a violent storm of thunder, lightning, and hailstones, through which we escaped, when, although the creek was very narrow, they could not hurt us from the other side with their arrows.

"This we declare to be the truth. Done 17th July, 1647.
HARMAN BOGARDUS,
HARMAN PONNER.
The mark of CORS. PIETERSEN."

August 23, 1647.—"This day appeared in court certain delegates from the village of Hempstead, Long Island, who informed the court that they received notice from two Indians that Mayawettinamu, or, as he is now called by others, Antinoometoone, of Oversten Necochgar wodt, had endeavored to lure some of the savages to make an attack on the people at Hempstead and destroy their village.

"The secretary is ordered to go thither in a yacht, and ascertain from the Indians whether the report is true or not, and to take with him a piece of cloth, with some trifles, for the Chief of Catsjajock, and offer a renewal of friendship."

Aug. 26, 1647—Extract from Council Minutes.—"With regard to the troubles and difficulties with the Indians, it is our opinion that we ought to make our utmost exertions to avert their displeasure and the explosion of another war, in which case the farmers would be ruined entirely, while the hope of a reconciliation would be finally destroyed. We deem it, therefore, far more advisable to cement the existing peace, by making a few presents to the sachems of the Indians, though by all means to avoid the appearance of doing it through necessity, and more than all, to avoid the appearance of doing it in compliance with any former promises of which they have the right to enforce the execution, for many of them have more than once pretended that we engaged ourselves at the conclusion of the peace to offer payment for the blood which was shed, which, by their calculations, would amount to a vast sum. But we ought to give the matter an appearance as that the presents were intended by the Superior Lords of the Company as a cement for the renewed alliance and friendship, and to satisfy them that this present Government has no responsibility whatever as to the late war which the last Governor might have stirred up, and that we have no inclination whatever for new troubles or war, but desire to live with them in peace, alliance, and friendship, as with good neighbors, in token of which we are pleased to offer them these our presents."

February 8, 1648.—"Whereas, a letter was sent to the Director-General and Council from the colony of Renselaerswyck by an Indian, in which they mention the wretched affair of Harman Meyndersen, late Commissary in Fort Orange, who being suspected of having committed sodomy, had absconded, and was pursued and discovered in the country in the hut of a savage, when, in his defense, he set fire to said house, by which not only all the winter provisions of the Indians were burnt, but their sewant and furs also. They thereupon demanded satisfaction from the colony for their losses, which was promised them from fear of the consequences.

"Whereupon, it is unanimously resolved by the Council, that it will prove a general benefit to the country to sell the garden of the aforesaid Meyndersen, and satisfy the Indians with the proceeds so far as they will reach, and if this sum be not sufficient to make up their losses, then the Company shall pay the remainder, as said Meyndersen was a servant of the Company, and has no means left to compensate the losses."

March 8, 1648.—"Whereas, Jonas Jonasen has not only conducted himself several times in an insolent manner, but has dared to leave the fort at night, break the hen-roosts and steal hens, and has further dared, when intoxicated, to pursue Indians with his drawn sword, and beat and strike them and rob them of their sewant, which they usually carry in their kettles, which is a matter of alarming consequence from which the Indians might be provoked to seek revenge, either on men, creatures, or in some other manner, and thus occasion much harm to the people of this province, which the Director and Council consider it their imperious duty to prevent if it is in their power, and therefore are compelled to this act of justice, and perform it in the name of their High Mightinesses the States General of the United Netherlands, his High Mightiness the Prince of Orange, and the Noble Directors of the Privileged West India Company.

"And, therefore, condemn the aforesaid Jonas Jonasen to be first degraded of his arms, then be brought to the place of execution and there be flogged with rods. After which he shall be chained to a wheelbarrow and condemned to work as long as the Director and Council shall deem proper, as an example to all evil-doers.

May 13, 1648.—"Whereas, it is seen, by daily experience, that, notwithstanding we, by former orders, have so often forbidden people to sell to the Indians, or provide them in any manner, directly or indirectly, with strong liquors, yet drunken Indians may be seen running through the streets in the Manhattans, so that they who reside at some distance from the fort are greatly annoyed by drunken savages, from which new quarrels and wars may arise, as in times past;

"Wherefore the Director-General and Council have deemed it necessary to renew those placards once more, and to forbid the furnishing the Indians with strong liquors, and if any individual is discovered who has done it, even if the Indians make the communication (and for particular reasons their testimony shall be received on this subject), he shall, besides the penalties formerly prescribed, be subject to arbitrary correction; as it is better such pernicious persons be punished, than that the whole community suffer from their conduct."

July 9, 1648.—"Jacob Reynsen and Jacob Schermerhorn, having been convicted of selling guns, powder, and ball to the Indians, were condemned to sail from here in the first vessel, and remain banished from this country during five successive years; and all their goods in New Netherland, whether furs or other property, were confiscated."

This sentence was further declared to be an act of lenity, and future transgressors should be condemned to death, in conformity with the existing placards.

September 28, 1648.—"Whereas, daily many complaints are made by Indians, that they have been employed by the inhabitants, in their service, and, when the work is performed, they are dismissed without pay, and they threaten, if they are not paid, they will become their own paymasters, and thus take their revenge for such unjust acts.

"Wherefore, it is ordered that all persons employing the Indians in service shall pay them without delay or contradiction, on penalty of an arbitrary amende."

March 11, 1649.—"Whereas, on the 9th of March last, at Pavonia, about Paulus Hoeck, one Simon Walinges was found dead, having been, as is supposed, from the arrows and wounds in his head, killed by the Indians, although it cannot be ascertained to what tribe they belonged; yet thus far it is the general opinion that it was done by strangers, either from the Raretan or from the south, lured to this crime by their avarice, because they took from the house in which the murdered man resided about three hundred guilders in strung sewant, four beavers, and five otters, with some cloth and friezes, which theft, no doubt, drew the man from his house, as he was discovered a pistol shot from the door in the path, laying dead on the ground, with a small ladder in his hand, and as the murdered man, without knowledge of the court, and against common usage, was carried, by some individuals, away from the spot where he was killed and brought to this side of the river on the Manhattans before this city, so the transaction has occasioned much commotion among the inhabitants and Indians—more so as some of our people took hold of the Indians and denounced them as guilty of the crime, which was then followed by a general flight of the Indians from the Manhattans, and accounts of the transaction were spread far and wide;

"Wherefore, to prevent its spreading further, the Director-General and Council have deemed it advisable, first, to make no further stir about this murder, and do our best to appease both Christians and Indians, and reconcile them again to one another, to bury the corpse, and urge the Christians carefully to abstain from betraying any desire of revenge.

"Done and resolved in Council on the 11th March, by the Director-General and Council and all the members in Council."

July 19, 1649.—"Proposals from the Sachems of the Indians residing about the Manhattans, by name, SEYSEGEKKUNES, ORATAMUS, WILLEM, of Tappan, and PENNEKEK, from Achter Col, made in the Council in Fort Amsterdam, in the presence of Johannes Megapolensis, Minister of the Gospel of Renselaerwyck, Arent Van Curler, and Johannis Van Twiller.

"FIRST.—PENNEKEK, Sachem in Achter Col,* made a speech in the Indian language, which was translated, and was to the effect that the Minquas of the south desired to live with the Dutch in friendship, and, to signify their wish, they had brought a present for the Director.

"SECOND.—That one Indian of Meckgackhanic, had lately, without the knowledge of his people, done some mischief at Paulus Hook, and asked that it might be excused.

"THIRD.—PENNEKEK further said, that the tribe named Raretans, residing formerly at Wickquakeek, had Sachem, and therefore wished him to intercede for them, and express their wish to be friends, and to salute the Director on their behalf, and thereupon he threw three beavers on the ground as a present.

"FOURTH.—He said, further, that Meyternack, Sachem of Nyack, with his tribe, was desirous to be included in this treaty, and would continue and remain friends to the Dutch; again throwing three beavers on the ground.

"FIFTH.—He proclaimed the same for the Indians of Remahenonk, and threw down a similar present.

"SIXTH.—He then threw two additional beavers down, and declared, in the name of all, that their heart was upright, and that they wished to live with the Dutch in friendship, and that all that is past might be obliterated.

"SEVENTH.—Continuing, he said, 'That you could see my heart, then you would be convinced that my words are sincere and true,' and he threw two more beavers down, saying, 'This is my confirmation.'

* Elizabethtown.

"EIGHTH.—He further said, 'The Director had, in former days, wished to see them. He now had the opportunity. That they had given a proof of their good intentions, and would await his actions;' again laying two beavers down.

"NINTH.—He said, 'That although the Director-General could not understand them, yet they did not doubt the sincerity of his intentions.'

"TENTH.—PENNEKEK said, in conclusion, 'It is the wish of the Minquas that we and you may be and remain friends, which we are willing to do.'"

In reply, Governor Stuyvesant first presented the Sachems with his thanks for their visit and with the offer of all neighborly friendship. He told them that he was gratified to hear the proposals made, and promised that his people would in no way fall short in their acts of amity with them. That he was inclined to live with them on terms of good neighborhood, and that no reason of complaint should be given them. And if it happened that any person injured them, they should communicate directly with the Director, and, as soon as circumstances would permit, justice should be done to them.

And, as a proof of his good intentions, he accepted their presents, with gratitude, and would, in time, make them a present.

The Secretary adds in his record as follows: "On which, a small present was made to the humbler savages, amounting to about twenty florins (eight dollars), with some tobacco, with a gun to the Sachem Oratamus; and so the savages departed very much satisfied."

Extract from Letter from the Amsterdam Directors to the Burgomasters and Regents of Amsterdam, dated February 13, 1652.—"The community of New Netherland, as well as the English, complain in all their letters of the insolent conduct of the savages, who, within a year and a half, have murdered several inhabitants, stolen some children, and drove away cattle, and boasting that they cannot be resisted, because, as they say, they know that commands came last year from Holland to the Government in charge there on no account to molest them or assail them, as was done before, when they were conquered by force of arms and reduced by compulsion to a state of peace, which they now daily violate.

"The people of New England, sharing in the same troubles which afflict those of New Netherland, proposed to enter into an alliance with the Dutch, by way of league, to protect and assist each other, and inasmuch as they are far more numerous than the Dutch, they offered to bring two Englishmen in the field for one Dutchman, provided they, in such case, should have a double vote on questions relating to an offensive war."

INROAD OF 1655.

Extracts from a Letter from Dutch Settlers at Gravesend to the Director and Council.

September 8, 1655.—"We are informed that daily strange reports are disseminated from Hempstead, Newtown, and other places, to the effect that the savages intend to select the Dutch from the English as the objects of their vengeance,

"Indeed, even here, we are warned by Tilton and other magistrates that it is best, if we wish to preserve our lives, to separate ourselves from them and retreat towards the city, as they say by that means the English inhabitants will be saved; but, if we will not depart, they are willing to do all in their power in our behalf. Indeed, a poor consolation, as it seems to us, if the savages do arrive.

"It is further mentioned that savages from the north, with some other neighboring tribes, are preparing to settle themselves in this vicinity, and that we must not indulge further delay if we wish to save our lives and goods, by which advices and persuasions we stand confounded and perplexed, uncertain what to do.

"We, therefore, apply to your Honor for advice, as the water has already reached our lips, and if we once leave this spot, Long Island must be, ere long, deserted by the Dutch. Meanwhile, we by no means are waiting in idleness, but are always on the alert by night and day, encouraging one another, traversing the country on foot and horseback.

"If it pleases your Honors that we shall endeavor to retreat to the fort, and you will maintain and feed us, with our wives and children, which is unavoidably necessary, then we must solicit that a well-equiped vessel be sent to Anthony Jansen's, to save and embark a part of our furniture and other effects, as far as may be possible."

"The Director and Council decided to advise the Dutch and English at Gravesend to remain together and keep good watch. If assistance is required, some soldiers would be spared. Meantime, they further advised that the people of Gravesend would send delegates to Amsterdam, and take measures to ascertain the truth of the rumors afloat.

On the 10th November, 1655, the Director submitted the question of going to war with the Indians, to his Council, prefacing his interrogatories with the remarks that the difference in opinion about the best means to promote the real welfare of the country, with the greatest possible speed, had often alarmed and perplexed him, and particularly through the unhappy period just passed through. People had all their different opinions on the subject, and conversed according to their several caprices, some urging on war, others advocating peace, others remaining in suspense, all which diversity of opinions had induced him to endeavor to arrive at some more definite line of action. The questions proposed to each of his council were as follows:

"First.—Are we justified in going to war with the natives?

"Secondly.—If the war be justifiable, does our present situation render it advisable?

"Thirdly.—If it be undertaken and our strength be sufficient to bring it to a successful end, will it so suffice, without exposing us to other more serious perils?

"Fourthly.—If the war, although lawful and justifiable, and not unreasonable, might not be for some further time postponed, until we receive advices from Fatherland?

"Lastly.—The consideration of our actual losses, the situation of our prisoners yet in the hands of the Quackebacks and in the Highlands, and of the situation of our fortress?"

The answers of the members of the Council to these interrogatories, give an insight to the causes which had produced the recent troubles.

The Governor (Stuyvesant) first gave his opinion upon the questions proposed, and premises with stating that "he agrees with the general opinion that the Indians on their first arrival had no other intention than to go to war with the Indians on the east end of Long Island."

Having thus given an intimation of an "arrival" of Indians, we turn to the more minute narrations of other members of the Council for particulars of the event. The paper of the Attorney-General and that of Councilor Montagne are the most satisfactory in this respect, and will be made use of in getting at the facts.

The Indians violated the peace of August, 1645, not only by various murders (mentioning the number as twenty-four) previous to last September, but on the 15th of September, 1655, they broke the articles in this city in the following manner :

"First.—They early in the morning landed within this city with sixty canoes, carrying five hundred men,* all armed, without having given previous notice of their intentions. Directly after their arrival, before the citizens could be put on their guard, they ran in large armed parties through the streets, violently attacked the house of Mr. Allerton, knocking the lock from his door, beating his servants and ransacking his premises, on pretense of searching for two Indians.

"They acted in the same manner in different houses in this city, till they, on the complaint of the inhabitants, to prevent further mischief, were turned away from the streets to the strand, on the North River, where their canoes were, and where they had landed in the morning.

"The chiefs or sachems of the savages, being from various tribes, were, with kindness, invited by the Council to appear before it in the fort, which they did, when they were asked by the then present members of the Council, in the presence of the Burgomasters, Schepens, and military officers of the citizens, why they appeared there armed, without having given previous notice, and also, why they, with their people, had insulted the citizens in such a manner, and assaulted and broke their locks and doors, and beat and kicked their servants, and ransacked their houses, none of which any Dutchman was allowed to do, except under authority of a magistrate. And, therefore, the Council and officers requested that the savages would, for their own safety, and to avert all calamities, retreat before sunset, and go over to Nut Island,† which the Indians promised to do, and thereupon the meeting separated.

"But instead of retreating, as they had promised, they united together, towards evening, about two hundred armed savages, and after the guard was posted they shot the ex-Attorney-General, Van Dyck, in the breast with an arrow, and threatened to strike Paulus Leen-dertsen (a captain in the Citizen's Company) with an axe. On which various persons cried 'murder,' 'murder.' 'The savages murder the Dutch.' On hearing which cry, the citizens then about getting under arms in the fort, the better to be on their guard, ran in confusion through the gates, and came in conflict with the savages near the strand, where two Dutch were killed and three wounded, while three savages were found dead on the spot.

"After this engagement, the savages, taking their course to the other side of the river, and in other directions, burnt that night several houses, murdered some Christians, took a few others prisoners, robbed several head of cattle, and, after a few days, left Staten Island without an inhabitant or a house."

The foregoing is extracted from the paper of Van Tienhoven, the Attorney-General. The other paper which we shall use is that of Councilor La Montagne, in which, with a deliberation peculiar to him, the learned Doctor sums up his reasons on the question whether the Dutch had just cause for war :

"It is, in my opinion, nearly impossible to decide, from the last engagement between us and the natives, whether a war between us and them is lawful or unlawful; because we ought first to be satisfied if they gave occasion for that engagement or not, which cannot be fully ascertained from what they had previously done. Yet supposing they fostered no evil intentions in what they had before done, they had to some extent made themselves suspect, and having occasioned the engagement, they might be considered as aggressors, and, therefore, be holden as causa movens, or moving cause, of what has happened.

"First, the arrival here, without our knowledge or consent, of a multitude of nineteen hundred savages (of whom about five hundred had arrived before) to make an assault on fifty or sixty men. Is not this, in itself, sufficient to create a suspicion that there was some designed plan? Then their brutal insolence committed in the destruction of the house of Mr. Allerton, and in beating several citizens in their own houses, must certainly have raised such a suspicion of design. To this must be added their remaining in the city, contrary to their solemn promise; and then the attempted murder of Captain Paulus Leendertsen, which they endeavored to execute during the evening, and to add to the evidence that they contemplated mischief, and that the citizens who assembled in the fort did well in being there, and were not to be blamed, because they were there not only to defend the fort, but also to protect the city, and were right, when they heard a citizen cry murder, to pay attention to it, and when arrived at the spot, and seeing a citizen wounded, with an arrow in his breast, were they blamable in speeding towards the savages and showing a good countenance? and when they met them, armed with guns, was it blamable to resist them?"

The learned Doctor then goes into other transactions, and concludes, that war is lawful and justifiable, but not to be pressed immediately.

"October 13, 1655.

"Captain Brian Newton, Capt.-Lieut., in Amersfort:

"This letter is intended to notify you that there have been seen three or four canoes, with savages, in the vicinity of the Hell Gate, on Long Island, who captured Peter Schoorsteenverger. Wherefore, you ought to be on your guard, and keep your men closely together, and as we are informed that the citizens do not, as we commanded, unite in one body, but that every one of them is rather roving on his own plantation, you will give them another warning to unite themselves in one place, according to our orders, and assist one another, or, in case of their refusal, I shall be obliged to proceed in another manner.

"You are commanded to keep your soldiers closely together, and be always on your guard. Farewell.

"Done in Fort Amsterdam, 13th October, 1655."

October 13, 1655.—"Appeared in the Council, Stephen Necker, who represented that Peter Schoorsteenverger, with five other persons, of whom he, deponent, was one, sailed this day to got o Schoorsteenverger's plantation, to see if they could obtain some animals there. That when they had been there about half an hour, they were assaulted by about thirty savages, but could not asertain to what nation they belonged. They were all six taken prisoners by the savages, four being wounded, and that he, with Cornelius Mauritzen (who had been wounded in the back by an arrow, which, however, had been since extracted by the surgeon), had been sent to New Amsterdam by the savages, to procure, for the liberty of the party of prisoners, the following articles as ransoms, which the savages had marked on a small stick : 20 ells cloth, 20 handfuls of gunpowder, 10 staves of lead, 10 kettles, 2 guns, 3 swords, 20 yards sewant, 40 knives, 10 pairs of shoes, 10 pairs of stockings, 10 chisels, 10 axes, 20 tobacco pipes.

"Deliberations having been holden in Council if the ransom shall be paid which is demanded by the savages, for such persons as on this day were taken prisoners, and for such others as may be taken in future, who may go, as they went, to distant places without consent, and against the express commands of the Director and Council, it is after much discussion pro and con finally resolved not to do it, because when the other savages, who keep yet seventy-three prisoners of our nation, understood that such an extravagant ransom has been paid for four, they would demand a more enormous sum. Other reasons, which may in time be laid open, also induced to this resolution.

"Done, 13th October, 1655."

October 16, 1655.—"The Director and Council have noticed that our people, without authority, do not hesitate to travel over the country in small parties, or, if they start in large parties, they separate, or perhaps are remiss in keeping guard, from which circumstances it has happened, again and again, that Christians have been taken prisoners and others killed by the savages.

"It is therefore ordered, that no person presume to go into the country without the Director's leave, and no person shall presume to leave his traveling party, under penalty of forfeiting Government protection."

October 16, 1655.—"Captain Newton, having informed the Director that several inhabitants of that district (Amersfort) have left, and others were preparing to leave, the Government gave orders that those absent, as well as present, should bear their share of the burdens of taxation, and provide substitutes, with arms, sword, and accoutrements. Furthermore, that each owner of a farm should provide food for two soldiers, and in case of any delinquency, the property of the delinquents should be made answerable."

"October 16, 1655.

"To the Director-General, &c.:

"The Schepens of Midwout, on behalf of the inhabitants of said village, bring to your attention how dangerous it is in this critical juncture, if each inhabitant is permitted to remain on his own farm, and give it as the unanimous opinion of the people, that, for their better security, they should be concentrated in such a manner as the Director should approve. Wherefore, they asked that the limits of the village might be established so that each inhabitant might know how to fix his residence and what rule he was to follow.

(Signed) ADRIAN HEGEMAN,
THOMAS SWARTWOUT."

This proposition was acquiesced in, and Commissary Stryker, with Messrs. Hegeman and Swartwout were authorized to delineate the limits of said village, provided that some building spots shall be reserved for the sheriff, the minister of the Gospel, the secretary and schoolmaster, also for a house of worship and a court-house.

This was the origin of the present village of Flatbush.

"GRAVESEND, October 20, 1655.

"Honored General:

"We are at present surrounded here by the savages. Those who only are permitted to approach us, viz.: Englishmen, say that the savages do not confide in the English; that they do not intend to delay longer, but perhaps may execute their plan this night, and that we ought to solicit a reinforcement as soon as possible. As to the Englishmen, whatever they pretend to the contrary, they permit the savages to go and return, and there is no doubt that the blow is intended to strike our heads. We do not, at any rate, expect any assistance from the English. So that we all remain with our wives and children in a dreadful anxiety. Wherefore we solicit your Honor, with all earnestness and humility, to assist us as speedily as possible.

"In the name of all.

JACOB SWART,
JOHN THOMASEN,
ANTHONY JANSEN,
PETER EUDE,
JOB COSIN.

"The above communication being read and considered, it is ordered that the Director send twenty men to assist the people of Gravesend, and that they depart immediately."

Early in October, the savages presented themselves at Pavonia (Jersey City), to open negotiations for ransom of prisoners held by them, and, annoyed by their prevarications, Stuyvesant issued the following order:

"October 16, 1655.

"CAPT. POST—Whereas, the savages appear studiously to delay the pending negotiations, which were begun with mutual consent, and with a prospect of satisfactory arrangement, and as they appear, by their repeated excursions, to endeavor to discourage our soldiers, by keeping them constantly on the move, and being ferried over time and time again, meantime no decision is come to respecting the prisoners in their hands—

"Therefore we desire you, or any other person familiar with the Indian language, to demand, in our name, of the Sachems Pennekek, Orataney, and others, what is their final intention, and whether they have concluded to deliver over our prisoners or not, and if so, when? And we also require that they will not keep us longer in suspense, or tell us lies.

"Done in Fort Amsterdam, October 16, 1655."

October 18, 1655.—"In consequence of many rumors, which are daily current, respecting the state of affairs (in the treaty now being negotiated at Pavonia), and which give rise to mischief, it was this day ordered, that no person should presume to cross the river, by boat, canoe, or any other vessel; nor should any one converse with the Indians, under penalty of correction.

"And further warning was given, that the Director and Council had authorized the Indians, that if any person crossed the river without showing a token of the consent of the Director, they were at liberty to arrest them and place them on a ransom.

"Furthermore, the Director had seen the disorderly hooting and crying of some of our people whenever a boat was dispatched to negotiate with the Indians about the liberation of the prisoners; and so also when any Indians are crossing the river, with intent to confer with the Director and Council—all which is wrong, and is forbidden.

"And it is also ordered, that no person, whoever he may be, shall, on the arrival or departure of a boat or shallop, or when any of the Indians may come hither, be crowding to the landing, or around them, or be indulging in clamor and noise, under penalty of imprisonment, whether young or old."

October 18, 1655.—"Whereas, PENNEKEK, a chief of the savages, did yesterday, being the 17th of October, bring in fourteen persons of the Dutch nation, males and females, who had been taken captive by his nation, and placed them again under the protection of the Dutch Government, and at the same time, as a further token of his good-will, brought Captain Post, he also a prisoner, and thereupon solicited the Director to reciprocate his courtesy in presenting him with some powder and balls.

"The Director-General and Council judge the request of Pennekek a matter of considerable importance, and having maturely considered it, resolved to send him, as a proof of their good-will, two Indians who were taken captive by our men, although they did not belong to his nation, as a free gift of the Director-General, with a small quantity of powder and ball, in the hope that by these means the remaining Christians may obtain their liberty. And at the same time it was insinuated to the Indians that if the Christians yet remaining with them should be discharged and returned to their friends, then the Dutch authorities would be happy to prove that they could, and would willingly, reciprocate their kindness by more solid compensation."

Accordingly, the next day a communication to the above effect was sent over by Capt. Post, and the Sachem was also notified as to the Director's order to the Dutch people not to cross the river.

October 21, 1655.—"Capt. Adrian Post and Claes Jansen DeRuyter reported that they had crossed the river with Peter Wolfertsen, in conformity with their orders, taking with them some powder and lead to ransom twenty-eight of the Christian prisoners.

"They returned with the twenty-eight persons who were delivered up to them.

"They further related that the Sachem Pennekek told them to inform the Director that Claes Jansen DeRuyter ought to return there this day, and bring with him some goods, such as powder, lead, friezes, sewant, guns, etc., to redeem the other prisoners yet in their possession, being twenty or twenty-four persons, or that they would otherwise carry said persons to the interior.

"On which the Director and Council resolved to send over the same persons to ascertain what they were willing to take as ransom for all their remaining prisoners together, or how much for each of them individually."

The foregoing extracts show the end of the Indian troubles around the city of New Amsterdam. They prevailed, however, during subsequent years of Stuyvesant's administration, at Esopus and the vicinity. The brief sketch or outline which we have given will serve to show the privations endured by our forefathers in bringing the wilderness under the sway of civilization.

Schools and Schoolmasters in the Time of the Dutch.

BY D. T. V.

From all that has been discovered, the first schoolmaster in New Amsterdam was Adam Roelantsen, a man who, notwithstanding his responsible calling in life, was apparently an indifferent character, and finally met the reward of misconduct by being banished the colony. He was a resident of this city as early at least as the year 1633, as appears from an affidavit made by him in 1638, setting forth certain misconduct which he observed in one Greetje Reiners, in the year 1633, at a place called the Old Magazine.

He married here a widow, and was a schoolmaster in 1638, and probably had pursued that calling during all the time of his residence; but people "did not speak well of him." We find him under necessity, about this period, of suing several persons for slander, as for instance, he sued John Kant for stating before the Director-General that he (Roelantsen) had said he did not care about any one in the country. And in the same year he was sued by one Jochem Haller for slander, the nature of which may be inferred from the nature of the acknowledgment which the court compelled Roelantsen to make, viz., "that he knew nothing against Haller's wife," and from the fine of about one dollar imposed for his offense.

A very curious matter, extracted from the Court records of that period, leaves some reason to suppose that the town schoolmaster also took in washing. It is as follows: "Sept. 20, 1638, Adam Roelantsen, plaintiff, against Gillis De Voocht, defendant, on demand, for payment for washing.

"Plaintiff demands payment for washing defendant's linen.

"Defendant makes no objection whatever to the price of the washing, but only objects to the time at which payment is demanded, as the year is not yet elapsed.

"The Court decide that plaintiff shall wash for defendant during the time agreed upon, and then he may demand his pay."

It seems that the place of Roelantsen's residence, during the earlie years of his residence, was on the outskirts of the city, adjoining or near the farm of Jan Damen, the south side of which bordered along

Wall street. This we infer from complaints made by Roelantsen of battle belonging to Damen trespassing on his premises. Be this, however, as it may, it is certain that in the year 1642 Roelantsen had a house built for him in the lower part of the city. This was on the present north side of Stone street (then a mere road and unpaved), between the present Whitehall and Broad streets. The premises were next door but one to the brewery of the celebrated magistrate Oloff Stevensen Van Cortland. We have a translation of the contract made by him with the builders of his house, of which the following is a copy :

February 7, 1642.—"Agreement between Adam Roelantsen, from Dockum, on one side, and John Teunisen, carpenter, on the other, respecting the building of a house for said Roelantsen.

"John Teunisen agrees to build the same of the following dimensions. In length thirty feet, in width eighteen feet, in height eight feet, the beams to be hewn at four sides, the house to be well and tight clapboarded, and roofed with substantial reeden thatch. The floors tight, and made of clapboards. Two doors, one entry, a pantry, a bedstead, a staircase to go to the garret. The upper part of the chimneys to be of wood. One mantlepiece. The entry to be three feet wide, with a partition. The house to be ready by 1st of May next. All for the sum of three hundred and fifty guilders ($140), to be paid by Roelantsen, one-half when the timber is on the ground, and the other half when the building is finished."

In 1646, Roelantsen visited Holland, the object of which visit does not appear. After his return in November of that year, a dispute arose between him and the skipper of the vessel in which he came over. This dispute finally came into the courts. The skipper demanded passage-money. But Roelanstsen made it appear that the agreement was that he (Roelantsen) should come over "free of passage-money, and freight of his trunk, provided he worked as one of the sailors, and the skipper had also said repeatedly that he should ask no pay from Roelantsen because he said the prayers." Whereupon the skipper was nonsuited.

Now, however, came the turning point in Roelantsen's experience in New Amsterdam. Within a month after the skipper's suit above mentioned, viz., December 13, 1646, the attorney entered a prosecution against him "for that he the defendant had endeavored to violate with force the wife of Harck Sybolts, in her own house."

"The defendant acknowledged before the Court that he touched the naked breast of Wyntje."

"Whereupon, he was, on the same day, imprisoned.

"The next day, the case being called up again, Wyntje appeared and stated that Roelantsen endeavored to stuprate her in her own house, and she being defenseless, he actually assaulted her with rude violence, so that she bears yet the marks of it on her body.

"The defendant having been convicted, the court having maturely considered the dangerous consequences, if similar deeds remain unpunished, which may not be tolerated in a country where justice is revered, therefore we condemn the said Adam Roelantsen to be brought to the place of execution, and there flogged, and banished forever out of this country.

"Done in New Amsterdam, 17th December, 1646.

"In consideration that the aforesaid defendant has four small children, without a mother, and a cold winter is approaching, the actual banishment, of the above sentence, is delayed, by the Director-General and Council, until a more favorable opportunity, when the defendant may leave this country."

It is probable Roelantsen removed from the city the next spring, as we do not find his name, nor that of any of his defendants, in subsequent records. He sold his house in December, 1646, to one Govert Aertsen.

It is not impossible that the severe measures taken against Roelantsen were only adopted after his professional services had become no longer a necessity. For the year previous to his banishment, one Arien Jansen Van Ilpendam settled here and opened school. Having no competitor after Roelantsen's banishment, it is to be supposed that Van Ilpendam succeeded in making his pursuit profitable, inasmuch as children were fast accumulating in the town. The terms of tuition charged by this teacher were two beavers per annum. By "beavers" is meant dried beaver skins, which were then the very best currency, no coin or paper money being used, and the Indian currency, or wampum, beginning to depreciate. We find, from various sources, that Van Ilpendam taught several children, who afterwards became among the leading citizens in town. He lived in this city and taught school during many subsequent years, at least as late as in the year 1660. But, of his ultimate history, we can ascertain nothing. It appears certain, however, that he left no descendants in this colony.

As early as 1647, public attention was directed to the subject of providing more school accommodations, in reference to which the following extracts illustrate measures proposed:

From Governor Stuyvesant to the Commonalty,

November 11, 1647.—"Whereas, for want of a schoolhouse, no school has been kept here during three months, by which the youth are spoiled, it is proposed to consider where a convenient place may be fixed upon, so as to keep the youth from the streets, and under strict subordination."

From Representations of the Commonalty to the W. I. Company.

July, 1649.—"There ought to be a public school provided, with at least two good teachers, so that the youth in so wild a country, where there are so many dissolute people, may first of all be well instructed and indoctrinated not only in reading and writing, but also in the knowledge and fear of the Lord. Now the school is kept very irregularly by this one and that, according to his fancy, as long as he thinks proper.

"The plate has been a long time passed around for a common school, which has been built with words, for as yet the first stone is not laid. Some materials only have been provided. However, the money given for the purpose has all disappeared, and is mostly spent, so that it falls somewhat short, and nothing permanent has as yet been effected for this purpose."

Extract from Van Tienhoven's Answer to the Remonstrance from N. Netherland.

November, 1650.—"Although the new school-house, towards which the commonalty contributed something, has not yet been built, it is not the Director, but the Churchwardens, who have charge of the funds. The Director is busy providing materials. Meanwhile, a place has been selected for a school, of which Jan Cornelisen has charge. The other teachers keep school in hired houses, so that the youth are not in want of schools to the extent of the circumstances of the country. 'Tis true, there is no Latin school or academy."

Extract from Letter of Directors of W. I. Company to Stuyvesant.

February 16, 1650.—"We have appointed at your request, a schoolmaster who shall officiate as comforter of the sick. He is considered an honest and pious man, and shall embark at the first opportunity."

Extract from Letter of Directors of W. I. Company to Stuyvesant.

April 4, 1652.—"We give our consent that a public school may be established, for which one schoolmaster will be sufficient, and he may be engaged at two hundred and fifty florins annually ($100). We recommend you, Jan De la Montagnie, whom we have provisionally favored with the appointment. You may appropriate the City Tavern or that purpose, if practicable."

We thus find the City Tavern (in the following year converted into the City Hall) occupied as the first public school-house, and also find Jan De la Montagnie occupying the position of first public school teacher.

In order, however, to preserve a consecutive record of school teachers both public and private, in our city, it is proper here to notice that, in the year 1648, one Jan Stevensen, and in the year 1650, we also find one Jan Cornelisen pursuing the avocation of schoolmaster in this city. Of their further history we have no knowledge. In December, 1654, Andries Hudde, "being out of employment," applied for permission to keep school, which was "referred to the minister and consistory," but with what result does not appear. Hudde was one of the earliest settlers. He was born in Amsterdam in 1608, came to this country in 1629, married here Geertruyd Boornstra, widow of Hendrick De Forest; was a member of the Directors' Council, in 1633, 1636, and 1637. In 1645, was commissary at Fort Nassau; afterwards came to this city. In 1657, returned to Fort Nassau, where, in 1663, he was holding a public position, which he then resigned with the intention of establishing a brewery in Maryland. On his way thither, however, he was seized with fever and died.

In 1655, one William Vestuis was public school teacher in New Amsterdam, and was succeeded in that year by Harmanus Van Hoboken. This individual was likewise church chorister, the two avocations together, with that of sexton, being then commonly performed by one person. At the time of his appointment he was married and had four children. His wife soon after died. It appears Van Hoboken did not give entire satisfaction, as the following record occurs under date of October 27, 1661.—"Whereas, Harman Van Hoboken, formerly schoolmaster and chorister, was removed, because another was sent to replace him by the Lords Directors, and he solicits to be employed in some manner or other, in the Company's service; Therefore he is engaged as Adelborst (signifying a sergeant or something above a common soldier), and he shall be allowed ten guilders ($4) per month, and seventy-five guilders (thirty dollars) for his board.

"Note.—Whereas, the aforesaid Harman is a person of irreproachable life and conduct, he shall be employed on the Bouwery of the Director-General as schoolmaster and clerk, with this understanding, whenever his service may be wanted for the Company, as 'Adelborst,' the Director-General shall replace him by another expert person.

This pro memoria."

October 28, 1662.—Harmanus Van Hoboken, then a widower, married Marritje Pieters, a widow.

The successor of Harmanus Van Hoboken, as public schoolmaster in New Amsterdam, was Evert Pietersen. It seems he had previously taught school at New Amstel (a settlement under Dutch authority on the Delaware river). A letter signed by him, dated at Fort Amstel, August 10, 1657, says : "We arrived here at the South River, on the 25th of April, and found twenty families here, mostly Swedes, not more than five or six families belonging to our nation. I find the land here right good and well timbered. I already begin to keep school, and have twenty-five children."

It seems Pietersen returned to Holland after two or three years.

The proceedings leading to the appointment of Mr. Pietersen at New Amsterdam will be shown by the following extracts :

Extracts from Letters of Directors of W. I. Company to Stuyvesant.

December 24, 1660.—"We will consider the petition of Mr. Evert Pietersen, former schoolmaster and chorister in the city, to be employed again in the Company's service, and return thither with his wife, and inquire here about his character, conduct, and abilities, when we will communicate the result to you."

Extracts from Letter of W. I. Company to Stuyvesant.

May 9, 1661.—"We have engaged on your recommendation, and that of the city Magistrates of New Amsterdam, Mr. Evert Pietersen, as schoolmaster, and clerk, on a salary of thirty-six florins per month ($14.40), and one hundred and twenty-five florins ($50) annually, for his board. He is now embarked in the ship the Gilded Beaver, but is not accompanied by his wife, whose indisposition, as he says, prevents her departure."

Record of Appointment by W. I. Company.

1661.—"Whereas, we have deemed it necessary, to promote religious worship and to read to the inhabitants the word of God—to exhort them—to lead them into the ways of the Lord, and to console the sick, that an expert person should be sent to the city of Amsterdam in New Netherland, who should also act there as chorister and schoolmaster ; Therefore have we, upon the good reports which we have received concerning Evert Pietersen, and confiding in his abilities and experience in said services, together with his pious and virtuous character, appointed said Evert Pietersen as Consoler of the Sick, Chorister, and Schoolmaster at New Amsterdam, in New Netherland, which charges he shall fulfill there, and conduct himself in them with all diligence and faithfulness, so that he shall become an example of good to others, and carry himself as becomes a devout, pious, and good Consoler, Clerk, Chorister, and Schoolmaster, regulating himself according to the instruction which he received here from the consistory and to the instruction which he received from us. Wherefore, we command all persons, without distinction, to acknowledge the aforesaid Evert Pietersen as Consoler, Clerk, Chorister, and Schoolmaster in New Amsterdam, New Netherland, and not to molest, disturb, or ridicule him in either of these offices, but rather to afford him every assistance they can, and deliver him from every painful sensation, by which the will of the Lord and our good intentions shall be accomplished."

In June, 1659, we find Mr. Evert Pietersen had become a widower, and in that year married Hillegond Joris, a widow. With his subsequent history we are unacquainted, but it is known that he was a highly respectable citizen, and acceptable to the people in his important vocation.

We may here add the names of several persons, who, by license, were allowed to pursue the business of private school teachers during the times of the Dutch authority in New Amsterdam.

In 1658, Jan Lubbertsen was allowed to keep school, and instruct in reading, writing, and arithmetic, "provided he conducts himself as such a person ought to do."

In 1660, Frans Claessen kept a private school in this city. He died in 1662.

In August, 1660, Jan Juriaens Becker pursued the same avocation.

It should be mentioned, as an episode of local history, that in 1658 a dispute arose between the City Magistrates and the Colonial authorities respecting the right of the former to license a school teacher. The Magistrates had authorized Jacob Van Corlaer to pursue that vocation, and he accordingly opened a school. But the Director-General and Council refused to recognize this assumption of power, and caused proceedings to be taken, of which the following is the formal record:

February 19, 1658.—"The Attorney-General is ordered to go to the house of Jacob Van Corlaer, who has for some time past arrogated to himself to keep school, and warn him that the Director-General and Council have deemed it proper to send him a supersedeas till he shall have solicited and obtained from the Director-General and Council an act in propria forma."

The Burgomasters and Schepens interested themselves, and presented a petition to the Director-General and Council, asking that Van Corlaer might be permitted to keep school in the city, upon which the following apostille was entered: "School keeping and the appointment of schoolmasters depends absolutely from the Jus Patronatus, in virtue of which the Director-General and Council interdicted school keeping to Jacob Van Corlaer, as having arrogated it to himself without their orders. In which resolution they continue to persist."

In the latter part of March, 1658, Van Corlaer presented a petition to the Director-General and Council, asking permission to keep school within this city, and to instruct the children in reading and writing.

Upon which, the following apostille was entered: "For weighty reasons influencing the Director-General and Council, the apostille was nihil actum."

We now come to the interesting period in the history of education under the Dutch, when an academy or Latin school was established in New Amsterdam.

The originator of this institution of learning and its chief promoter was the Rev. Samuel Drissius, clergyman in New Amsterdam, a person to whom the people of that day were greatly indebted, not alone for his activity in promoting the progress and welfare of the church, but for his spirited and successful advocacy of the cause of learning and social advancement in all its branches.

The Directors in Holland write to Governor Stuyvesant as follows:

May 20, 1658.—"The Rev. Domine Drissius has intimated to us, more than once, that in his opinion it might be serviceable to establish a Latin school for the instruction of the youth, and as we do not disapprove of the plan, we have thought it proper to communicate it to you, that, if you consider it proper to make the experiment, you may advise us in what manner it can be effected to the greatest advantage of the community, and with the least expense to the Company."

Letter—same to same.

April 25, 1659.—"Our great exertions to provide your city with a Latin schoolmaster will, we think, be placed beyond doubt by the arrival of Alexander Carolus Curtius; who has hitherto been a professor in Lithuania. We have engaged him for this purpose, allowing him an annual salary of five hundred florins ($200), besides one hundred florins more as a gift with which to purchase merchandise, which he can dispose of to advantage on his arrival there.

"The books which the schoolmaster required to instruct the youth in the Latin language could not be got ready, from the unexpected departure of the vessel, and we must defer sending them until the next opportunity."

Mr. Curtius (who was not married) arrived in New Amsterdam, and entered upon his duties in the course of the summer of 1659. In addition to his salary allowed by the Government, he was permitted to receive remuneration from the parents of his scholars. With what success the academy was carried on under his auspices does not distinctly appear, but, from the complaints made by him with respect to the inadequacy of his compensation, it is to be assumed that he was in a measure disappointed in respect to the amount he expected to receive from pupils. He remained here but a short time, when he relinquished his charge, and it is believed returned to Holland. The school, consequently, for a time was abandoned.

At this time, fortunately for the interests of education, a young man named Ægidius Luyck was resident in this city, who had previously been engaged by Governor Stuyvesant as tutor in his family. He was about twenty-two years of age, accomplished in the classics, of good morals, and devoted to his profession as teacher. His success was such as to induce the Director and other leading citizens to appoint him temporarily to fill the vacant position of principal of the academy, with the view, if he were successful, to recommend him to the Directors in Holland for permanent appointment to the place, with an allowance as salary.

His scholars soon increased in number to twenty, among whom were two from Virginia, two from Fort Orange (Albany), and promises were given of an increase of ten or twelve more from those places. This successful result having been accomplished, after five quarters of teaching, application was made, in the summer of 1663, to the Directors in Holland for his permanent employment. Governor Stuyvesant gave his hearty support to the proposition, and in a letter of recommendation stated that,

"The many proofs of the supplicant's piety, talents, and diligence in instructing children, and the uncommon progress they evince after five quarters under his instruction, far exceeding that which they exhibited under the instruction of the late rector, Alexander Carolus Curtius, as will be attested by the ministers and other competent judges. To which ought to be added that such an institution is already contributing effectually to increase the renown of this place, and is really an actual advantage, not only for the youth but for the people, by the example presented and the increase of the school from Virginia and elsewhere. For these and other reasons, partly already explained, it would be my advice that, in order to encourage the said Ægidius Luyck in his service, he ought to enjoy the quality and salary which the Directors granted to the first Latin schoolmaster, Alexander Curtius. If not absolutely, at least with decent intercession and recommendation to the approbation of the aforesaid Lords Directors. 9th August, 1663."

After the capture of New Amsterdam by the English in 1664, Mr. Luyck returned to Holland, where he entered upon a course as student of theology, in the city of Amsterdam. He subsequently returned to New Amsterdam and engaged in his former pursuits, occasionally, also, officiating in the pulpit in the absence of the established clergyman. He married a relative of Governor Stuyvesant, and held at subsequent periods various civil positions of trust and honor.

Law and Lawyers in New Amsterdam.

BY D. T. V.

SOLOMON LA CHAIR.

Among a number of Dutch manuscripts, chiefly records of deeds and mortgages, recently discovered in our County Clerk's office, was a manuscript volume of two or three hundred pages, the first entry in which, as translated, is as follows :

" Whereas, the right honorable the Director-General and the Hon. the Council of New Netherland have been pleased this day, being the 20th day of January, 1661, after previous examination made by the Hon. Johan De Decker, on the last of December of the past year, to accredit and admit me as a Public Notary, and I accordingly took the oath of fidelity, in that office demanded, at the hands of the Hon. Nicasius de Sille, wherein it is, among other things, expressed, that I shall keep a true and correct register of every thing that will pass before me in quality as Notary, therefore have I prepared this book, and folioed it in order that the writings inserted by me therein may be preserved for future testimony, and merit full credence as they ought.

" Done at Amsterdam, in New Netherland, as above.

" SOLOMON LA CHAIR,

" Not. Pub."

The duties of the office of Notary seem to have been various, embracing the drawing of deeds, mortgages, agreements, acknowledgments of indebtedness, and of receipts of money, taking ex parte evidence to be used in lawsuits, attending in courts, drawing pleadings, and acting generally as attorney.

Mr. La Chair was also a fair English scholar, and both wrote and spoke the language with tolerable correctness. A specimen of his English, quoted verbatim, is as follows :

" Appeared before me, Solomon La Chair, Notary Publicus, admitted by the Right Honored Governor and Counsells of the New Netherlandes, dwelling at New Amsterdam, and before the hereinafter mentioned witnesses, Michael Jansen and Herman Smeeman, bod of competence, each planters at Gmoenepa, and magistrates at toune Bergen. The which at the requisition of John Lum, inhabitant at Hontingtoune, did declare to be true and certeine and theyre deponents wel knowne that abouts The mooned June or July last past tow years agone Theyre deponents nabur named Geurt Coerten haes both and received of John Kuper Englishman a greay meare with a wit gleade her fease a wite nose and bod eres a litle peese kot outh with a mery coult dark greay at her side and marckt at the right shoulder I C."

His acquaintance with the English language brought his services into requisition in many cases as interpreter, before the public courts and authorities, and as translator he found employment not only by public officers, but by merchants transacting business with Virginia and New England, and also by the English inhabitants of Long Island.

Among the earliest entries is one relating to Sir Henry Moody, son of Lady Moody, the founder of Gravesend, and is of some historic interest. The substance of it is as follows:

"This day I repaired, at request of David Letscher, Inn-keeper of this city, to his house, where he exhibited to me an obligation written in English, signed by the baronet, Sir Henry Modi, deceased, who died in Virginia at the house of one Col. Mowritson, and over fifty written and printed books of divers tongues and subjects, which were left in pledge with him for the debt of Sir Henry Modi.

"I wrote, on behalf of Mr. Letscher, a letter directed to Col. Sir Mowritson, executor of estate of Sir Henry Modi, giving a copy of the obligation of Sir Henry, dated 20th October, 1661, for three hundred and twenty guilders ($128), to be paid at the Manhatans in March, 1662, with tobacco at current price, and further stating that it was for money lent, 'some part to keep his reputation, and the other part he spent here in my house where he did lodge with his man Henry, the last time he was here, and had good content for it." Stating further that Sir Henry left for surety on said obligation, his library, also the verification of his father's Knight's order, given under the great seal of King James, and requesting that the said articles might be redeemed, or he would be compelled to sell the articles at public auction. A catalogue of the books, &c., was inclosed and the letter delivered to a person about going to Virginia, who promised to deliver it and bring report back.

Eleven several books more of divers substance.

The notary is so particular in keeping his Register as to add that he accepted for his fee in this business an English book of Sir Henry's which was of use to him.

The following entry in the Register shows the method adopted at that time for perpetuating testimony. This instance is selected, as the circumstance recorded is somewhat singular.

"Before me Solomon La Chaire, Notary Public at New Amsterdam, the under named witnesses appeared, viz. : Nicolaes Gray, inhabitant of Flushing, on Long Island, and William Picklas, of Virginia, both of competent age, who, at the request of Joris Dobson of this city, tavern-keeper, declared that it is true and truthful that they were present yesterday evening, about half-past nine, at the house of said Dobson, where stones were hurled through the glass, whereupon they looked out, but observed no one.

"Further, William Picklas declared that he was lodging at that house since about fourteen days ago, and that on divers evenings after one another, as soon as the watch passed by, large stones were hurled through the windows so terribly, that all the people in the house were afraid to go upon the stoop, but that he did not see who did it."

February 28, 1661 (O.S), 1662.

An entry in La Chair's Register occurs, from which it would seem that he had practiced his profession in the old country, and is also curious as showing how precisely he followed his duty in keeping a full record of his proceedings:

"This day I inquired at the City Hall, of Johannes Nevius, whether it was the practice in this city to have deeds executed before a Notary and witnesses, according to the ordinance of Amsterdam, registered in the Secretary's office. To which the secretary answered in the following words: 'No; hitherto, not so far as I know.'"

Another entry shows his minuteness in recording his acts in a still stronger light. After stating that, at the request of Lieve Ottens and others, he had used diligence in procuring testimony respecting the wines delivered to Cornelius Van Gesel, and had been informed by Abraham Van Nas that Van Gesen sold part at auction, and part at retail, and promised to pay for them, he ends as follows: "I drank with the witnesses at the house of Madame Wessells one pint of wine on my own account.

"Comes for my trouble four florins."

His legal practice in the courts seems to have been quite extensive, and with his customary care he notes down every consultation, pleading, appearance, and other routine of the lawyer's profession; all his charges for fees are noted with similar minuteness. These look small to the practitioner of the present day.

The following bill of costs illustrates not only the fees customary in that day, but also some of the incidents of practice in the court of Burgomasters and Schepens.

That La Chair had at command a law library, is evident, from the numerous quotations of legal authorities which he gives in his written arguments. Among these books are the "Treereght," Recusil Van Roseboom, Huygo De Groot's "Juleydingh Reghten," and others. The practice of attorneys, at that day, seems to have been conducted entirely in writing. The evidence was, in the first place, taken down, and thereupon the respective attorneys submitted what was called their "reduction." The following extracts from one of these reductions of La Chair, in a case where the opposing counsel was his rival, Tielman Van Vleck, will sufficiently exhibit the form of arguments then customary, as well as the peculiar style of La Chair.

After stating the nature of the case, as shown by the pleadings, he proceeds to discuss the evidence.

"Defendant then produces an extract from the minutes of your Honor's Court, dated 29th March, 1661, comprehending the demand of the plaintiff, marked letter B.

> "Whereby, first, can be clearly seen the truth of that very old proverb, the liar will never have a strong memory. Plaintiff demands, for balance of account, 154 guilders, according to account produced in court, and says he could not obtain any final account from the defendant. Your Honors will please to remember these words by-and-by.

"Defendant produces, against this, his well-founded written answer, marked C :

> "From which your Honors can well consider, that, if the defendant had already delivered to the plaintiff the requested final account, which the plaintiff hath demanded primo instantes, he should not have excepted the four items alleged therein, for no one ought to think the defendant to be so foolish as to deliver an account that is not on his books, or to except to it, or reject it if it stood on his books.

"Defendant produces copy of the nameless account, marked letter E;

"And hath, on the credit side, beside the date, 15th November, marked N. Bena. What requires further proof than can be seen there, where the concocter of this cartabal, like an inexperienced comedian, forgetting whose character he represented, copying, unintentionally, the account of Hans Steyn, of the same date, too stupid not to be discovered, says : 15th ditto, I gave you ten beavers. Observe, I to you. How can that be otherwise understood than I, Hans Steyn, to you, Jacob Vis ?''

La Chair was employed by the magistrates of Gravesend to prosecute their right to Coney Island, and in the progress of the suit he drew up the following memorial, which shows his clear style, and is also curious as an historical paper :

'' To the Rt. Hon. the Director-General and Council:

''The Schout and Magistrates of the town of Gravesend, on Long Island, respectfully represent that, in the year 1643, the first founders and inhabitants of the said town came there, with the Lady Deborah Moody, deceased, and their cattle, and with the express consent, order, and approbation of the Rt. Hon. Director-General, William Kieft, of laudable memory, and Council of New Netherland, from the very first time down, enjoyed and made use of Coney Island as a pasturage for their cattle, together with the valleys adjacent to mow their hay, as appears by their declaration annexed. In confirmation thereof, said Director-General and Council, in the year 1654 (sic for 1645), granted them letters patent of privilege and jurisdiction, wherein they granted Coney Island and dependencies as a pasture, and the lands on which the above named town lies, for planting, to the Lady Deborah Moody, her associates and successors, as more fully appears by the aforesaid patent, who have possessed the same since, freely and peaceably, without molestation or gainsay of any one, except some trouble with the Indians; and although no one in the world hath any right or title to the above mentioned Coney Island, never so much as could or ought to disturb, hinder, or prevent the petitioners in the peaceable and free possession of the above named pasture and valley ; nevertheless so it is, that one Mr. Evert Pieters and Harman Vedder have, in the name of one De Wolfe, merchant, at Amsterdam, caused to be erected, this summer, a salt kettle, on said island, which the petitioners, though unwillingly, yet for peace sake, and as it did not militate to the serious prejudice of their right, have permitted. Afterwards it followed that the said Evert Pieters and Harman Vedder, in quality as aforesaid, under claim of the right which one Gysbert Van Opdyck boasted to have, did give written notice, on the 6th of October, 1661, to the petitioners to cause to be driven away, within twice twenty-four hours, all the town's cattle, from the above mentioned Coney Island, and henceforth never more to pasture thereon, on certain penalties inserted in the aforesaid written notification, whereby the petitioners, finding themselves disturbed in the peaceable possession, vel quasi, humbly turn to your honors, humbly praying your honors' mandamus, whereby the petitioners, representing the town of Gravesend, may be maintained in the possession, vel quasi, of the above named Coney Island and dependencies thereof, in such manner as they have possessed it for the space of nineteen years, without gainsay; and the above named Evert Pieters and Harman Vedder be charged and commanded to withdraw the aforesaid notice and disturbance, free of costs and charges, and be interdicted from doing so any more, and to pay the costs incurred herein; and in case of opposition, they, the opponents, be summoned, on a certain prefixed court day, before this Supreme Council, to answer the petition of Recredentia, and to proceed further, as the case demands. This doing remain."

The following entry shows the result of this suit, and the fees charged by La Chair, for his services in the matter:

"On 12th January, 1662, the Schout and Magistrates of Gravesend have obtained from the Director-General and Council definitive judgment, whereby the claim, hitherto made by Gysbert Van Opdyck, to Coney Island, is annulled, being the suit instituted against them by Evert Pieters and Harman Vedder, agents of Dirck De Wolfe, merchant, and I have earned the following fees from them:

			FLS.
5th	January.	—For consultation given to the above named magistrates respecting said suit	1.00
		For going with them to Joris Wolsey	1.00
		For affidavit, with engrossing	2.10
6th	"	For going with them to divers persons	2.00
		For affidavit and engrossing	2.00
		For going with them to Mr. Decker	1.00
7th	"	For hearing twenty-two persons, at Gravesend, in English	6.00
		For translating the same into Dutch	4.00
		For the answer	3.04
			24.04

"Furnished copy of this account to the Schout of Gravesend on 16th January, 1662, who promised to pay me in gray peas, at beaver's price.

"Received of William Wilkins, in payment of the above account, eight skepels of gray peas. Have paid the freight thereof. The peas at 3 fls. per skepel—24 fls."

Equivalent to $9.60.

We have thus far given such extracts from this curious record as suffice to illustrate, in some degree, the subject of legal practice in New Amsterdam; a subject to which no historical reference has been hitherto given, in connection with our local history, and such as, also, to our mind, exhibit in the man by whom the Register was kept a character worthy of attention. That he was possessed of professional skill, is obvious throughout the whole record. That he was a man of education, acquainted with several languages, a sound adviser, careful in the details of his business, and one who would be supposed to have occupied, in his own day, a distinguished position in a small community like that of New Amsterdam.

With our curiosity thus excited to learn more concerning his history, we went minutely into an examination of cotemporary historical records, and find the following entries concerning Solomon La Chair:

In 1655—"Solomon La Chair requested of the Burgomasters permission to keep tavern in the house of Teunis Kray, which was granted."

In 1656—"Solomon La Chair was complained of for tapping after the ringing of the bell. He showed, by witnesses, that the charge was untrue, and the complaint was dismissed."

In 1656—"Solomon La Chair was sued for one quarter's rent, by Jacob Steendam. The defendant acknowledged that he had lived there one quarter, but says the premises were not delivered in good order. A reference was ordered."

In June, 1656—"Solomon La Chair was sued, by Jan Gerritsen, for wages on his (La Chair's) yacht. Defendant requested delay until his return from Fort Orange."

In July, 1656—"La Chair was sued, by Teunis Kray, for the first installment on the price of a house purchased by him; the whole amount of purchase being two thousand florins (equivalent to eight hundred dollars). Defendant alleged: 1. That no transfer had been executed to him; also, that the money has been arrested in his hands; also a set-off of two hundred and thirteen florins. Plaintiff says: 1. He was not bound to execute a transfer until the money was paid. 2. That the arrest has been taken off. 3. He admits the set-off. The Court ordered La Chair to pay within eight days."

In October, 1656—"Solomon La Chair was sued, by Peter Luyckersen, for thirty florins, balance due on sale of the yacht Pear-tree. Defendant exhibits account, and claims that he paid within seven florins, counting to his credit the gun that was lost, and one-half barrel of beer. The plaintiff was ordered to prove that the gun was lost before the delivery of the yacht."

In November, 1656—"La Chair became farmer of the excise of slaughtered cattle, at 710 florins per annum. This entitled him to receive five per cent. on the value of all animals with in the city's jurisdiction."

In January, 1658—"The Schout made complaint against La Chair, alleging that, when the Fire Inspectors went around to inspect fireplaces, they were insulted by defendant, who called them chimney-sweepers.

"Defendant, in explanation, says that he was at the Secretary's house in the fort, when the Inspectors came. The Secretary's wife said something, at which they laughed. Jacob Vis was there at the time, to whom defendant said, pointing to the chimney, 'The chimney-sweep looks there.' Whereupon, one of the Inspectors said, 'What say you? Do you call us chimney-sweeps?' At the same time raising up his stick or cane. Whereupon, defendant answered, 'I do not say that; I know well enough who you are, you are a carpenter; I have seen you working at the City Hall, and this is our lieutenant, and this other is Mynheer Kip,' and defendant said nothing further.

The court requested defendant to withdraw.

"The Schout then further declared that, with respect to the fine demanded of him, the defendant, a day or two previously, had said to the court messenger, 'What! is it to have a little cock booted and spurred, I shall give it."

"The court having heard the parties, and considering that it is not seemly that men should mock at those in office, yea, in any office, they condemned the defendant in a fine of twelve guilders, and charged him to do so no more."

In May, 1658—"Teunis Kray sued La Chair for the remaining, installment on the purchase of his house. Defendant requested time, saying that the money was ready at one time, but had slipped through his fingers.

"The court condemed him to pay at once."

In August, 1658—"The Schout complained of La Chair, saying that Johannes Vervelen went to defendant's tavern and got into a dispute with a soldier, when defendant took away the soldier's sword.

"Defendant alleged that he was misrepresented, and explains the occurrence. He says he asked the soldier for his sword, to prevent further mischief, but afterwards they came to blows, and he separated them, and carried Vervelen home, and then returned to his house. He found the soldier still there, and making a great noise; but he got him out of the house."

In September, 1659—"Solomon La Chair sued Jan Gillis, Jr., for abuse; says he called him a rogue, a thief, and a beast, and also said the Burgomasters can't find an honest man for farmer of the excise. To which plaintiff answered: 'In what respect am I not an honest man?' Defendant replied: 'Thou art only a cuckold.'

"The defendant denied the charge.

"Witnesses being called, said they heard the parties scolding each other, but could not understand what was said.

"Commissioners were appointed."

In September, 1659—"La Chair was sued for the price of an half aam of wine, eighteen beavers. He said he had nothing to pay with at present, but would pay interest."

In September, 1660—"Persons were charged with fighting at his house."

September 23, 1664.—"The court directed the marshal to sell at auction, the goods left by Solomon La Chair, deceased."

September 27, 1664.—"William Doeckles and Anneken Ryzens, his wife, and with them the curators of the insolvent estate, left by Solomon La Chair, entering the Court, William Doeckles requests an order, discharging those having the estate in charge, whereupon the curators were asked, if the whole estate of said insolvent has been given up, without concealing anything; to which they answered, that, so far as they knew, it had been; and that Anneken Ryzens was there to make oath on the subject.

"Said Anneken, being questioned, said that a gown and petticoat still remain in pawn, with Frederick Philipse, for a debt of one hundred and fity guilders, contracted by her in widowhood.

"The court then say, that whereas William Doeckles agreed to pay the debts which Anneken contracted in widowhood, the gown and petticoat must go to the benefit of the creditors; whereupon said Anneken earnestly besought the court to allow her to retain them.

"Which request the court finally granted, and entered an order of indemnity to the curators, in which it is recited that William married Anneken Ryzens, widow of Solomon La Chair, deceased."

Slaves and the Slave Trade in New Netherland.

BY D. T. V.

Although the slave trade was not authorized by the Government, for many years, yet slavery existed from the earliest settlement of the colony. The Company's laborers were all negro slaves, and were under the direction of an overseer. But until the country had advanced from a mere trading settlement to an era when agricultural interests had become established, and the lands were brought under cultivation (which, in the earliest stage, was entirely as tobacco plantations), private individuals, except in very few instances, did not hold slaves. We may date the period at which the necessity of introducing slave labor was pressed upon the Government, as a want of the inhabitants which could not be in any other manner supplied, as about the year 1650.

Several of the Company's slaves were partially manumitted in 1644, after nearly twenty years' service, showing that they had been here from the year 1625, which was about the time of the first establishment of the West India Company's authority in this city. The order of manumission is interesting, as being about the only one made public, in connection with this important institution, in the very early periods in our history.

February 25, 1644. — "Willem Kieft, Director-General, etc., having considered the petition of the negroes who served the Company during eighteen or nineteen years, named Paolo Angola, Big Manuel, Little Manuel, Manuel de Genet de Roos, Simon Congo, An Portuguese, Gracia, Peter, Santo Mole, John Francisco, Little Anthony, Jan Fort Orange, to be delivered from their slavery and be manumitted, urging further, that as they, during a number of years, have been in the Company's service, and have been long since promised that they should have their liberty, and showing further that their families are increasing by numerous children, for whom they are unable to provide, if they must continue to serve the Company, as they have all been thus far obliged to do.

"Therefore, we the Director and Council do free said negroes, with their wives, from slavery, and place them on the same footing as all other freemen here in New Netherland, where they may provide for themselves and families, by agriculture on land which shall be designated and granted to them, provided that each of the said negroes shall be obliged to pay for this grant of freedom annually, during his lifetime, to the Government, thirty schepels (twenty-two and a half bushels) of corn, or wheat, peas, or beans, together with one fat hog, and they (said negroes) have promised to pay the same, under penalty, that, if any of them neglect to pay this tribute, he shall again lose his liberty and return to slavery to the Company; and, also, with the express condition, that all their children already born or yet to be born, shall remain obliged to serve the Company as slaves; and lastly, that the aforesaid negroes shall remain bound to serve the Company, either on land or water, whenever their service may be demanded, provided they receive a just reward from the Company. Done 25th of February, 1644, at Fort Amsterdam, New Netherland."

The following document is given, in connection with the foregoing manumission:

March 22, 1639.—"Jacob Stoffelsen made declaration, that, during the administration of Hon. Wouter Van Twiller, as Directer, as overseer of the negroes belonging to the Company, he was continually employed with said negroes in the construction of Fort Amsterdam, which was finished in 1635; that they further assisted in chopping trees for logs and fuel, as well for the big house as for the corps de garde; also, in making and splitting palisades; in cleaning land; in burning lime; in bringing in the corn at harvest time; besides these, various other kinds of work were performed by said negroes."

The difficulty of procuring, and more so of retaining, laborers from Holland, may be inferred from the following record:

April 9, 1640.—"Whereas, several servants run away daily from their masters, by which their masters are often very much embarrassed and suffer losses. Oftentimes corn and tobacco are spoiled in the field, and sometimes harvesting is stopped; all which is a great loss to the country, and employers are brought to ruin. To remove which, we command all servants to serve their time faithfully with their masters, in conformity with their engagements, and not to run away from them. If the servants meet with any cause of complaint, let them make complaint to us. This we command, under the penalty of punishment; and, also, make compensation for all damages incurred through their actions; and furthermore, be compelled to serve double the time which was lost to their masters by reason of their delinquency.

"We also forbid all inhabitants of New Netherland to receive any of these vagrants in their houses, or to feed them, under penalty of fifty guilders."

Every effort appears to have been made by the authorities here to procure labor from the Fatherland, but the fruitlessness of these efforts, and the final resolution of the Government in Holland to allow the importation of slaves, is clearly exhibited in the following extract from a letter of the Company, dated Amsterdam, 4th April, 1652, addressed to the "Commonalty at Manhattan:"

"With regard to your proposal to equip and freight one or two vessels on account and at the expense of your Commonalty, that they may, in this manner, be provided with laborers on their farms, and also a few young persons to be employed in agriculture, the Company agree to transport all persons in low circumstances, for the sum of thirty guilders ($12), which they hope will encourage such persons as are wanted to embark on the voyage.

"An offer was made us by this city of Amsterdam, to supply us from the almshouses with one hundred and fifty boys and girls, to be transported at the expense of the city, provided we would engage ourselves to place them in good families, to which they might be bound for four years, during which time they should be fed and clothed, or that they should receive at their choice annually sixty guilders ($24), in lieu of clothes, and we supposed that in this manner you would be best and easiest accommodated; but the reason why this affair could not be as yet fully accomplished shall be hereafter developed to you, as far as is necessary. But that you may remain more firmly persuaded of our good intentions towards you, we do consent that your citizens are permitted to sail to the coast of Angola and Africa, and procure from there as many negroes as they desire to employ in their agriculture. The conditions on which this consent is granted have been sent to the Director-General by this vessel."

After receiving this authorization, preparations for engaging in the slave trade were made, and the following form of act of authorization, from the Director-General and Council of New Netherland, to individuals to engage in the slave trade, was adopted in the year 1652:

"This day, the undersigned, Director and Council in New Netherland, by a resolution of the Department of Amsterdam, from the one side, and the proprietors of the ship ——— ———, on which the skipper is ———, in size about ——— tons, from the other side, who agreed that the said skipper shall obtain an act in forma to trade in slaves on the coast of Africa, and further to look out for his best advantage, as he may deem proper: That further, he may return here, to the Manhattans, with such slaves, and such other cargo as he may procure; provided, that he shall not, by virtue of the consent that he trade on the coast of Africa, presume to trade on the Gold Coast, and therefore shall not sail further westward than Popo, on penalty of the confiscation of said vessel and cargo. Wherefore, to see these provisions carried out, the Director and Council are at liberty to appoint a supercargo of said vessel, whom the skipper shall be obliged to entertain in the cabin. The skipper also shall, if required, consent that the crew be taken under oath.

"In consideration of the permission hereby granted, the proprietors aforesaid shall, at the return of said vessel, before it is unladen, pay to the Director-General and Council fifteen guilders for each negro, which recognition shall be paid promptly, without any exception."

Not only was the slave trade allowed to be carried on in vessels sailing from this port, but its temptations of profit were such as induced the West India Company (after some discussion, however,) to authorize the sailing of vessels in that trade, under their own license, and from their own port, in Holland, under agreement to land their slaves in New Netherland, or other Dutch colonies.

Extract from the Register of Resolutions of the Directors of the West India Company, Department of Amsterdam.

"Thursday, 19th November, 1654, appeared before the Directors, Jan de Sweerts and Dirck Pieterse, and asked leave to sail with their vessel, the White Horse, to the coast of Africa, to obtain a cargo of slaves, and import the same to New Netherland, provided they pay the customary duties.

"Which request being discussed, long deliberations followed, which were at length concluded, and it was decided that by this means the population of the country was promoted, and the situation of the inhabitants improved; wherefore the petition was granted, on condition that it should remain at the option of the Company either to receive sufficient recognitions from the laden goods, when the vessel shall return hither, as it is bound to do, or that the ordinary duties, agreeably to the rules respecting the regulations for the coast of Africa, shall be paid; with all which Jan de Sweerts and Dirck Pietersen were satisfied."

This ship, the White Horse, was, no doubt, the first vessel regularly engaged in the slave trade, which arrived in this city with a cargo. She arrived in the spring, or early summer, of the year 1655, and her cargo was eagerly purchased by the inhabitants, at the rate, for young and healthy negroes, of about one hundred and twenty-five dollars. But so great was the demand for labor in other colonies on the American coast, at this time, that the opportunity of getting a supply of slaves from this newly opened mart was eagerly taken advantage of, and the transhipment of negroes to places under foreign jurisdictions, was engaged in as a speculation, and thus the single object for which the trade was established, viz., that of relieving the necessities of our own population, was in danger of being frustrated, without any remuneration to the public purse. To remedy this, the Director issued the following proclamation, dated August 1, 1655:

"Whereas, the Director-General and Council, in New Netherland, have been informed that negroes lately imported from the coast of Guinea, in the White Horse, have been transported to other places, so that neither the Government nor the inhabitants of this province are benefited by it, therefore the Director-General and Council have resolved that, in future, for each negro transported out of this province, ten per cent. of the value of such negro shall be paid at the General's office."

It has been observed that the Dutch West India Company, in Holland, for a long time hesitated to allow the slave trade to be carried on, but after it succumbed to the pressure from the Colonies, and the barriers of objection had been overcome, and the results had been found profitable to the Colonists, but also that a new channel of emolument thence flowed into the treasury of the Company, they were not long in going a step further, and actually going into the business themselves. The following is a synopsis of a charter party of the ship Oak Tree, issued in 1659:

"[L. s.] Seal of the Province of Holland.

"In the name of the Lord, amen. In the year of the birth of our Lord and Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ, 1659, the 25th of January, appeared before me, Hendrick Schaep, Notary Public before the Court of Holland, in Amsterdam residing, and the undersigned witnesses, in their own persons, Edward Man and Abraham Wilmerdonck, Directors of the privileged West India Company, Department Amsterdam, as authorized for this purpose by the college of their associates, as frieghters from one side, and skipper Jan Jansen Eykenboon from Hoorn, master, under God, of his vessel named the Oak Tree, Eykenboom. In length one hundred and twenty feet, wide twenty-five and a half feet, draft, eleven feet, above the water line five to six feet, with a poop-deck, and declared they agreed about the freight in the manner following, viz., The said skipper shall be obliged to have his ship in readiness here, at this city, as soon as possible, in good repair, and provided with sufficient anchors and rigging and other utensils, and have it mounted with small guns, with powder, balls, and other necessary ammunition. The use of which powder and balls to be compensated by the Company. The Company to be at liberty to add as many guns as they may think proper, and as can conveniently be placed on said ship, and also to provide powder and shot for them.

"Further, the Company shall equip the vessel with such hands, and provision it, as they think proper.

"All which being done, the ship shall receive its lading from the Company, either with a full lading or otherwise, as the Company may prefer, and with such goods as they may choose.

"When the lading is on board, then the vessel shall sail with the first favorable wind and weather which God may vouchsafe, from the harbor, directly towards the coast of Africa, and to follow the course of its coast from Cabo Verde, and stop at all trading places and ports, and trade or barter in conformity with the directions of the Company or its commissary, and then to proceed to the Castle of St. George Delmina, where they shall receive further orders from the Director and Council of the Company. From there the vessel is to sail to the Bay of Guinea and stop at the different places in it, where it shall trade, if opportunity is offered, under such orders as may be received from the Director-General and Council. From there he shall proceed to the island Curacao, Buenaro, Arabo, and the West Indies, and further to New Netherland, or anywhere else where either the aforesaid Company or its officers may deem advisable.

"He shall trade at all such places with his goods and merchandise, take in passengers, load and unload, and trade at the pleasure of the officers of the Company. Further, he shall return to the city of Amsterdam, or place of unlading, and there unload and deliver to the Company the lading and goods received during the voyage."

"There shall be paid to the skipper the earned freight for which they agreed, viz., for each month, the sum of eight hundred guilders ($200). The length of the voyage shall begin when the ship has passed the last town on the Texel and entered the sea, and expire when it shall have arrived before the city of Amsterdam."

Not only the West India Company, but even the City Government of Amsterdam appeared to have operated in the slave trade, as appears by an agreement made between the West India Company and the Directors of the Colony of New Netherland, on the part of the city of Amsterdam, reciting that the Company intend purchasing some slaves in Angola, and transport them to New Netherland, and were willing to share with the Directors of the colony in the slave trade, with its profits, expenses, and risks, by allowing the said Directors an interest to the extent of one-fourth. Reciting, also, that the ship Gideon was then laden and ready to depart on her voyage. The Company was to have the whole direction of the trade. The Directors of the Colony were to allow the Company ten guilders upon each able-bodied slave landed in New Netherland, to be computed as follows: Those slaves aged from fifteen to thirty-six years to be counted as able-bodied; those between the ages of eight and fifteen years, and those upward of thirty-six years old, to be counted three for two able-bodied; those less than eight years old to be computed at two for one able-bodied, sucklings to follow the mother. It was further provided that the slaves thus provided were to be kept in New Netherland, and not to be sold in other places.

Some of the incidents of the slave trade, at this period, will be illustrated by the narrative of the misfortunes of one of the vessels engaged in the trade.

Journal of the ship St. John, beginning with the 4th of March, 1659.

"March 4.—We lifted our anchor upon the orders of the Hon. Director John Valkenborch, and the Hon. Director Jasper Van Heusen, to pursue our voyage towards Rio Real, to trade there for slaves in behalf of the Company.

"March 8.—We arrived with our ship before Arda, to leave there some of the oldest and to obtain some relief for the remaining slaves at T'Ammoryn, and hoisted again, the next day, our sails to pursue our voyage towards Rio Real.

"March 17.—We arrived at Rio Real, before a village named Bavy, where we met with the Company's yacht, named Peace. This yacht was also equipped and sent on to assist us in the slave trade."

Nothing passed in April, except trading for slaves.

"May 6.—One of our sailors died; his name was Claes Van Dieman, from Durgedam.

"May 22.—We lifted our anchor and left Rio Real, with the yacht Peace, having obtained there two hundred and nineteen slaves, men, women, boys, and girls, whence we directed our course towards the Highlands of Ambosius, to seek there for victuals for our slaves, as nothing could be obtained at Rio Real.

"May 26.—On Monday we arrived under the Highlands of Ambosius, to procure food for the slaves, where we spent nearly seven days without obtaining so much as was daily consumed by the slaves, so that we resolved to sail to Rio Cammerones, to endeavor to procure food for the slaves.

"June 5.—On Thursday we arrived at Rio Cammerones, when the yacht Peace went up the river to seek for victuals. On the same day our cooper died, his name was Peter Claessen, from Amsterdam.

"June 29.—On Sunday we resolved to pursue our voyage, as very little food was there obtainable, by reason of the excessive rains, which continued every day, so that many of our slaves were affected by a malignant dysentery, through the bad victuals with which we were provided at Delmina, among which were several vats of barley which were entirely unfit for use; we thereupon delivered to the skipper Adriaen Blaes one hundred and ninety-five slaves, viz., eighty-one males, one hundred and five females, six boys, and three girls, of which the invoice was signed, and they were conveyed in the yacht Peace to Delmina, together with the account and receipt of the remaining goods.

"July 23 —We arrived at Cabo de Lopez de Gonzalvo, to obtain there some firewood.

"July 27.—Our master died of the dysentery, his name was Martin Delanoy.

"August 10.—The company's ship Black Eagle arrived from the castle St. George Delmina, destined towards Patria.

"August 11.—We resolved again to pursue our voyage towards the island of Armebo, to obtain there some refreshments for the slaves. We remained at Cabo de Lopez sixteen days, for water and firewood.

"Among the water-casks, about forty fell in pieces, and could not be repaired, as our cooper had died at Rio Cammerones, and we had no person who could act in his place.

"August 15.—We arrived at the island Amibo, and purchased there, for the refreshment of the slaves, one hundred casks of beans, twelve hogs, five thousand cocoa-nuts, five thousand sweet oranges, with some other refreshments.

"August 17.—Sailed again from there, to pursue our voyage to the island of Curacao.

"August 21.—The skipper called the ship's council together in his cabin, when it was resolved to coast the island of Tobago, and seek a supply of fresh water, as we otherwise should have died for want of water, inasmuch as many of our water-casks had leaked out.

"August 24.—On Friday we arrived at the island of Tobago, provided ourselves with fresh water, and purchased some bread for our crew, who had not received their rations for three weeks.

"August 27.—We sailed again from there, to pursue our voyage towards the island of Curacao, as before.

"November 1.—We lost our ship on the rocks of Rokers, and our crew at once took flight in the boat, as there was no hope of saving the slaves when we were compelled to leave the vessel in the heavy surge.

"November 4.—"We arrived with the boat at the island Curacao, when the Director, Beck, directly ordered two sloops to save the slaves from the wreck—of which two sloops, one was captured by a privateer with eighty-four slaves.

"On the 1st of November, two hours before daylight, lost the ship on the rocks of Rocus, and we escaped in the boat to the island Curacao, leaving in the ship eighty-five slaves; of these, eighty-four were taken by a privateer."

"Jan Rykartsen, skipper of the Company's barque, the Young Spotted Cow, says he received orders to go to Rocus to save the negroes on the ship St. John. When he arrived there, he endeavored to approach the wreck, and succeeded in fastening a hawser to the wreck, when two negroes approached the boat swimming; they were brought on board by the hawser. A short time after, the hawser parted from the wreck, and through the violent surge it was found impossible to reach the wreck again, whereupon it was concluded to await the arrival of a vessel expected to be sent to their assistance.

"A few days after an English privateer made his appearance, and captured the Spotted Cow, and having transferred eighty-four slaves to her, sent her towards the continent."

Although the slave trade was regularly authorized between New Netherland and the African coast, it seems the supply was still short of the demand, and the Governor sought to obtain slaves from Curacao, then one of the dependencies of his Government.

Extract from Letter of M. Beck, Vice-Director at Curacao, to Governor Stuyvesant, 16th May, 1659.

"I regret that your Honor cannot be supplied with some of the Company's old negroes, as you demanded, because twelve of them are employed at Bonayro in chopping stock fish-hout, and repairing the salt pans, so that we have not even enough of them to execute the necessary services of the Company, and, therefore, shall be compelled, by the arrival of new negroes from the coast of Africa, which are daily expected, to select a few of them for the Company's service, and should wish that they might arrive so early that I could, with this opportunity, select such ones for your service as your Honor desired. I hope, nevertheless, that ere long another opportunity will be offered by which I may gratify your Honor's wishes."

From the same to the same, dated August, 1659.

"The Company's ship King Salomon arrived here on the 2d of July, from Guinea, with three hundred and thirty-one slaves, of whom I sold three hundred for cash to a certain Spanish merchant, at one hundred and fifty dollars, to be paid on delivery, and whom I expect now every day to come on and receive them; I should wish the transaction concluded before the departure of the vessels, so that I might remit to the Lords Patroons the full amount of these. From the aforesaid negroes, Frank Bruyn selected for your Honor two boys and a girl, who are conveyed in the same vessel which bears this. I endeavored as much as was in my power to secure them against the cold. Frank Bruyn also made a purchase of two others for the Commissary Van Bruggh, who are also shipped by this opportunity, and at the risk of the aforesaid Commissary, and your Honor is requested to receive pay for them from said Van Bruggh, in behalf and on account of the Company.

"The Commissary Laurens Van Ruyven, also bought here two young negroes, on account of his brother, the Secretary in New Netherland. A similar parcel was sold here at one hundred and fifty dollars.

"I expect yet, every day, a ship with negroes, and I wish they were arrived here, even if they were a thousand in number, as I expect, as I mentioned before, the return of the aforesaid merchant, to take with him all, as he is able and willing to do.

"I received orders from the Lords Mayors, to provide your Honors, in the spring, with fifteen to sixteen negroes, which I might have done; but as I am not provided with coarse cloth for their dress, and am apprehensive that they will not be able to endure your severe winters; and further, that we shall not in future be in want of negroes here, I deemed it more desirable to wait until next spring, when I intend to send a young black girl for Augustus Heermans, at his request. In the mean time, I hope to receive your Honors' advice, if you require any more negroes above that number, and of what age you wish them."

Governor Stuyvesant imported slaves from Curacao, as is shown by the following documents:

"I, John Pietersen, skipper, under God, of my vessel named Spheramundi, now laying ready, before Curacao, to sail with the first wind with which God shall favor us. to New Netherland, where my unlading shall take place, acknowledge to have received, under the orlop of my aforesaid ship, from Frans Bruyn, five head of negroes, whereof one is a wench, all dry and well-conditioned, marked with the following mark ⩓: all of whom I promise to deliver, if God vouchsafe me a safe voyage, with the aforesaid ship, in New Netherland, to the Hon. Director-General, Petrus Stuyvesant, or to his factor or deputies, provided the freight of the aforesaid articles is paid.

"In witness, whereof, etc., Aug., 1659."

In respect to this shipment, Stuyvesant writes to his Deputy Gov ernor, at Curacao (M. Beck), as follows :

February, 1660.—" In the Spheramundi were sent and received by me four negro boys and one negro girl : agreeably to your letter, three for me, and two for the Commissary Van Bruggh, their price being left to our discretion. Upon this subject I must say this, that agreeably to an oral proposition made by Francis Beck & Co., I could have obtained five boys ; but, to avoid any dispute, I left, for this time, the choice to the Commissary, who took one black girl and one of the stoutest boys, but even this is not without difficulty, as one of the five died in coming hither, others fell sick on their voyage, or shortly after their arrival, from which the difficulty in settling the account arises, to prevent which in future, the negroes ought to be designated by the seller by some name or mark.

" With regard to the price, which was left to our discretion, I shall observe, to avoid the suspicion of self-interestedness, that I wished to be charged for them at the rate as others have been sold. I saw by your letter of 3d September last, to the Directors, that negroes had been sold to Stephen Van Bol at one hundred and eighty dollars each, viz., those of sixteen to forty years old ; those of the age from twelve to sixteen were rated at three to two of the others, and those under twelve years, at two for one. We hope and trust that, complying with that rate of payment, we shall avoid suspicion of selfishness. Furthermore, I desired the possession of the negroes for my own service, and for promoting agriculture and not for lucre. And upon this subject, in my opinion, our own good inhabitants should deserve some preference as well above the Spaniards as others; nor do I think the trade between the Curacao and the Spaniards and Virginia will be injuriously affected thereby."

Extract, Stuyvesant to Beck, July 3, 1660.

" It has pleased the Company, to the proposals which we made by the Spheramundi as to the trade with the negroes, that they will not permit any alteration, to the loss of the Company, in the trade of negroes, but that they were willing to send from there hither a good quantity of negroes, to promote agriculture, provided they were sold to the inhabitants, and that they should not be sent anywhere else ; believing that by that course the Company would suffer less loss, and the inhabitants reap a far greater benefit."

Extract, same to same April 16, 1661.

" Referring to negroes arrived recently by the ship Indian, we recommend you, that if hereafter negroes be sent by one vessel, some for individuals and some for the Company, that they be marked by particular signs, either with a string in their clothes or in some other manner, so that disputes may be prevented, inasmuch as during the voyage of the Indian some of the slaves fell sick or died. The people to whom slaves were sent pretended to have the first choice, and left the others for the Company, in which we were obliged to acquiesce, as there were no certain marks to guide us."

In the same letter, Stuyvesant recommends, that as the Esopus Indians were keeping quiet, and he wished to encourage them, some of those of that nation who had been taken prisoners and sent to Curacao, should be treated kindly and sent back.

Extract, Stuyvesant to Beck, July 3, 1664.

"I sold the negroes sent on, at public auction, to the highest bidder, to obtain victuals, six negroes excepted, who are employed in the service of the Company, to repair the fortress, and also excepting five negro females, who, from their advanced age, could not find a purchaser, except at a very low price. The rest were sold at the price stated in the annexed schedule, being in our opinion a tolerable good price for such an assortment. If they had been better, there's not the least question the amount would have been much higher, as may be concluded from some having brought six hundred guilders ($240).

"These negroes afforded us great relief in our purchase of victuals, to supply the garrison, as we otherwise would have been compelled, through the low state of the treasury, caused by the continued troubles first with the barbarians, and now with our English neighbors, to make purchase of food with letters of exchange."

Extract Letter from Stuyvesant to South River, by "a Savage who carries it by Land."

August 17, 1664.—"Arrived here in safety, God be praised, on the 15th instant, the ship Gideon, which left Curacao, on the 21st of July, with three hundred slaves, viz., one hundred and sixty males, and one hundred and forty females, of whom nine died during the passage; the whole being a very poor assortment. The females certainly all so poor that we apprehend the largest part of them will remain at our charge, or we must otherwise part with them at a very low price."

Domine Bogardus.

BY D. T. V.

This reverend gentleman, of whose personal history we propose to give some account, came to this country in 1633, in the suite of Director Van Twiller, and was established as preacher in the only church then in the city. The edifice in which public worship was then held stood facing the river, on the line of the present Pearl street, about midway between Broad and Whitehall streets. It was a rude building, little better than a barn in appearance. Some nine or ten years afterwards a new and more substantial church edifice was erected within the walls of the fort, and the old building was converted into a place for sale of merchandise.

The Domine seems, during the earlier years of his ministry, to have enjoyed the confidence of all classes of his congregation, as it is not unfrequently found, in the proceedings of the legal tribunals, that differences between traders, mechanics, and others, which were brought into the court, were turned over to him for reconcilement. As to his abilities as a preacher, they seem to have been considered highly respectable, as we find mention made, in official papers, of the "good sermons" preached by him.

About the year 1637 or 1638, he married, in this city, Annetje, widow of Roelof Jansen, who came to this country as early as the year 1630, as assistant farmer on the estate of Patroon Van Renselaer. The mother of Annetje was also an early resident here, and practiced the vocation of midwife, and probably was the first who professionally followed that pursuit in this city. Her name was Tryn Jansen.

In 1636, Roelof Jansen received a patent for a farm containing about sixty-two acres, lying above the present Reade street, New York, and extending to Canal street, fronting on the North River shore. Soon after this he must have died, as the marriage of Domine Bogardus with his widow took place in 1637 or 1638. The widow at that time had four children by her first husband, viz., Sarah, who afterwards married Surgeon Hans Kierstede; Catrina, who married Johannes Van Bruggh; Fytje, who married Pieter Hartgers; and Jan Roelofsen.

Domine Bogardus resided in the neighborhood of the Fort and near the present corner of Whitehall and Bridge streets.

An incident occurred soon after the Domine's marriage which is peculiarly illustrative of the state of society in that infant stage of our history, as well as of the character of the Domine himself.

Our beloved city was then but a little village, and particularly given to scandal. Everybody had to do with other people's affairs, and endless troubles were the consequence. It so happened that the Domine's wife went to pay a friendly visit to a neighbor, Jacob Van Corlaer by name, and on going into the hall found occasion for suspicion that a certain female named Grietje Reiniers, and of equivocal reputation, was in the room, and therefore departed for home. While on her way, and passing a blacksmith shop, in front of which the road was muddy, she raised her dress to avoid the dirt. Grietje, when she heard how the Domine's wife had snubbed her, raised a story concerning the exposure of limbs by Madame Bogardus, which was by no means complimentary to the latter.

When this calumny came to the ears of the Domine, he forthwith commenced an action of slander, and inasmuch as the husband of said Grietje, whose name was Anthony Jansen Van Salee, was somewhat in arrears for church dues, the Domine sent for them, demanding payment instanter; and, as the money was not forthcoming, he likewise sued for the amount.

The progress of this litigation will be best illustrated by extracts from the records of that period :

October 4, 1638.—"Philip De Truy, the messenger, appeared and made solemn declaration that he went, on the order of Rev. Bogardus, to the house of Anthony Jansen Van Salee, to beseech him to pay the money for which he was delinquent, and that said Anthony said, in answer: 'If the Minister requires the payment of the money at once, then I will rather lose my head than pay him, and if he insists on this course of procuring his money, it may yet cause an effusion of blood.' Said De Truy then tried to pacify him with regard to Bogardus, and assured him that he was poor. Upon which said Anthony answered, that the course taken by Bogardus impeached their honor, and implied that they were dishonest, and said further, 'Should I clean the minister and remain unclean myself, what a foolish thing would that be.' "

October 6, 1638.—"Lysbet Dircks, wife of Barent Dircks, at the request of Domine Bogardus, made affidavit that she was called to act as midwife by Grietje Reiniers, wife of Anthony Jansen Van Salee, to assist her in child-birth, and after the child had been delivered, Grietje asked the midwife whom the child resembled, whether Andries Hudde or her husband, to which the midwife answered, 'If you don't know who is the father, how should I know.'"

November 6, 1638.—"Michael Jansen and others appeared at the request of Domine Bogardus, and made affidavit that on last Thursday, October 30, Grietje Reiniers, while at the house of said Jansen, asserted that the Rev. Bogardus had made a false oath."

October 13, 1638.—"Adam Rolantsen, the schoolmaster, appeared at the request of Domine Bogardus, and made declaration that in the year 1638, he was on the shore near the old magazine, and Grietje Reiniers was present, when he heard the sailors of the ship The South, then near the shore, cry out to Grietje, 'Whore! Whore!' upon which she lifted up her petticoats, and performed other obscene actions, more particularly mentioned in the affidavit."

October 13, 1638.—"Egbert Van Borsum and other young men appeared, at the request of Domine Bogardus, and made declaration that some time previously Grietje Reiniers came into the Fort and said, 'I have long enough been the whore of the nobility, henceforth I will be the whore of the rabble.' Two of her children were with her at the time, and she said, 'Take away these bastards and throw them against the wall, the brain springs from their heads.'"

October 14, 1638.—"Jacobus Van Corlaer appeared at the request of Domine Bogardus, and made declaration that on the 30th September, 1638, the wife of said Domine Bogardus came to his (Van Corlaer's) house, and without going further than in the entry she went away, saying that she suspected that Grietje Reiniers was in the house. He (Van Corlaer) followed after her, with the design to invite her to dine with him that day, and as she was passing the blacksmith shop, where the road is uneven and muddy, she placed her hand at her side and drew up her petticoat a little."

October 14, 1638.—"Hendrick Jansen also appeared, to make declaration as to the circumstance spoken of by the last witness, and said that 'he did see, on the 30th September, that the wife of the Minister Bogardus passed by his shop, and, as the road was very unequal and muddy, she placed her hand at her side and drew up her petticoats, not to dirty them.'

"In the action for slander, brought by Domine Bogardus against Anthony Jansen, as husband and guardian of his wife, Grietje Reiniers, the foregoing declarations were read, and the judgment of the Court was rendered on the 14th October, 1638, that Grietje Reiniers appear on the next Court-day, in Fort Amsterdam, and there make declaration, in public, at the sounding of the bell, that she knows the minister is an honest and pious man, and that she lied falsely ; and the defendant is further condemned in the costs of suit and three guilders for the poor.

"Furthermore, Anthony Jansen Van Salee is interdicted from carrying with him any weapons, of what nature soever, on this side of Fresh Water Brook, except a knife and an axe ; and further, that he shall not molest or offend, in any manner, the Minister Bogardus, either with words or acts. He is further condemned in a fine of twelve florins, in behalf of the Attorney-General."

Thus ended the slander suit.

We do not know what property was brought to the Domine by his marriage, except the farm on the North River, before spoken of. This was then in a condition without any attempt at cultivation having been made upon it, although part of it had been cleared and fenced. In 1639, the Domine first took measures to make it productive, and entered into an agreement with one Richard Brudnell, of which the following is the substance :

May 27, 1639.—"Agreement, Everardus Bogardus and Richard Brudnell.

"Everardus Bogardus shall deliver to said Brudnell possession of a plantation in fence, and also all the tools now on the plantation. Those hereafter purchased shall be at joint expense. If Brudnell deems it proper to enlarge the tobacco-house, he may do so at his own cost.

"Bogardus shall, for six months, furnish to said Brudnell a gun (with powder), and also a water-hound, both gun and dog to be returned after six months ; but if the gun be damaged, Bogardus may accept it or not, at his option.

"Said plantation, which has been recently cleared, shall be cultivated by Brudnell with all diligence, and be made a proper tobacco plantation.

"From the first crop Bogardus is to receive three hundred and fifty pounds of good tobacco.*

"As long as the powder and ball, which Brudnell shall receive from Bogardus, shall last, Bogardus shall have one-third of all that Brudnell shall kill."

This tenancy seems to have expired within three years, as a new agreement, with another tenant, was made in 1642, in substance as follows :

---

* Equivalent in value to about fifty-five dollars.

August 14, 1642.—"Agreement between Everardus Bogardus and Rufus Barton.

"He, Rufus Barton, shall have the land, situated on the North River, belonging to him, Bogardus, during five years, beginning September 1, 1642, and terminating September 1, 1647, when the harvest shall be brought into the barn; for all which the tenant shall pay annually two capons, as a recognition.

"It is further agreed that he, Bogardus, may select such a part of the valley as he shall desire to retain for his own cattle.

"It is further agreed, that the tenant shall construct a dwelling-house, at his own expense, in a place which shall be designated by Bogardus.

"At the expiration of the lease, said dwelling-house, with the palisades, shall be valued by impartial men, and the value shall be paid by Bogardus to Barton; and in future lettings, said tenant shall have the preference, before all others."

In order that the history of this farm, during the times of the Dutch, may appear consecutively, the following lease, executed after the death of the domine, is here inserted:

November 1, 1651.—"Govert Loockermas, Hans Kierstede, and Peter Hartgers, all connected, by marriage, with Anna Bogardus, widow of Rev. Bogardus, and as her attorneys, lease to Evert Pels the farm situated on the North River, and formerly in possession of Egbert Woutersen, the tenancy to begin on the 1st of May, 1652, and terminate May 1, 1658.

"The owner to deliver, with the farm, two mares, one colt, and one stallion of one year, two milch cows, one heifer, with calf, which to be at joint risk, in case of loss.

"The tenant, at end of lease, to restore same number of creatures, and the increase to be equally divided.

"There shall be further delivered to the tenant, two plowshares.

"The tenant shall pay for rent of the farm, dwelling-house, &c., annually, two hundred and twenty-five guilders, with thirty pounds of butter.

"It is left to the choice of the tenant to build him a house, at his own expense and risk, the same to be appraised, at the end of the lease, and paid for by the landlord.

"It is further agreed, that the tenant shall make, on the present house, a new tight roof, and deduct expense from rent.

"The tenant promises that he will fence the lands at his own expense, and will, at the expiration of the lease, deliver the same, well secured from any creatures."

Those familiar with the early history of our city are aware that a frightful Indian war prevailed in the colony of New Netherland, about the year 1643 and 1644, a war which brought desolation to many a fireside in the town of New Amsterdam and country round about. Among those who had families and interests in the colony, this war was exceedingly unpopular. But, as is alleged, it was brought on by Director Kieft, in spite of all the efforts to the contrary, by most of the influential citizens, among whom, not the least conspicuous, was Domine Bogardus. The conclusion of the war justified the apprehensions of those who opposed its commencement, as there were few, if any, throughout the colony, who had not suffered either the loss of friends and relatives, or destruction of their property.

Extremely violent were the complaints made against Kieft, and his advisers, and among the most vituperative was the Domine, who fulminated against them in the pulpit, until he fairly drove them out of the congregation. The Director and Council resolved to take up the cudgels against the Clergyman, and as early as March, 1645, they sent "a written admonition to the Rev. Bogardus, which he declined to accept in any manner or form, and returned the document by a messenger." Nothing daunted, indeed, he continued launching his spiritual darts upon them during several succeeding months, until, in the early part of 1646, the magistrates proceeded in form, and sent him a missive couched in the following terms :

"In the name of the Lord, Amen. In the year 1646, in New Netherland.

"The Honorable Director and Council, to the Reverend Everardus Bogardus, Minister of the Gospel in this place :

"Although we were informed of your proceedings during the administration of the former Director, Wouter Van Twiller, and though warned to be upon our guard, we did not consider it worth our notice, because we were confident that no man who preached the words of the Lord would so far forget himself, although we possess letters, in your hand-writing, among others, one of 17th June, 1634, from which it does not appear as if you were inspired with the spirit of the Lord, but, to the contrary, in a manner that would be unbecoming heathens, much less Christians, much less a preacher of the Gospel, when you scolded the magistrate appointed over you by God, for a child of the devil, a consummate villain, declaring that your bucks were better than he, and vaunted yourself that you would give next Sunday, from the pulpit, such a shake that you and he should shudder, with more of such injurious trash, which we pass by in silence, out of respect to that honorable man.

"During our government, you permitted yourself the same indecorous language, sparing scarce any individual in the country, not even your own wife nor her sister, especially you conducted yourself in that manner when you had been in good company, and your spirits were buoyed up, intermingling your human passions freely in what you brought forth in the pulpit. In this manner you have continued acting with the greatest criminals in the country, taking their part, and defending them, declining to execute the order to distribute the Sacrament of the Lord, and not daring to make use of it yourself; and, therefore, that it may not be in your power to take your ignorance for a pretext, we shall select a few samples from a large list, to renew your remembrance:

"On the 25th September, 1639, when you had administered our Lord's Supper, and perceiving that, late at night, the fire was yet burning in the Director's mansion, after you had been at the house of Jacob Van Curler, and you were thoroughly intoxicated, you exclaimed vehemently at the Director and Jochem Pieters, against whom you were enraged, because the Director requested a favor for Jacob Peters, which you refused, as appears from an affidavit in our possession.

"Since that period, you have been guilty of many deeds unbecoming a minister of the Gospel, of which we, nevertheless, took no notice, in the hope that you would behave yourself, at least in your office as a Christian, until at length, in March, 1643, when one Maryn Andriesen entered the Director's room with the deliberate purpose to murder him, which was prevented, and he was put in irons. Then you embraced the cause of that criminal, composed his writings, and took upon yourself to defend him. But, nevertheless, he was sent in chains to Holland, on which account you audaciously fulminated on the subject during a fortnight, and dishonored the pulpit by your passionate behavior. Furthermore, the manner in which during that time you conducted yourself every evening is known to all your neighbors. At last, you seemed for a while to be reconciled to the Director, and a short interval of peace was enjoyed; when, however, in 1644, one Laurens Cornelisen was here, a man of profligate character, who had violated his oath, had committed perjury and theft, he was taken under your patronage, and you were in daily correspondence with him, for the reason, merely, that he had slandered the Director.

"In the same year, during the summer, when the minister Doughty celebrated our Lord's Supper, you ascended the pulpit while in a state of extreme intoxication. So, too, on Friday, before Christmas, in the same year, when you preached the preparation sermon, you were in the same condition. And when you dined, in the beginning of the year 1645, at the Attorney-General's, you arrived there in a state of intoxication, denouncing, among others, Deacon Oloff Stevensen for a thief, on which the Director, then present, addressed you in an affectionate manner, intimating that it was not the place to make use of such language—still you went on, and the Director said, at last, that when you were drunk you did nothing else but utter slanderous language. That, on last Friday, you yourself came, in a state of intoxication, into the pulpit; that it was indecorous in a minister to lead such a life, which scandalized the whole congregation.

"Furthermore, when, a few days afterwards (viz., 22d January, 1645), the Director was not at church, you denounced him in the most brutal manner, saying, 'what are the great men of the country? what but receptacles of wrath, fountains of pain and trouble. Nothing is aimed at but to plunder other people's property; to dismiss, to banish, and carry off persons to Holland.' To avoid further scandal, the Director did not longer assist in the congregation, being conscious that he never took another man's property, never committed any injustice in his office, never banished a person who had not thrice deserved it. If he dismissed some from offices, that was his prerogative, for which he is responsible to the Directors of the Company, but not to the minister.

"Furthermore, when, on the 21st March, 1645, you were at the wedding of Adam Brower, and in a state of intoxication, you again began scolding in the presence of the Secretary and the Attorney-General, violently blaming the Director, saying that he called your wife a whore, when you had yourself said that you did not believe the Director had said so, and that it could not be proved. In consequence of your language, we, on the 23d March, moved by Christian compassion, and from the consideration due to your office, instead of prosecuting you in a court of justice, sent you under seal a Christian admonition which you twice declined to accept, as was reported by the court messengers.

"Furthermore, you ministered our Lord's Supper, at Passover and Pentecost, without partaking of it, but conducting yourself in a very offensive manner, pretending that the Director sent a person (Lysbet, the midwife), to your house, to sue for peace, but that you declined making peace with him.

"Furthermore, that you abused Anthony de Hooge, and when the peace with the Indians was about to be concluded, nothing was left undone by you to break off the negotiations, and in lieu of devout prayers, you poured down a string of invectives, which might have been followed by the most pernicious consequences.

"When at last peace was concluded with the savages, an extract from the orders of the magistrates, was sent to you, that thanks be offered up to God for it. It is true you preached, and a good sermon too, but you said not a single word about the peace, neither thanked our God for it, although the day had been set apart for that solemn purpose, and was duly observed by all other ministers within our limits, with a fervent zeal.

"By this your affection towards the Company (by whom you are supported), and towards the welfare of this country, may be estimated. Your principles, also, are manifested by your patronage of those who have defrauded and injured the Company, and by the clandestine meetings with them, which still continue.

"Furthermore, when you preached a sermon on the 22d of December, the day of preparation for the Lord's Supper, you said in public that you often administered the Lord's Supper, without partaking of it, and wished that they who caused our divisions in the Church could be cut off. Your bad tongue is, in our opinion, the only cause of these divisions, and your obstinacy the only reason of their continuance. We do not know of a single family not desirous of settling our troubles, except yourself. When you visit a family, you never inquire for the cause of their absence from the church. We, however, can tell the reason of such absence. On the 24th, you informed the congregation that in Africa, which has a climate of intense heat, different species of animals copulate together, by which various monsters are generated; but you know not, said you, from whence, in such a temperate clime as this, such monsters of men are produced. They are the mighty ones, who place their confidence in men, and not in the Lord! Children might have told to whom you alluded. It is these and similar sermons that have occasioned our absence from the church.

"All these things being regarded by us as having a tendency towards the general ruin of the country, both Church and State being endangered where the magistrate is despised, and it being considered that your duty and oath imperatively demand their proper maintenance; whereas, your conduct stirs up the people (already too much divided) to mutiny and rebellion—that the introduction of novelties causes schisms and abuses in the Church, and makes us a scorn and a laughing stock to our neighbors, all which cannot be tolerated in a country where justice is maintained; wherefore, our sacred duty demanded that we seek out a remedy against this evil; and this remedy we now intend to employ, in virtue of our high commission from the Company, and we design to prosecute you in a court of justice; and, to do it in due form, we made an order that a copy of these our deliberations should be delivered to you, to answer in fourteen days, protesting that we intend to treat you with such Christian lenity as our conscience and the welfare of State and Church shall in any way permit. 2d January, 1864."

To this missive the Rev. Mr. Bogardus appears to have answered on the day following the above date. The answer is not to be found, but the following entry appears in the records:

January 4, 1646,—"Having seen the writing sent to our Director by Everardus Bogardus, minister of our church, by the court messenger, on the 3d of January last, which writing is useless and absurd, as not answering in any respect the charges conveyed to said Bogardus on the 2d January, 1646. Wherefore, it is decreed, that said Bogardus shall, within the time limited, answer precisely the contents of that paper, in an affirmative or negative manner, under penalty that action be taken against him as a rebel and contumax.

"Done in Council, in Fort Amsterdam, in New Netherland."

To this the Domine appears, after some delay, to have replied, as the following entry occurs in the records:

"January 18, 1646.—Having seen a certain paper of Rev. Bogardus, sent to us by the court messenger, filled with useless subterfuges, calumnies, and injuries, besides with a profanation of God's holy word, and designed to vilify his magistrates, of which said Rev. Bogardus, according to his custom, makes use to obscure the truth, and not at all answering our griefs and charges of 2d and 3d January. Therefore, we command him, for the second time, to answer us in form within fourteen days by affirmation or negation simply, under the penalty prescribed in our former order."

While the Domine was preparing his answer, he was further troubled by the institution of a lawsuit against him for slander, in which suit Oloff Stevensen (Van Cortland), one of the church deacons, was plaintiff, an answer was put in on 25th January, and on the 1st February the answer of the Domine in the case of the Director and Counsel was sent in, to which the following reference is made :

" February 1, 1646.—Having seen the insolent paper of the Rev. Bogardus, pretending to be an answer on our griefs, wherein he denies some of these, and requests proofs, it is ordered that the Attorney-General proceed with the matter."

The suit of the deacon, meanwhile, proceeded, and on 22d February, the Domine was ordered to prove his accusation within eight days.

The next entry refers to the " griefs " of the magistrates, and is as follows :

" March 8, 1646.—Having seen the reply of Everardus Bogardus, minister of the Gospel, of this date, it is ordered, that if he has anything further to say, either against the witnesses or in his defense, that he shall do so within eight days, and, also, with a declaration, why he has dared to abuse, from his pulpit, the Director and Council, and why he was unwilling to obey their commands. If he does not submit, he shall be prosecuted, all his excuses notwithstanding."

But the Domine was not thus to be subdued, and entered, what may be called, a " plea to the jurisdiction," as we find, by a subsequent entry, which is as follows :

" March 22, 1646.—The minister, Everardus Bogardus, delivered in writing his answer, on the order of 15th March, and previously, in which answer he declares, that he will not enter, for the present, on a thorough discussion of this affair, either with respect to the evidences or to the matter itself ; and whereas, he, Bogardus, declines to submit to the Director and Council, as his judges, although we, by our commission from their High Mightinesses his Highness the Prince, and the Noble Directors, are fully qualified to decide in this affair, as relating to our office, and the authority of our superiors is legally vested in us ; nevertheless, to obviate all pretext of criticism, we are satisfied to invest others with our own lawful right, and to appoint impartial, respectable judges, such as the Rev. Johannes Megapolensis, Rev. Mr. Doughty, and two or three impartial members from this province, provided said Bogardus will agree to submit to their judgment, as we promise on our side to do ; and that, meanwhile, he will not further offend the Director and Council, directly or indirectly, either in private or in public; and if, in the mean time another Director and Council shall be appointed, we have no objection at all to submit the case to them. On which proposal, said Bogardus shall communicate his resolution on the 12th April next.

"Done 22d March, 1646, in Council, in New Amsterdam."

On the 12th April, as required, the Domine presented his answer to the foregoing proposition, the nature of which answer will be seen from the following entry :

April 12, 1646.—" Having seen the answer of Everardus Bogardus, minister of the Gospel, delivered to us, in writing, on the 12th of April, in which he declines to accept the courteous offer of the Director and Council, proposed to him on the 22d of March past, with regard to submitting the lawsuit commenced against him to the decision of two reformed ministers and a few impartial inhabitants of the country, but appeals to the new Director and Council ;

" Now, as we are uncertain when such Director may arrive, so it is our duty to put a stop to the disorder and scandal which are prevailing more and more, and are therefore, resolved, that the suit commenced shall go on without interruption, and therefore, we command that an answer to his last reply shall be sent to said Bogardus, within eight days, the same to be replied to by him for the last time, on the 26th of this month. If he neglects, judgment shall be pronounced."

The next entry occurs on the 26th of April, 1646, and is as follows :

" Having seen the answer of the Rev. Bogardus, of this 26th of April, sent by the court messenger, in which he persists, as before, making use again of many threatening denunciations ; therefore, it is resolved, that the matter shall be decided on the documents which are now before the Court."

But still, the magistrates hesitated to pronounce judgment, and delayed any further action until the 11th of June, when they sent the following missive to the Domine :

" The Honorable Director and Council, to the Rev. Bogardus, Minister of the Gospel in this city.

" Although the proposal which we made to you to leave the decision of our dispute to impartial men, agreeably to your wishes, sufficiently justifies our proceedings, and shows our inclination for good understanding, while your refusal to assent thereto, shows a contrary disposition ; nevertheless, the respect which we owe to the sacred dignity of your office, and our cordial wishes for your welfare, induces us once more to bring the subject to your attention, inasmuch as a highly favorable opportunity presents itself from the presence here of the ministers, Revs. Johannes Megapolensis and Mr. Doughty, to whom may be joined such other impartial members as you may select. And we do solemnly protest, that in case of your refusal, we shall be compelled to go on with the prosecution, and in order that we may all, in the midst of the congregation, pray to God to dispose our hearts and yours to a Christian reunion, it is our desire that the Rev. Megapolensis shall preach next Sunday, as has been his custom, when here, and that we may thus again have an opportunity of admiring the great gifts and talents which God has bestowed upon him. Wherefore, we are assured you will not decline to relinquish the pulpit on that occasion, and afford us the opportunity of hearing him. We expect your answer on this last point to-day; and on the first point, on next Thursday, 14th of June.

This is the last of the dispute between the Director and his Council and the Rev. Bogardus, so far, at least, as appears by the Police Records.

In the course of our account of this controversy, it was stated that Deacon Oloff Stevensen Van Cortland commenced a suit for slander against Domine Bogardus. We did not think proper to interrupt the regular course of the more important case by following the progress of the Deacon's slander suit. That suit was, however, proceeding regularly, and its result seems to have been so satisfactory to the parties themselves, as well as to the Director and Council, that it is by no means improbable it was deemed to settle the rights, and point out the wrongs, of all the disputants, and that therefore the proceedings in the Director's suit were dropped.

The last date at which we noted the progress of the Director's action against the Domine was on the 22d February, 1646, on which day the Domine was ordered to bring proof of the truth of what he had said respecting the Deacon.

The case proceeded with written pleadings. On the 15th March, a writing filed exhibits to some extent the nature of the slander complained of. By this it appears that the Deacon had been officious in charging the Domine with threatening the Director, and in retaliation, the Domine charged the Deacon with having made himself rich out of his master's goods.

The Domine strenuously resisted having the suit tried by the Director and Council, whom he alleged to be personally inimical to him, and managed to keep off the trial for several months; and, finally, an agreement was come to which is expressed in the following entry :

"June 11, 1646. — As we received a petition of Deacon Oloff Stevensen, Commissary of wares and merchandise, in which he requests that we may nominate four good impartial men by whom the altercation between him and the Rev. Everardus Bogardus may be brought to an issue, to which said Bogardus had consented in a letter exhibited to us. Therefore we nominate the following persons, viz. : Rev. Megapoleniss, Mr. de Hooges, Jonker Adriaen Van Donck, and Laurens Van Heusden, Commissary, whose assistance we ask and whom we authorize to reconcile those differences, as far as lies in their power, reserving to ourselves the right of prosecution of Oloff Stevensen, if any cause therefor appears."

The arbitrators proceeded on the same day to the consideration of the subject, and, it seems, finished it on the same day, as their report is so dated ; it was as follows :

"June 11, 1646.—Whereas, we, the subscribers, have been authorized by the Director-General and Council, in New Netherland, to decide the dispute between the Rev. Bogardus and Oloff Stevensen, and to reconcile them to each other, as far as possible ; and whereas, we have carefully examined all the documents in the case, and being convinced that no fault can be found with Oloff Stevensen acting as he did under the commission with which he was honored by the commander ; and inasmuch, also, as the Rev. Bogardus has declared that, if he had been informed of the existence of that commission, he should have had a different opinion of Oloff Stevensen, than that expressed by him,

"We therefore unanimously conclude, that the difference between said disputants is finally and forever annulled, and that all other difficulties which have arisen against the Rev. Bogardus, from this matter, are now to be considered as removed, and ought not to be revived in future against him.

"Done in Manhattans, June 11, 1646.

Signed, JOHANNES MEGAPOLENSIS.
ANTONY DE HOOGES.
LAURENS VAN HEUSDEN.
ADRIAEN VAN DONCK."

The Director-General and Council approved this decision, and recorded the entry thereof, as follows :

"Whereas, a certain lawsuit has been for a long time before us, between Oloff Stevensen, Deacon and Commissary on cargoes, in behalf of the West India Company, plaintiff, and the Rev. Everardus Bogardus, minister, defendant, when, after a long discussion of contested points, as defendant produced no proofs, we were resolved to give judgment in the case, when both parties solicited us that we would authorize four good and impartial men to decide their differences, which we approved and authorized. And said persons so appointed have rendered their decision to the contentment of both parties, who have requested that we might approve and confirm it, as we do approve and confirm it now, as a solid and valid judgment, even as if we ourselves had pronounced it.

"Done in Council, in Fort Amsterdam, June 12, 1646."

We have now only to record the sad fate of this worthy clergyman, whose name is so closely interwoven with the early history of our city. The unfortunate results of the Indian war, which had thrown such a cloud upon the fortunes of the rising colony of New Netherland, had, as we have seen, thrown the whole community into a scene of discord, and almost of disruption. The leading parties engaged in the altercations of the time, including Kieft, Bogardus, and a great number of others, sailed together, in the ship Princess, for Holland, in the year 1647, having the principal object in view of presenting the causes of the country's troubles before the Superiors in Holland. The Princess was cast away on the coast of England, and most of the passengers, including Kieft and Bogardus, perished in the wreck.

The First Establishment of the Village of Harlem.

BY D. T. V.

Jochem Pietersen Kuyter, a gentleman of good education, who had previously been a commander in the East India Company, under the King of Denmark, came to New Netherland in 1639, and soon after purchased the flats on which the present village of Harlem is situated. He was a man of some means, and built a dwelling there, where, with his wife and family, he established his home, to pass his days in the enjoyment of rural occupations. He called his estate Zegendaal, or Happy Valley.

We find, by the following record, how ruthlessly his hopes were blasted within a short period. Unfortunately, an Indian war broke out in 1643, and no exposed settlement was free from danger.

March 9, 1644.—Appeared the following persons, who, jointly and severally, at the request of Mr. Jochem Pietersen Kuyter, declared as follows :

"Cornelisen Cornelisen, about twenty-two years old, declares, that he being a sentinel at night before the house of said Jochem Pietersen, being about two o'clock near the corn-rick, about fifty paces from the barn, did see approaching a burning pile, the flame as blue as the flame of brimstone, about twenty paces from the house, between the dunghill and cherry door, which pile or arrow fell on the thatched reeds with which the house was roofed, and the house was soon in full flame through the force of the wind. A little after, he heard the firing of a gun from the same spot whence the arrow came. He saw the house burned to the ground. He says further, that the English soldiers, while the fire lasted, would not leave the cellar in which they slept, and remained there till the house was destroyed. In consequence, they obtained no assistance whatever from the English.

"John Hegeman and Peter Jansen make declarations to the same effect, as to the conduct of the English soldiers.

by the Indians, whom they still heard the next morning hallooing and firing.

"Dirck Gerritsen corroborates the statement as to the English soldiers."

March 8, 1645.—"Jan Evertsen Bout, about forty-four years old and Claes Jansen Backer, about thirty-six years old, made declaration in due form :

"That on the 7th March, we heard some talk by a savage, named Ponkes, a Wequaaskeek, in the Indian language, with which we are well acquainted, who voluntarily declared that our enemies, the savages, had not set the house of Jochem Pietersen on fire, and that never, by any savage, one single word was mentioned of it ; whereas, it was their custom, as he said, to boast, whenever they perpetrated any mischief, no matter how bad it may be ; but he further said, it was well and generally known, by the savages, that the Dutch burned the house."

(The rest of the MS. is defaced.)

Notwithstanding his misfortunes, Kuyter persevered in his design of enjoying the sweets of life in his "Happy Valley" home ; and it appears, after the peace was established with the savages, he sought to reinstate himself upon his property ; but his finances appear to have been affected by his previous misfortunes, and he was compelled to call in the aid of some of his friends, to assist in rebuilding his house and placing his fields in condition for cultivation. The following agreement shows that, to do this, he was obliged to part with the title to three-fourths of his property :

"This day, the 23d of September, 1651, an amicable agreement was made between Mr. Jochem Pietersen Kuyter, a free merchant, on the one side ; and the Hon. Petrus Stuyvesant, Director-General of New Netherland, Curacao, and its dependencies, Lucas Rodenberg, Governor of Curacao, and Cornelis De Potter, free merchant, of the other side, concerning a piece of land lying on Manhattan Island, and belonging to said Jochem Pietersen Kuyter, named Zegendaal (Happy Vale,) or, by the Indians, called Schorrakyn, bounded on the south by land of William Beekman, Lieutenant of the Citizens' Company, at this place, and upon the border of the Herr Johannes La Montagne's lot, so on the first rock stretching northwards, into the great kill (Harlem river), having to the west, towards the North river, a meadow of three or four morgens (6 or 8 acres). The aforesaid land contains about two hundred morgens (400 acres), but is not precisely known, and yet remains to be ascertained with more accuracy, on the following conditions, viz.,

"That said Kuyter shall cede, transport, and convey to the said Stuyvesant, Rodenberg, and DePotter, the first three-fourth parts of said land, being one-fourth part for each; while he, said Kuyter, retains one-fourth part for himself, and to his own behoof, upon condition that the said Kuyter shall receive from the aforesaid gentlemen the sum of one thousand Carolus guilders (equivalent to $400), of which sum each of said gentlemen is to pay a third part, with this understanding, that the said money is to be employed at once in the cultivation of the said land. The said land to remain undivided, until it is agreed, by a majority of those interested, to make separation of the shares.

"During which time said Jochem Pietersen Kuyter is to remain the cultivator and superintendent of all the land, to the greatest profit and best advantage of all interested, among whom he is to distribute the profits in equal shares, whether such profits come from grain, stock, or otherwise. It being understood, however, that the wife of Jochem Pietersen Kuyter may keep for her family some hens and ducks. The said Kuyter shall receive for his services, as cultivator, one hundred and fifty guilders, that is to say, each of the three partners shall pay fifty guilders.

"And in order to make a good beginning, with God's assistance, there shall be built, at the expense of said partners, on the lot aforesaid, a decent dwelling-house, to accommodate the said Kuyter. But this dwelling-house shall be the property of all the partners in common; and of all expenses connected therewith, and of other expenses, said Kuyter shall keep a correct account, and communicate it to the partners.

"And it is further stipulated, that, as soon as any distribution of grain is made, or that the lot shall be divided by the partners aforesaid, the said Kuyter shall previously receive his thousand guilders for the transfer and cession of said lot, and when such division shall take place, it shall be done by lot, without allowing any preference to any of the parties. Further stipulated, that, in case of the absence of one of the partners, another must be put in his place; and secondly, that, in case the said cultivator should die, another may be placed in his stead, though all the partners be not consulted.

"Thirdly. That, in case of such decease, the widow of the deceased shall succeed in his share, or may transfer it to one of the partners.

"And, therefore, that this contract may have full effect, said Jochem Pietersen Kuyter transfers his lands to the partners aforesaid, as if he had actually received the stipulated sum; while they, on their part, for his security, submit their persons and property, real and personal, present and future, to the control of any court of justice.

But the hopes of Kuyter were still more ruthlessly to be blasted; for, in the year 1654, he was ruthlessly murdered in his own house, by the savages, and the "Happy Valley" was immediately deserted by his family, and the property went to waste.

After the Indian troubles of the latter period became settled, Governor Stuyvesant, who, as has been seen, owned an interest in the property, determined to erect a village there, and the following extracts show the measures taken for that purppose:

March 4, 1658.—"The Director-General and Council in New Netherland give notice that they have resolved, with a view to promote agriculture, and the security of this island, with the animals pasturing upon it, and also with the intention to increase the amusements of this city, Amsterdam, in New Netherland, to form a new village or hamlet at the end of this island, in the vicinity of the lands of Jochem Pietersen, deceased; and in order, also, that agriculture may be further encouraged, the intended village is favored with the following privileges:

"First. The inhabitants of said village shall be granted, in fee, eighteen, twenty, to twenty-nine morgens (morgen of two acres) of plow land, and six to eight morgens of the meadow for pasture; and shall also have exemption from paying tithes during fifteen years following the 1st of May next, provided they pay within three years, either at once or by installments, eight guilders ($3.20), for each morgen of arable land, which shall be for the benefit of the representatives of said Jochem Pietersen or his creditors, said party having in former days been expelled from said lands, and suffered thereon great losses.

"Secondly. To prevent similar losses and difficulties in future, the Director-General and Council promise the inhabitants of the aforesaid village that they will assist and protect them in all possible manner, and whenever said inhabitants give warning of their danger, or solicit assistance, the Government will send them twelve or fifteen soldiers, at the expense of the Government, except for their lodging and board, which is to be provided by the village.

"Thirdly. The Director-General and Council shall favor the aforesaid village, as soon as it shall be increased to twenty or twenty-five families, with a subaltern bench of justices, with the privilege of nominating a double number of magistrates from the most judicious and best qualified among the inhabitants, from whom the Director-General and Council shall make choice.

"Fourthly. The Director-General and Council promise further, that, as soon as the stated number of families have settled there, they will make every effort to supply them with a good, pious, and orthodox minister, on account of whose support the Director-General and Council will pay half the salary, and the other half must be satisfied by the inhabitants, under the advice of their magistrates, as to the best method of raising and paying the same.

"Fifthly. The Director-General and Council will employ the negroes of the Company to assist the inhabitants of said village, at such period as they may find most convenient, in making a good wagon road from New Amsterdam to said village, in order that it may be made easy to go between the two places, either on horseback or in a wagon.

"Sixthly. The Director-General and Council have resolved, for the purpose of promoting the progress of said village, that they will not undertake the establishment of any other village or concentration, nor permit others to do so, until the aforesaid village shall have arrived in esse, or at least, until the aforesaid number of inhabitants shall actually have become established there.

"Seventhly. The Director-General and Council, with the view to encourage a neighborly correspondence with the English towards the East, will, at a convenient season, establish a ferry in the vicinity of the aforesaid village, with the accommodation of a good scow, to ferry cattle and horses over the river; and further, they will favor the said village with a cattle and horse fair.

"Eighthly. Persons who are inclined to settle in that village, on the above-mentioned conditions, or to begin any farm by their servants, shall present their names within a short time, and as soon as possible, at the Secretary's office, and afterwards they shall make a commencement without delay, by, at least, placing an able-bodied and well-armed person on the spot selected or purchased. And in case of delay in this respect, such person shall lose all claim to the property.

"Done at a meeting of the Director-General and Council, at Fort Amsterdam, in New Netherland, 4th March, 1658.

P. STUYVESANT,
NICASIUS DE SILLE,
PETER TOUNEMAN."

A few months afterwards, the following notice was published :

"November 27, 1658.—All persons who may be in any manner interested, are hereby notified that such persons as have acquired the right to any lots or plantations, in the newly settled village of Harlem, shall take possession of the same within six weeks from this date, either by themselves or others, and make preparation for their cultivation by fencing and planting, under the penalty that, after that period, such lots as have not been actually taken possession of, as aforesaid, shall be granted to the first man desiring its possession. Each person thus is warned.

"Done at Fort Amsterdam, in New Nethlerand, November 27, 1658."

It appears, from subsequent records, that the project of a village was successful, and that the "concentration" was soon after accomplished, on the terms announced in the proclamation. The place received the name of New Harlem.

In July, 1661, the La Montagne family, who were heirs to a farm called "Vredendal," granted to the Councilor La Montagne, on the flats, made application to the Director-General and Council, in which they set forth that they were desirous of taking possession of their lands situated about a mile from New Harlem, and wished the privilege of establishing a hamlet, or concentration of eight or ten families, near the place whereon the water-mill is about to be constructed on the creek, for the benefit of the village of New Harlem. This hamlet they would agree should be under the jurisdiction of the village of New Harlem, and they further urged that it would not only give them better opportunity to cultivate their lands, but afford a better protection to the village, would be a benefit to the mill, and would afford a resting-place for strangers, who might either have lost their way or might be in search of their cattle. As to the precise spot on which their hamlet should be located, they suggested either the point of the flat land opposite the place where the mill is to be constructed, or on the heights, near the spring, or in any other place that might be designated by the authorities.

This request was, however, refused, "as it must cause a great injury and insult to the village of Harlem, and be contrary to the privileges granted several years ago to said village."

March 9, 1663.—The schepens of the village of New Harlem presented a petition to the Director-General and Council, setting forth that several of the inhabitants of that village would find it difficult to pay immediately the eight guilders per morgen ($1.60) per acre, at which the lands there were purchased; and that, inasmuch as the inhabitants had been granted immunity from tithes during fifteen years, the schepens proposed to reduce this privilege or immunity from fifteen to ten years, in consideration that they be discharged from the payment of the eight guilders per morgen for the land.

The Director and Council, however, refused the proposition, and held to their previous conditions, adding that no person is obliged to accept more land than he can pay for.

On the 19th March, 1663—The inhabitants drew up a memorial, in the following words:

"To the Noble, Great, and Respectful, the Director-General and Council, in New Netherland.

"The undersigned, proprietors and inhabitants of the lands within the village and jurisdiction of New Harlem, show with reverence, how that they, to their great solicitude and anxiety, have been informed that the eight guilders which your Honors commanded said proprietors to pay for each morgen of land taken by them should be paid in beavers, or their value; and whereas, this was not the understanding of your petitioners, who, in respect to the notification of your Honors, on the 4th of March, 1658, in relation to the privileges with which said village was to be favored, did not conceive anything else in respect to the value set upon said land, but that payment thereof was to be made in sewant currency, agreeable to customary use. If they had understood differently, they would never have resolved, nor could they have been persuaded, to burden themselves with so hard an undertaking, as the bringing those lands under cultivation, besides paying thus heavily for them; and even now, the petitioners, instead of finding themselves eased in their labors, have great difficulty in making these lands fit for cultivation, and they are now entirely discouraged, as they had no apprehension that they should encounter the present difficulty.

"Wherefore, addressing themselves to your Honors, they pray that it may please your Honors to declare, by a favorable answer on the margin, that the petitioners may pay the eight guilders per morgen in sewant, in the usual course between man and man.

Answer to the foregoing.

"March 19, 1663.—The preceding petition being presented and read, and, besides this, having heard and considered the proposals of the schepens of the village of New Harlem, presented in the name of the inhabitants of that village, the Director-General and Council after several discussions pro and con, resolved to relieve the inhabitants from the payment of the eight guilders per morgen, as they accepted, and were obliged to pay, by the terms on which the lands were distributed; provided that the said inhabitants, in lieu of an immunity from tithes during fifteen years, shall enjoy the same only eight years, so that they shall be obliged to satisfy the tithes promptly in the year 1666, which tithes from 1666 to 1672, both included, shall, in lieu of the eight guilders per morgen, be for the benefit of the parties (or their creditors) who, previously, were expelled from said lands."

The above being agreed to, the permanent settlement of the rights of the inhabitants was established.

But though enjoying the protection from savage inroad afforded by the mutual support of a neighborhood, still it seems the people were under apprehensions of danger from their treacherous Indian neighbors. The following extract illustrates the history of that day:

November 17, 1663.—"On this day appeared in the Fort SCHOUWENARACK, Chief of Wickquaeskeek,* soliciting permission for himself and his men to fish unmolested near the village of New Harlem.

Which was granted, on condition that they should not come with arms near the Dutch dwellings; and, also, in order that it may be known with certainty that they were his savages, and not some of Esopus, there was delivered to him a signet or seal of the Dutch Company, printed in wax on small billets, which might be shown on meeting Dutchmen.

NOTE.—In all, there were delivered to him twelve seals, viz.,

Four for those of Wickquaeskeek, whose chief is Schouwenarack.

Four for those of Kichtawaugh, whose chief is Meghtesewakes.

Four for those of Rewegnonck, whose chief is Arrupin.

Kiskingtheng and Sintsink have no chiefs, but are considered to belong to these savages.

The Nicolls' Map of Manhattan Island.

BY D. T. V.

1664–1688.

(For which see in the front of this volume.)

The map entitled as above, which is this year presented to the readers of the Manual, is one of the most interesting memorials of our city which has yet been discovered. For its discovery, the public are indebted to George H. Moore, Esq., the indefatigable and accomplished librarian of the New York Historical Society, who, at his personal sacrifice of labor and expense, has, within the last few years, rescued from European archives (which had previously escaped the researches of our antiquaries and historians) several illustrations of our early history of equal interest with that now presented.

This map is the earliest known to have been compiled with reference to the configuration of Manhattan Island. It is obviously made from a survey, as it is so entirely correct and conformable in its outlines to the present condition of the island, as to render it familiar to the citizen of the present day, at the first glance. There can be little doubt that this map was transmitted to the Duke of York, soon after the conquest by the English, in 1664. Not only well-known localities, the dates of whose existence and progress are ascertained, indicate the date of the map at about the period above mentioned, but the designation as to Governor Stuyvesant's farm, "The Governor's that last was, his Bowry," dispel all reasonable doubt on the subject. Whether or not this map was compiled from a survey made under English or under Dutch authority, is not entirely certain, but we believe it was under the former. This conclusion is arrived at from the different orthography used in designating localities from that used by the Dutch, showing that, although the names of localities were adopted by the English from the Dutch, they had not copied any method of spelling formerly used by the Dutch, and generally found in their records.

It cannot fail to be remarked that, not only Manhattan Island, but all the country, on opposite shores of the river, was, with little exception, at the period of the compilation of this ancient map, still in a wild condition, the settlements being few and small.

To guide the reader in going over the map, we shall point out its noticeable features, and, in so doing, will commence at the right-hand side of the map, and proceed towards the northern extremity of the island.

The island in the Bay is that which is now called Ellis' Island. In the times of the Dutch, it was called Oyster Island, being the rendezvous and eating place of the oyster catchers from New Amsterdam. Oysters, as the early records inform us, were then so plentiful on the Jersey flats, near this island, as to furnish the most economical sort of food. So bountiful and cheap was the supply of this edible, that it was unfashionable to eat them. They had the reputation (certainly a false one) of being unwholesome, and they were mostly used by the poorer classes. Even the Indians preferred clams as food, though to obtain them much greater time and labor was necessary than to obtain a supply of the finest oysters.

The next locality to be pointed out is the little cluster of dwellings designating the site of "Gamoenepa," the name of which is not given on the map, but which will be readily recognized as situated on the Jersey shore, on the present site of Communipaw. This was one of the earliest settlements on the shores opposite New Amsterdam.

Following along the same shore, northerly, will be found designated the settlement then called "Pavonia," now Jersey City. Beyond that point, on the Jersey shore, the country was in its primitive condition of a wilderness. The jutting point, near Hoboken, then called after the Indian title of "Hoboken Hackingh," is plainly designated on the map.

Before proceeding to point out the localities on Manhattan Island, those upon the "Longe Island" shore will be noticed. The first settlement designated on that shore is that marked as "The Ferry." The precise locality of this point was that now known as the ferry landing at the foot of Fulton street, Brooklyn. Half a dozen houses, together with the ferry house, constituted the settlement. About a mile in the interior were a few houses constituting the settlement called "Breuckelen."

Next beyond the ferry, the "Walbout" is designated by name. The principal settler at which place was Jan Joris Rapelje. The inhabitants were few in number, and were engaged in farming in that vicinity.

At the creek, called "Norman's Kill," now called Bushwick creek, was the plantation of a settler named Jansen, generally called the Norman.

"Mashpack Kill," as designated on the map, was known among the Dutch as "Mespatt's Kill." The plantation pointed out on the map was known as "Domine's Hook," it having been granted, at an early period, to Domine Everardus Bogardus, the Dutch clergyman at New Amsterdam. Beyond that point, the island lay in wilderness

The designation of "the Sounde" given to the East River, on this map, is the first which we have found so applied, although that was a common appellation in subsequent years. In the times of the Dutch, the title of "Oost River," or East River, was that commonly applied to this stream, and which has survived the name given it by the English.

The title of "Hudson's River" given on this map, seems also to have, at this period, been adopted by the English, in preference to that previously in common use among the Dutch of "Noordt Revier," or North River. These two titles still dispute popularity in the common designation of the river, although upon modern maps, and in modern history, the English title has obtained supremacy.

The city of "New York," then recently changed from "Niew Amsterdam," is plainly laid down, with its streets and fort. "Copsie rocks" jut out at the southern extremity of the island. The canal through the "Heere Graft" is indicated. Wall street, with its line of palisades, and block-houses at its extremities, is indicated; and further on the curved road called "Maagde Paatje," or Maiden lane, is laid down. Beyond the latter road, on the East River shore, is to be observed a house and a dock. This was the store-house of Isaac Allerton, a New England trader. Next beyond, on the shore, is a house, which was near the ferry landing, the site of which may be indicated as the present Peck slip.

Still further onward is shown the "old mill" at the mouth of the "Fresh Water," a brook leading from the Kolck pond, with a branch traversing Wolfert's meadows, which then covered Roosevelt and adjacent streets. The Kolck pond is also indicated on the map, though not by name.

The windmill, which stands forth conspicuously, was situated on the commons, near the present park.

The house and inclosure delineated on the North River shore, west of the Kolck pond, was on the plantation of Domine Bogardus, called the "Domine's Bowry."

A road is laid down on the map, being a continuation of the "Heere straat," or Broadway, extending from the commons and windmill to Governor Stuyvesant's "Bowry," or plantation, as will be at once seen; the line of this road was about the same as the present Chatham street and Bowery. It does not appear to have proceeded further than the Governor's residence. At this point, a small hamlet was located, with a tavern, which was a place of suburban resort for the townspeople.

Next, north of the Governor's Bowery, but situated on the shore of Hudson's River, is pointed out the settlement known among the Dutch as "Sapokanicar," an Indian title, which has, by some, been supposed to indicate the principal Indian village on the island, and the residence of the Sachem of the tribe of Manhattans. This locality was, a century after the date of this map, called by the English "Greenwich." Its site was near the present foot of Gansevoort street.

Little more respecting settlements north of the place last mentioned is indicated on the map. The whole island, south of the Harlem flats, is apparently covered with forest. The only exception is found at Turtle Bay, or "Deutel Bay," as called by the Dutch. At this place was a tobacco plantation, established by George Holmes and Thomas Hall, two English refugees, about twenty years previous to the date of the map; its site is pointed out on the map.

"New Harlem" appears distinctly indicated on the map. The village had been established but three or four years previous to the conquest of the country by the English.

The islands in the "Sound" are indicated by the following titles: That now known as Blackwell's Island, is called "Hogg Island," and appears to have been inhabited. The present Barn Island is called "Great Barnes Island," and the present Randall's Island is called "L (Little) Barnes Island." Hell Gate, also, figures conspicuously upon the map.

With reference to this map, it may be stated, that one of about the same date, and apparently derived from the same survey, has been given in a previous number of the Manual. That before given was colored, and more carefully gotten up than this. This is probably a more exact copy of the original than the other, as the latter is evidently elaborated to make a little better appearance to the royal Duke, to whom it was apparently designed to be presented.

It must be noted that that part of the map representing the river is not designed to be viewed in reference to the map of the city. It is, in fact, a view of the harbor from a point below the Narrows, to a point near the southern point of Manhattan Island. It shows the shores of Long Island and Staten Island at the Narrows, and also the four islands in the harbor, viz., Governor's Island, called on the map "Nut Island," and the islands not named on the map, but now called Ellis' Island, Bedlow's Island, and a small rocky islet, now occupied by the lighthouse in the harbor, opposite the extremity of Bergen Point.

Mayors of the City.

BY D. T. V.

CADWALLADER D. COLDEN.

Mayor in 1818–19–20.

Mr. Colden was the grandson of Lieutenant-Governor Colden, and son of David Colden. He was born at Springhill, near Flushing, on the 4th of April, 1769, and was educated, in part, by a private tutor, and in part, at the school in Jamaica. In 1784 he accompanied his father to England, and was placed in a classical school near London, where he remained until the fall of the following year, when he returned to New York. Being destined for the profession of the law, he commenced his studies in this city, and subsequently pursued them in the province of New Brunswick, and also at Kinderhook, in this State. He was admitted an attorney in the year 1791, and commenced practice in the city of New York ; but soon after removed to Poughkeepsie, Dutchess county. In 1796, he resumed his practice in the city of New York. About this period he was appoined District Attorney, which office he held for several years.

On account of ill health, he embarked for France in the spring of 1803, and resided in Europe about eighteen months. Upon his return he resumed the practice of his profession with great success, and soon stood among the leaders of his profession as a commercial lawyer, and was equally eminent in other branches of the profession, In the time of the war of 1812, he was an active man in military life ; was elected a colonel of volunteers, and contributed his aid in the erection of the fortifications for the defense of the city.

In 1818, Mr. Colden was elected a member of Assembly, and in the same year succeeded Mr. Radcliff as Mayor. In 1822, he was elected to Congress, and in 1824, to the Senate of this State. A favorite object with him, in public life, was the advancement, in educational and moral points of view, of the youthful portion of the community, and he was a prominent advocate of public schools.

He was subsequently President of the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents, and for many years was Governor of the New York Hospital.

Stephen Allen

He was the author of the memoir of the Erie Canal, published by order of the State Legislature, and was one of the prominent advocates of the internal improvement system, then a subject of considerable excitement in this State. After his withdrawal from the Senate, in 1827, he devoted much of his time to the superintendence of the Morris Canal, connecting the waters of the Delaware and Hudson Rivers, and, for convenience in this respect, removed his residence to Jersey City.

The life of his friend Robert Fulton is his chief literary production. It was read by him before the New York Literary and Philosophical Society, and published by them.

Mr. Colden, after a life of usefulness and activity, died at his residence in Jersey City, on the 7th of February, 1834, of dropsy in the chest.

In the time of his mayoralty, the city contained about 120,000 inhabitants.

STEPHEN ALLEN.

Mayor in 1821–'22.

Stephen Allen was in his early life, a sailmaker by trade; and, having taken an interest in political affairs, was elected Assistant Alderman of the Tenth Ward, in the years 1817 and 1818. The following two years he was elected Alderman of the same Ward. The public spirit manifested by Mr. Allen in the discharge of his official duties induced his friends to bring him forward, for the first civic position in the city, to which he was appointed by the Common Council, for two successive years. Ten years subsequently, Mr. Allen was elected Assistant Alderman of the Tenth Ward. Having acquired a large fortune, by his successful occupation in commercial pursuits, to which he devoted himself for many years, after giving up his trade, Mr. Allen becomes conspicuously concerned in banking and insurance companies, and in various charitable enterprises; his character for probity and intelligence being a sufficient guarantee for his faithful performance of the most responsible trusts. For several years Mr. Allen held the office of State Senator, and, as such, became a member of the Court of Errors, the highest court of appeal in the State. In this capacity, although bred in a school of business widely different from the studies of the legal profession, the natural talent of Mr. Allen was such as at once to give him clear and distinct views of the most subtle questions brought before the Court; and his written opinions on many abstruse cases evince his remarkable toil in this respect.

Having attained the venerable age of four score, Mr. Allen, still in good health, had spent some years in comparative retirement from his early pursuits. He died in the summer of the year 1852, one of the victims of the ill-fated steamer Henry Clay, which was consumed by fire, near the village of Yonkers, on the Hudson.

In the time of his mayoralty the city contained about 140,000 inhabitants.

WILLIAM PAULDING.

Mayor in 1823–'24–'26–'27.

Mr. Paulding was a descendant of one of the old New York families. His place of birth was at Tarrytown, Westchester county; the old mansion of his father is still standing on the river shore in that village, a venerable relic of the revolutionary era. The father of Mr. Paulding was William Paulding, a well-known and conspicuous revolutionary patriot, who was for some time a member of the Provincial Congress, and also held the position of Commissary General in the State levies.

The subject of this sketch, having received a classical education, removed to the city of New York about the year 1795, where he commenced the practice of the law. In 1802 he formed a partnership with Mr. Barton, the firm being Paulding & Barton. His practice was successful and lucrative. He married, in this city, a daughter of Philip Rhinelander, a wealthy merchant, through which connection he came into a large estate. He did not continue practice subsequently so actively as before, but became somewhat conspicuous as a politician and leading citizen. He was attached to the party of Madison, and was an active participator in the exciting events in this city during the last war. He at that time became a general in the State forces, and thus acquired his title of General, by which he was commonly known.

Mr. Paulding's residence was on the north-west corner of Greenwich and Jay streets, in one of what were then the finest houses in the city, and commonly called Paulding's row.

Towards the close of his life General Paulding retired to the vicinity of Tarrytown, where he had built an elegant mansion, and there he resided until his death, about seven years since, he being at the time about eighty years of age.

In the time of his mayoralty the city contained about 170,000 inhabitants.

PHILIP HONE.

Mayor in 1825.

Mr. Hone was born in this city; his father residing and doing business in John street. In early life, Mr. Hone entered the mercantile profession, in Maiden lane, and afterward engaged in the auction and commission business, in Pearl street, with an elder brother, the late John Hone. For many years, the brothers were connected, as auctioneers, with Mr. Charles Town, under the firm of Hones & Town; and, after Mr. Town retired from the concern, continued business under name of J. & P. Hone & Co., always standing at the head of the auctioneers of this city, for capital and reputation as business men. They amassed handsome fortunes. About the year 1820, Mr. Hone retired from active business pursuits, and visited Europe, where he was present at the coronation of George IV. Returning to the United States, he embellished his fine house in Broadway, opposite the Park, with many subjects of foreign art, and an elegant and extensive library.

The Mercantile Library of this city—established, as is well known, for the benefit and cultivation of the mercantile clerks of this city, in which it has been among the most successful institutions of its kind in the country—has always ranked Mr. Hone among its most powerful friends. He participated in the erection of Clinton Hall, for their accommodation; and, himself owning the adjoining lots, he built thereon a spacious building, to conform to, and apparently form a part of, the edifice erected for the purpose referred to.

As a politician, Mr. Hone was of the Whig party. He was elected Assistant Alderman of the Third Ward, in 1823 and 1824, on the ticket with William H. Ireland. The following year he was placed in nomination for Alderman, but was defeated; Mr. Campbell P. White being the successful candidate. He was, nevertheless, elected Mayor, although there was a Democratic majority in the Board, in consequence of a quarrel between the friends of the two Democratic candidates, William Paulding and William P. Van Ness. The era of his mayoralty was marked as one of great magnificence and hospitality, defrayed from the private resources of Mr. Hone. The following year Mr. Hone was superseded in the mayoralty by Mr. Paulding.

In 1839, Mr. Hone was a candidate for the State Senate, but was defeated by Judge Scott. Under the Presidency of General Taylor, he was appointed Naval Officer of this port, which office he held at the time of his death, which occurred on the 5th of May, 1851, at his residence, corner of Broadway and Great Jones street.

In the time of his mayoralty the city contained about 170,000 inhabitants.

WALTER BOWNE.

Mayor in 1828–'29–'30–'31–'32.

The first of the name of Bowne, in this country, was John Bowne, a native of Mattock, in Derbyshire, England, who emigrated to Boston in 1649, in the twenty-second year of his age. His origin was humble, his habits plain, and his manners unaffected. He was endowed with a strong mind and sound judgment, whilst his avocations as a farmer tended to add to his physical powers of endurance. Having removed to Flushing, Long Island, he attended, at first from curiosity, some of the Quaker meetings in that town. Struck with the simplicity of their worship, he invited them to his home, and next became, in the course of the year 1662, a member of their Society. His house, thenceforth, became the headquarters of their sect. Information of this fact being communicated to Governor Stuyvesant, who, in common with many of the other sects of Christians, was violently inimical to the Quakers, he ordered Bowne to be arrested, and fined him twenty-five pounds, to be committed until that sum was paid. Bowne suffered himself to be committed to prison, as his conscience prevented his paying a penalty, however trifling, for exercising the form of worship which he considered a duty. Continuing his resistance to the demands of the authorities, he was warned that he would be sent across the seas if he did not submit. This threat did not, however, prevail with him, and he was accordingly shipped for Holland, whither Stuyvesant wrote in strong terms, complaining of the obstinacy of the man, as a disturber of the peace and a contumacious subject, who was thus banished, in the hope that others in the same course might be discouraged. On his arrival in Holland, Bowne made his case known to the West India Company, and found there a more charitable disposition towards the sect. They refused to recognize the justice of Stuyvesant's course; and, on the contrary, dispatched a missive to Stuyvesant, severely censuring the course pursued by him, advising him that, in the youth of the colony, its rulers ought rather to encourage than check the population of the country; the consciences of men ought to be unshackled, so long as they continue moderate, peaceable, inoffensive, and not hostile to the Government. The persecutions of the Quakers ceased from this time, but the affections of that people were alienated from the Dutch Government of the colony after that period.

From this individual were descended numerous families of that name, inhabiting Long Island and the neighborhood. From James Bowne, a farmer at Flushing, was descended the subject of this sketch, who was born in the year 1770. Upon arriving at years of maturity, he engaged in the hardware business in this city, which he followed with success for a number of years, at the corner of Burling slip and Water street, in company with Richard T. Hallet. Mr. Bowne, upon his retirement from business, became a prominent politician of the Democratic party. He represented this city in the State Senate for three successive terms, and was appointed Mayor by the Common Council in the year 1827, continuing for the four succeeding years. Mr. Bowne was one of the Commissioners appointed by Congress for the erection of the Custom-house, which, we believe, was the last public duty of importance performed by him. He was noted in public and private for scrupulous and exact dealings, descending to the smallest details; and, by his successful business operations, acquired a large estate. Mr. Bowne died at his residence in Beekman street, in this city, on the 31st day of August, 1846, in the seventy-sixth year of his age.

In the time of his mayoralty the city contained about 200,000 inhabitants.

GIDEON LEE,

Mayor in 1833.

Gideon Lee was born in the town of Amherst, State of Massachusetts, on the 27th of April, 1778. He lost his father when a youth, and went to reside with an uncle, who was a farmer. "I remember," says he, "when I was a lad, living with my uncle, it was my business to feed the cows; and many a time, long before light in the morning, I was started off in the cold and snow, without shoes, to my work, and used to think it a luxury to warm my frozen feet on the spot just before occupied by the animal I had roused. It taught me to reflect, and to consider the possibility of bettering my condition."

Mr. Lee was apprenticed to the tanning and shoemaking, which occupation he followed in the town of Worthington, Massachusetts; and with the first means derived from the profits of his business, he improved his deficient education at the Westfield academy. After prosecuting his business for some time, he formed a partnership with Mr. Hubbard; subsequently they were burned out, and he lost what property he had accumulated. He then dissolved with his partner, and removed to New York. But before establishing himself permanently here, he made a voyage to St. Mary's, Georgia, taking with him some small ventures of leather, and accompanying a party who went out for the purpose of cutting live oak timber for the United States Navy. While there he contracted a fever, from the effects of which his constitution was considerably debilitated throughout his life.

The adventure of Mr. Lee was not a profitable one, and after remaining in the South one winter, he took passage for New York, but was wrecked off Cape Fear; gaining land, he commenced his journey on foot, in company of a friend named Smith. After many hardships he reached New York, not, however, before his funds had become exhausted, and he had been obliged to take jobs at chopping wood, in return for food furnished by the inhabitants along the road.

Having married a Miss Buffington, of the place of his former residence, Mr. Lee removed to New York in 1807, when he commenced the tanning business at a small shanty in Ferry street. His prudence, economy, and industry, soon advanced him in prosperity. Mr. Lee lost his first wife in 1818.

In 1822, he was elected to the State Legislature. In 1823, he was married to a daughter of the Rev. David Williamson. In 1828 and 1829, he was elected Alderman of the Twelfth Ward, his residence being then in one of a row of fine marble houses, the first erected in Bond street, then in the suburbs of the city. In 1833, he was elected Mayor, and declined the renomination for the following year.

In 1836, Mr. Lee retired from the pursuit of active business, and soon after was elected to Congress, where he was distinguished by his close application to business. Shortly after his return from Washington, he removed his residence to the village of Geneva, where he had purchased a beautiful estate. He did not, however, long enjoy his retirement, being seized with a bilious fever, accompanied by neuralgia, early in July, 1841, and on the 21st of August following was gathered to his fathers, in the sixty-fourth year of his age, leaving his family an ample fortune, the fruits of an industrious and well-spent life.

PAISLEY PLACE, IN 17TH STREET, BETWEEN 6TH AND 7TH AVENUES

Paisley.

[The Compiler is indebted to P. M. Wetmore, Esq., for the following sketch.]

Every person at all familiar with the history of Scotch manufactures, will readily call to mind a busy, prosperous town, bearing the above name, in Renfrewshire, and chiefly known by its extensive trade in cotton goods.

There is another Paisley, much less distinguished in history, of which it is our purpose to speak at this time.

The mutations in trade, commerce, and manufactures, which have occurred in a space of time but little more than is allotted to a generation, are remarkable for their importance, and are not undeserving of notice in a work of this nature.

Recourse must be had to the uninviting tables of the statisticians, for full information on the topics to be considered. But it may not be out of place to remind the reader that, forty years ago, the cotton sheetings, brown and white muslins, checks, stripes, drills, and bed-ticks, the substantial materials essential to the wants of the thrifty and well-ordered household, were mostly woven in handlooms, and not, as now, the products of immense manufacturing establishments, around which have clustered populous cities and villages in New York and New England.

Inventive genius, inspired by the example of Whitney, and Watt, and Arkwright, conceived and executed the complex machinery by the aid of which American enterprise now floods the world with cotton goods, indispensable to most nations, but which were comparatively unknown to commerce at the commencement of the present century. Before that time, these necessary appliances of domestic life were principally supplied by the use of linen fabrics from the British Islands and Continental Europe, while India, in exchange for our silver dollars, sent us sparingly of her delicate muslins, but abundantly of her coarsely woven "Baftas," the handiwork of her patiently laborious, but most uninventive, people.

From these distant teachings we drew our early lessons in cotton manufactures. Weaving soon became a thriving branch of national industry, and it followed, as a natural sequence, that the workmen we needed resorted to our shores to ply their handicraft. Scotland sent over her hundreds of frugal and thrifty weavers, who speedily set up their looms to prepare the needful supplies. The yarns for their use became an important branch of trade; and as each piece of muslin reached its destined length, and each fragment of the apron-check, coveted by the industrious housewife, grew to its proper dimensions, they were transferred to the custody of the merchant, in exchange for the current coin or a fresh supply of yarn.

The hand-weavers had become a community of themselves in our city at the period of which we speak, and had won and maintained good repute as an industrious, useful, and orderly people.

The year 1822 forms an epoch in our municipal history. The yellow fever, which had so often spread suffering and death among the inhabitants, in the autumn of that year, made its last eccentric visit to our city. It brought, of course, its wonted terrors. The people of the lower wards fled at its approach. The banker closed his doors; the merchant packed his goods; and churches no longer echoed the words of divine truth. Many hundreds of citizens abandoned their homes and accustomed occupations, that they might seek safety beyond the reach of pestilence, putting their trust in broad rivers and green fields.

But a few days elapsed, and business had found a refuge and a resting place. What was then the village of Greenwich, and is now the Ninth Ward of the city, became the improvised centre of trade and commerce.

The village of that day is not easily traceable on the map which fronts the title-page of this volume. At a little distance from the spot where the larger merchants had made their temporary homes, ran a secluded country lane, which bore the somewhat pretentious name of Southampton road.

A convenient nook by the side of this quiet lane was chosen by a considerable number of the Scotch weavers, as their place of refuge from the impending danger. They erected their modest dwellings in a row, set up their frames, spread their webs, and the shuttles flew merrily from willing fingers. With the love of Scotland strong in their hearts, and the old town, from which they had wandered far away, warm in their memories, they gave their new home the name of "Paisley place."

The writer, who well remembered and had dealt with the weavers of 1822, chanced to pass, a few days since, through Seventeenth street, from the Sixth to the Seventh avenue. Thoughts of the present, and not of the past, occupied his mind. An open gateway attracted attention, and invited entrance. Listlessly he sauntered within a charmed circle of ancient memories. He had unwittingly wandered into the path once known as Southampton road. There stood plainly visible the Weavers' row, dim with the marks of age, yet fresh in the observer's mind, as an object of interest forty years ago. The paint had faded away from the time-worn materials which formed the humble structures, but the simple words remained to mark the spot where once the busy weaver sat, humming his Scottish airs, while, swiftly as flew the ebbing hours of life, the chequered web grew beneath his plastic hands.

"Paisley place" survives its fourth decade of years; no shuttle flies under its fast decaying roofs; the weaver's song is hushed; time and death have done their work, and the little primitive fraternity has vanished before the advancing march of associated effort.

Our artist, with true antiquarian spirit, has faithfully preserved the features of this scene, as a memorial of an interesting incident in our local history.

GENERAL ORDERS.

January 10, 1777.

THE Owners of Public Houses, having Sailors or Soldiers in their Houses after 8 o'clock, will be committed to the PROVOST, and the Furniture of their Houses forfeited; and the Fires and Lights are to be put out in all Public Houses at 9 at Night.

WILLIAM BAMFORD,
Town-Major.

WHEREAS, many Complaints are made by the Inhabitants that BREAD is become extravagantly high, either from the Exaction of Bakers or Forestallers, it is become necessary to renew a mode that was formerly followed in this place, of fixing an Assize. The Price of the best Flour being now Thirty Shillings the Hundred, and that of Fuel and Labour considerably Increased, I find that it is the Opinion of the most respectable Inhabitants that a Loaf of Bread of the finest Flour, weighing Three Pounds Four Ounces, should be sold for Fourteen Coppers, and in the same Proportion for Loaves of a lesser Weight.

Any Person who exacts more will be taken into Custody, and the Bread in their Possession will be given to the Poor.

RT. PIGOT.

PROCLAMATION.

By Major-General Robert Pigot, Commanding in New York.

Whereas, there was a Proclamation issued by Major-General James Robertson, who lately commanded in this City, requiring all Persons coming into the same immediately to give in their Names; notwithstanding which, there is Reason to believe, that there are many Persons who have come in, and have not complied with the tenor of the said Proclamation: I have, therefore, thought fit to issue this Proclamation, hereby requiring all Persons who have come into this City, since the Twenty-second Day of September last, and are now resident in the same, and have not given in their Names, to give them in immediately, or they will be treated as Spies. And I do hereby give Notice, that all Persons coming into this City after the date hereof, from any Part of the Country possessed by the Rebels, who do not immediately report themselves to me, will be treated in like Manner; and all Persons harbouring or concealing such Persons will be taken into Custody.

Given under my Hand, at New York, the Twenty-fourth Day of February, in the Seventeenth Year of His Majesty's Reign.

PROCLAMATION.

By Major-General ROBERT PIGOT, Commanding in New York.

WHEREAS, from the frequent Fires which happened in Chimnies in this City, it was judged necessary, that certain Persons should be appointed to inspect all Chimnies within the same, and see that all such as required it, should be properly swept and clean'd;

AND WHEREAS, John Norris, John Burt Lyng, John Burns, Dederick Hyer, David H. Mellows, and Richard Ebbetts, by Warrants dated the first day of December last past, signed by Major-General JAMES ROBERTSON, were appointed Inspectors for the purpose aforesaid; notwithstanding which Appointment, such Fires still frequently happen in this city;

AND WHEREAS, it is represented unto me that many of the Inhabitants not only neglect sending for Sweeps when their chimnies require, but also refuse to suffer the said Inspectors either to view their Chimnies or to employ the Sweeps when brought to their Houses, by which this City is often in Danger of being destroyed;

I HAVE, therefore, thought fit to issue this Proclamation, hereby requiring all the Inhabitants of this City to permit the said Inspectors, or either of them, to view their Chimnies whenever they, or either of them, shall call for that purpose; and to cause that the same be immediately thereupon swept, in case the said Inspectors, or either of them, shall judge it necessary. And I DO hereby strictly enjoin and require the said Inspectors to make report to me of all persons offending in the Premises, in order that they may be dealt with accordingly.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, it has been represented to me that the boatmen and others who bring fire-wood to this city exact the most exorbitant prices for the same, and that unless some regulation be made, there will be no bounds to their extortion: To remedy which, I have thought fit to issue this proclamation, and do hereby order and direct that no more than Five Pounds currency shall be demanded for a cord of wall nut wood, Four Pounds a cord for any other wood.

By command of the General,

JOHN L. C. ROOME, Secretary.

By His Excellency Sir HENRY CLINTON, Knight of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Lieutenant-General of His Majesty's Forces, &c.

PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, it is consonant not only to the common principles of humanity, but to the wisdom and policy of all well-regulated States, in certain exigencies, to guard against the extortion of individuals, who raise the necessaries of life, without which, other parts of the community cannot subsist; and whereas, the farmers on Long Island and Staten Island are possessed of great quantities of Wheat, Rye, and Indian Corn, for sale, beyond what they want for their own consumption, and it is highly unreasonable that those who may stand in need of those articles should be left at the mercy of the farmer; and whereas, it is equally just and reasonable that every encouragement should be given to the industry of the husbandman, and that, in all public regulations respecting the price of the produce of his lands, regard should be had to that of the conveniences which he is obliged to purchase; and whereas, the present rates at which Wheat, Flour, Rye-Meal, and Indian Meal are sold do vastly exceed in proportion the advanced price of those articles which the farmer stands in need of purchasing, and I, being well satisfied from the best information, and the most accurate estimates made, that the following prices upon the articles above mentioned will be liberal and generous, have thought fit to issue this Proclamation, and do hereby order and direct that the prices to be hereafter demanded for the said articles shall not exceed the following rates:

A Bushel of Wheat, weighing Fifty-eight Pounds, Twelve Shillings, with an Allowance or deduction in proportion for a greater or lesser weight.

A Bushel of Rye, or Indian Corn, Seven Shillings.

Merchantable Wheat Flour, Thirty-five Shillings per Cwt.

Rye Flour, Twenty Shillings per Cwt.

Indian Meal, Seventeen Shillings per Cwt.

And that it may be known what quantities of the above articles of grain the farmers upon Long Island and Staten Island have for sale, I do further order and direct, that they do, without delay, make a return, according to the best estimate they can form, to the commanding officer of the Militia of their respective counties where they reside, of the quantities they have of the aforesaid respective Kinds of Grain; and also, that they do declare how much thereof they think they may want for the use of themselves and families, until the ensuing crop shall come in; and in order that those who may stand in need of supplies of the above articles may seasonably have the benefit thereof, I do further order and direct, that the aforesaid farmers do immediately thrash out one-third part of their present crop of Wheat and Rye, and that another third part thereof be thrashed out, on or before the first day of February next, and that the residue thereof be thrashed out on or before the first day of May next. And that any person neglecting to make such return as aforesaid, or to thrash out his grain as aforesaid, or refusing to sell such part of any or either of the said Kinds of Grain, Flour, or Meal, which he shall not want as aforesaid for himself and family, at the respective prices above limited, or any person whatsoever, who shall either at the city of New York, Long Island, or Staten Island, presume to demand a greater price for any of the above mentioned articles, or refuse to sell the same at those prices, shall be subject to have his whole crop of grain, or quantity of manufactured Flour or Meal, concerning which such offence shall happen, seized and confiscated, and himself liable to imprisonment for such offence.

PROCLAMATION.

Therefore, such persons as shall produce proper recommendations will obtain orders from me to receive a proportion of the said wood, on their paying to the said John Thompson the charges of cutting and carting the said wood, with an addition of four shillings per cord for his trouble in this service.

WHEREAS, the generous Price allowed for Wood by the former Proclamation for that Purpose, and the Plan that has been adopted for supplying the Poor with that Article, has been the Means of bringing larger Quantities of Fuel to this City than was expected. They were required, also, to give an account to the Colonels of militia of their respective districts, what quantities of grain they possessed, and what it might be necessary to reserve for the above uses. The Commander-in-Chief has been pleased to order that Proclamation to remain in force, and be strictly observed, the rates excepted, which, as an encouragement for an ample supply of the market, are to be as follow:

Wheat, 26 Shillings per bushel. Wheat Flour, 80 Shillings per cwt. Rye, 10 shillings per bushel. Rye Meal, 30 Shillings per cwt. Indian Corn, 10 Shillings per bushel. Indian Meal, 28 Shillings per cwt. Buckwheat, 7 Shillings per bushel. Buckwheat Meal, 26 Shillings per cwt. Currency.

It is therefore ordered, that, from and after the first day of February next, no greater price for any of the above articles shall be demanded, offered, or received, on the penalty of the person offending forfeiting (on being convicted on oath, before the Police of New York, or the Colonel of the Militia of the district on Long Island or Staten Island, where that offence is committed) the Grain, Flour, Corn, or Meal, so offered to be sold or purchased, or the value thereof, and to suffer imprisonment till the forfeiture is paid; the one-half of the forfeiture to be paid to the Informer, and the other half for the use of the poor of this city, or the township where the offence is committed.

The Police of New York, and the Colonels of Militia on Long Island and Staten Island, are hereby required to take an account of what quantities of Wheat, Rye, Indian Corn, Grain, Flour, or Meal, are in their respective districts, and in whose possessions, and to report the same as soon as possible to the Commandant of New York.

By Sir George Collier, Commodore and Commander-in-Chief of all His Majesty's Ships and Vessels employed in America, from the North Cape on the Island Cape Breton, to the Bahama Islands, and Florida, inclusive.

Whereas, many Seamen have been lately inveigled from his Majesty's Service into Privateers, Letters of Marque, and Merchantmen, owing often to Drunkenness, and want of Consideration of the heavy Penalty attending such a crime, which is Death by the Sentence of a Court Martial;

And whereas, I have had it represented to me that several of such Deserters, repenting of their offence, are only restrained from returning to their Ships through Fear of Punishment;

I hereby think proper to give Notice, that such Seamen or Marines who will return either to their own Ship, or, if she is not present, to any other Ship or Vessel of His Majesty's, acknowledging their Crime, and claiming the Benefit of this Proclamation, shall be pardoned their Desertion, provided they give themselves up within a Kalender Month from the Date hereof.

And as the King's Service has suffered materially by Privateers, Letters of Marque, and Merchant Vessels, enticing Seamen to desert, they are to take notice, that whatever Ship or Vessel shall be found to have borne a Deserter, or in which a Deserter shall be found, will have every Man (except the Commander), without exception, impressed for his Majesty's Service, and it is signified to them, that the Excuse of not knowing him to be a Deserter will not avail or be received, unless the Proof is perfectly clear that neither the Owners, Master, or Mate, knew of his being such.

But if, notwithstanding the Mercy held out to Offenders who have left their Ships, there should yet be any so incorrigible as to persist in their Crime, and not return to the Service, they may depend upon their being proceeded against, if taken, with the utmost severity, and punished with Death, if the Court Martial shall sentence them to it.

Given on board His Majesty's Ship, the Raisonable, off New York, the 28th of May, 1779.

GEORGE COLLIER.

By Command of the Commodore,

JOHN MARR, Secretary.

By Sir GEORGE COLLIER, Commodore and Commander-in-Chief of all His Majesty's Ships and Vessels employed in America, from the North Cape on the Island of Cape Breton, to the Bahama Islands, and Florida, inclusive.

IT having been represented to me, that it is become a Practice lately for Privateers to anchor without the Hook, at their return from cruising, and frequently to land their Prisoners upon Long Island, to the great Danger and Annoyance of his Majesty's faithful subjects, and in Defiance of repeated Admonitions to the contrary ;

I think proper, therefore, to declare, that if Commanders of Privateers shall presume to be guilty of such Practices, or shall permit any Prisoners to be landed from their Ships, without Leave being obtained from the Commissary-General of Prisoners, and signified under his Hand, in Writing, such Commander of a Privateer shall be impressed into his Majesty's service, and a Reward and Protection be granted to such of the Crew as shall make a discovery thereof, so as to Convict him upon it.

And the Owners of Privateers are to direct their vessels, when they return from their Cruises, to bring to near the Guard Ship, in Order to their being properly examined, and not to show so much disrespect to the King's Colours, as to make Sail away, when they see the Guard Boat approaching them.

And I think proper to signify to the Pilots in the Pay of Government, that if they shall be found guilty of going on board Merchant Vessels when Men-of-War are not supplied with them, who may want to come in over the Bar, they will not only be mulcted in pay, but likewise dismissed as Pilots, and obliged to serve on board the King's Ships in inferior Stations; and as some of the Pilots have assisted, with their Boats and Persons, to land Rebel Prisoners on Long Island from Privateers, the utmost Severity will be used to all such who shall be found acting contrary to their Duty, and they may depend, that no Consideration shall prevent their receiving the Punishment due to their Fault upon Conviction.

By Command of the Commodore,

JOHN MARR, Secretary.

By Order of the Commandant.

THE following prices and assize of bread are to take place from and after Friday, the 9th inst., and to continue until further orders;

Ship Bread of the best quality at £3 10s. per hundred weight.

All loaf Bread to weigh two pounds each loaf, for fourteen coppers each.

No Baker or Retailer of Bread shall ask, demand, or receive, any greater sum, either for ship or loaf bread, than the prices above mentioned. OFFICE OF POLICE, July 27, 1779.

ANY person or persons that may incline to contract for the cleaning the streets of this city, under the immunity of an exclusive right to take all the manure and rubbish for their own use, are desired to give their proposals to the office of Police on or before the 15th of August next, together with such regulations and restrictions as they may think necessary to enable them properly to execute such an undertaking, that the same may be laid before the Commandant, and, with his approbation, terms of agreement entered into.

By Order of the Commandant.

Whereas, the storing of pitch, tar, turpentine, rosin, spirits of turpentine, or shingles, in any houses, store-houses, cellars, or lodging them on the Wharfs or in the streets within this city, is not only attended with imminent danger in case of fire, but is also expressly contrary to an act of assembly passed in this province the 30th of December, 1769;

It is therefore ordered and directed, that all persons who have pitch, tar, turpentine, rosin, spirits of turpentine, or shingles (except the quantity herein allowed to ship chandlers), lodged or laying in any part of this city, do remove the same on or before the 5th day of August next, to the brew-house and ground adjacent, formerly occupied by Hendrick Rutgers, situate in the Out Ward of this city, which is set apart for the reception of the same, and left to be under the direction and care of such person or persons as the merchants interested may chuse to appoint, at their own expence, for the safety of their property.

Ship chandlers are allowed to have near their doors, in the open street, and not in any buildings or inclosure, pitch, tar, rosin, and turpentine, not exceeding, in the whole, at any time, seven barrels.

Such person or persons as do not punctually comply with this order before the 5th day of August next shall, for such offence, be fined Fifty Pounds, to be immediately paid into the hands of Mr. John Smith, Treasurer to the Vestry, to be applied to the public uses of this city, and be imprisoned, if the articles are not removed agreeable to the above order, in twenty-four hours after conviction.

It is further ordered and directed, that all pitch, tar, turpentine, rosin, and spirits of turpentine, or shingles, that may be imported into this port, after the date of this order, shall, when permitted to be landed, be immediately lodged at the place herein before directed; and in case of being left on the wharf where landed or lodged in any other place than is herein directed, shall be forfeited and sold at public vendue, and the monies arising therefrom be paid and applied as above mentioned.

Any cartman who shall be detected in carting of pitch, tar, turpentine, rosin, spirits of turpentine, contrary to the true intent and meaning of this order, shall be deprived of his licence, and fined Ten Pounds, to be paid and applied as before mentioned.

NEW YORK, September 10, 1779.

Major-General PATTISON

TAKES this early Opportunity of returning his Thanks to the CITIZENS of NEW YORK, who have so readily stood forth in promoting the Safety of this City, by giving their reasonable Aid in carrying on the Works on Governor's Island, which altho' calculated for their own Protection against any attempts of a FOREIGN Enemy, yet the part they have so cheerfully taken upon the Occasion cannot but be regarded as a Proof of their Loyalty and Zeal for His Majesty and his Government. Justly impressed with a due Sense of their meritorious Conduct, the COMMANDANT is happy thus publickly to bear Testimony of it, and as there is now no longer a Call for their Assistance, he gladly dispences with their being put to any further Expence or Trouble.

NEW YORK, October 25, 1779.

WHEREAS it has been represented to the Commandant, that sundry persons going out with Fowling Pieces have made a practice of shooting near high roads, and other places of public resort, thereby rendering it very unsafe for passengers and others frequenting the said roads ; and that in consequence of such practice some fatal accidents have actually happened : The Commandant therefore judges it necessary, for the public safety, to prohibit all such Fowling near the environs of the city, or within half a mile of any high road or public frequented foot path, as the offenders will be answerable for the consequences attending the disobedience of this order.

By Order of the Commandant.

Given under my Hand, in the City of New York, the 16th Day of November, in the Year of our Lord 1779, and in the 20th Year of his Majesty's Reign.

By Order of the Commandant.

NOTICE is hereby given, in order to prevent Gunpowder getting into improper hands, that from and after this date, no Gunpowder is to be sold at Public Vendue, without a License having been first obtained for that purpose, from the office of Police ; Licenses will only be granted for such Gunpowder as may be sold by order of the Court of Admiralty, for the benefit of the captors.

All owners of Gunpowder and Vendue Masters, that may in future sell Gunpowder by the above Licenses, are hereby ordered not to deliver any Gunpowder to the purchaser till he shall produce a certificate from the office of Police, that he has made oath that the same is intended for retailing to the inhabitants, or for the use of armed vessels, or for such other purposes as may be approved of ; Merchants and Vendue Masters are desired to retain in their hands the certificates as vouchers for their having complied with this order, and any transgression will subject them to fine and punishment.

Garrison Orders.

23d November, 1779.

THE Commandant, having receiv'd many and frequent complaints of the inhabitants being ill-treated by officers and servants quarter'd upon their houses, is sorry to find himself under the necessity of thus publickly calling upon all officers to consider that good discipline and the duty he owes to the citizens under his protection cannot permit him to suffer any act of oppression or irregularity to be practis'd in this garrison, without strict notice being taken of it, and therefore trusts that, in future, no cause will be given for further complaints, and that all officers will pay due observance to the barrack-regulations lately established for the more just allotment of quarters.

Some Officers having likewise taken upon themselves to commit citizens to the Main Guard, contrary to an order given by Lieut.-Gen. Jones, late Commandant, Major-General Pattison now finds it necessary to confirm the said order, and to direct, that no citizen shall be put into confinement, except by authority from a General Officer, or an Order signed by a Magistrate of Police, unless in the case of some violent breach of the peace.

Should Officers receive ill-treatment from any of the Citizens, they may be sure, upon representing it through the proper channel, of meeting with redress.

By Sir Henry Clinton, K. B., General and Commander-in-Chief of His Majesty's Forces within the Colonies lying on the Atlantic Ocean, from Nova Scotia to West Florida, inclusive, &c., &c., &c.

PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, the approaching season requires every exertion to obtain immediately a quantity of Fuel for the use of this city, as also to secure a daily supply of that article to those whose circumstances will not admit laying in sufficient quantities for the winter ;

It is therefore hereby ordered and directed, that all persons, who had permissions granted them for cutting wood off certain lands on Long Island and Staten Island, do immediately bring what wood they have cut to this market. Such as have not the means of carting it themselves to the landings are ordered immediately to apply to the Colonels of the Militia of the District, who have instructions to employ the neighbouring farmers in that service, and to settle the rates of carting for the same.

The Colonels of the Militia in the different districts are also empowered to grant permission to any person to cut wood off the abovementioned lands, where the intention of the grant has not been complied with ; and to order the wood that is cut to be brought to the landings, allowing for the cutting of the same, if the owner does not immediately make application for the assistance as above directed.

The ample price allowed for Firewood at this market cuts off every Pretext from the well disposed proprietors of wood-lands for delaying cutting their woods, and therefore all proprietors of woodlands on Long Island and Staten Island are hereby ordered and required immediately to cut, and cart to the most contiguous landings, such proportion of their woods as will fully answer the intent and meaning of this Proclamation, and prevent the disagreeable necessity of granting permissions for their woods to be cut by others who are willing to undertake the same, paying the proprietors the customary price for standing wood.

Given under my Hand, at Headquarters, New York, this Twenty-Fourth Day of November, One Thousand Seven Hundred and Seventy-Nine.

PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, many Evils daily arise from the unlimited Number of Taverns and Publick Houses within this City and its Precincts : I have therefore thought fit, in Order to prevent the pernicious Effects thereof, to direct that, in future, the Number of Licences for those who come under the Discription be restricted to Two Hundred, and that they be granted to such House Keepers only, whose Characters are sufficiently vouched and approved by the Magistrates of Police ;

And that no Inconveniencies may ensue from this Restriction, Notice is hereby given :

That such Persons who propose retailing Spirituous Liquors, in smaller quantities than Five Gallons, may apply to the Police for a Special Licence for that Purpose, provided the same be not drank within their own Houses, or sold in a less Quantity than a Quart.

Any Person detected in Keeping a Tavern or Publick House, or retailing Spirituous Liquors, in less Quantities than Five Gallons, without having obtained such Licence from the Police, or acting in any Manner contrary to the true Intent and Meaning of this Proclamation, after the Tenth Inst., will have his or her Liquors forfeited for the Benefit of the Alms House, suffer imprisonment, and be brought to Trial before a Garrison Court Martial for a Breach of Orders.

Licenses will be immediately withdrawn from such as shall be known to harbour or tolerate any riotous or disorderly Companies.

Thomas Bayeaux and Thomas Dalton are hereby appointed acting Officers under this Proclamation, and are to follow such Orders as they may receive from the Magistrates of Police, towards enforcing and carrying the same into Execution.

Those Persons who are already enrolled, either in the Loyal Commissariat, Independent, or Volunteer Companies, must procure a certificate from the Captain to whose Company they belong, in Order that they may be exempted from being enrolled in the Companies now to be established.

NEW YORK, February 9, 1779.

THE Commandant, impressed with a just sense of the meritorious conduct of the citizens of New York, who have, in Compliance with his Proclamation, put themselves in military array, with so much readiness and alacrity, takes this occasion of publickly returning them his thanks.

So very numerous and respectable a body of Militia being enrolled and assembled under arms, in the short space of seven days after issuing the Proclamation, must reflect a lasting credit upon them, and deserves the highest commendation.

That this noble spirit and order is now diffused amongst all orders of men, the many Associated Companies lately formed by the several publick departments of the Navy and Army incontestably prove; these testimonies of loyalty and zeal cannot fail to convey the truest pleasure to all his Majesty's good subjects, and be productive of the best effects.

Major-General Pattison desires further to declare the satisfaction he received from the good order in which these companies appeared under arms at the review on Saturday, as also how much his expectations were exceeded by the very military dress and appearance of the INDEPENDANT and VOLUNTEER CITY COMPANIES, to whom the merit of first setting this laudable example has been long due.

And whereas, also, some patients have been encouraged by inhabitants, to sell and dispose of not only their own clothing, but likewise the bedding and utensils of the Hospital; all persons are hereby cautioned against purchasing from soldiers any of the above-mentioned articles, as they will be amenable to a court-martial, for transgressions of this kind.

WHEREAS, in consequence of informations I have received, that discoveries have been made that various goods and merchandize, to a considerable amount, have of late, in violation of the established regulations, been conveyed from this city in a clandestine manner; I have therefore thought fit to issue this PROCLAMATION, hereby warning all persons whatever against putting on board any ship, vessel, pilot-boat, or other small craft, goods or merchandize of any sort. Also, all masters, or persons having charge of ships, vessels, pilotboats, or other small crafts, against receiving on board any goods or merchandize, without permission from the officers appointed by Sir William Howe's proclamation of the 17th July, 1777, and agreeable to the powers and regulations therein contained.

By command of the General,

JOHN L. C. ROOME, Secretary.

By His Excellency JAMES ROBERTSON, Esq., Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief, in and over the Province of New York, and the Territories depending thereon in America, Chancellor and Vice-Admiral of the same, and Major-General of His Majesty's Forces.

A PROCLAMATION.

THE necessity of a seasonable and ample Supply of FUEL, for the Use of his Majesty's Troops obliges me, however reluctant, to call on the Inhabitants of Long Island, to furnish a Proportion of Wood for the Barrack-yard in New York, several Plans have been successively adopted; but without their Assistance a sufficient Quantity to guard against the Severities of a long Winter cannot be procured; and I flatter myself, they will the more cheerfully comply with the Requisition, as the Burthen, if any, will be equally borne, and the Injury that must unavoidably befall Individuals, from an unforseen Deficiency be prevented.

The County of Kings is therefore required to get 1,500 Cords ; Queen's County, 4,500 ; and the Western Part of Suffolk (including Huntington, Islip, Smith Town, and Brookhaven), 3,000 Cords, ready cut and corded by the 15th of August ensuing.

And that the Distribution may be equally made, and all Waste avoided, the Civil and Military Officers of each County will meet, on Saturday, the 25th inst., at Flatbush, Jamaica, and Smith Town, and assess on each District, a proportionate Part of the Quantity demanded. The Officers in the District will then direct the Farmers each to cut his Part, regulating it by the Wood Land he possesses ; and on Notice being given, will muster the Teams of the Neighborhood, and cart the Wood to such Landing as shall be appointed, where the Wood, ready corded, is to be by them surveyed in the Presence of the Barrack Officer, who will give a Certificate on the Spot for the Number of Cords, to the Proprietor, at the Rate of Thirty Shillings per cord for Walnut, and Twenty for Oak ; and, also, for the Cartage, at the Rate of Four Shillings a Cord per Mile. The Teams so employed will be fully protected, and the Certificates punctually paid.

The foregoing Regulations, not being adapted to the Situation of the eastern Part of Suffolk, the Inhabitants of Southold, Southampton, and East Hampton, are required to cut in the Wood Lands late belonging to William Smith, and William Floyd, of said County (now out in Rebellion), in the parts thereof nearest to the Landing by Mastick Neck, 3,000 Cords of Wood, to be ready by the first of September. On due Information being given, they will cart the same, and attend, in the mean while, to its Preservation, and when surveyed on the Water-side, they will receive at the Rate of Ten Shillings per Cord for cutting and carting as above mentioned.

These Orders being calculated at once to provide for the Army, and to give every Security to the Farmer against others interfering with his Property, he will be left without excuse, if, by a criminal Neglect, he does not avail himself of the advantageous Offers held out to him, and must expect to suffer all the Evils consequent on his Disobedience.

Given under my Hand, and the Great Seal of the Province of New York, in the City of New York, the 16th day of June, One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eighty, in the 20th year of his Majesty's Reign.

JAMES ROBERTSON.

His Excellency Lieutenant-General James Robertson, with the approbation of the Commander-in-Chief, in order to give relief to the many loyal subjects who have been driven from their possessions by the Rebels, gives notice, that the houses and lands belonging to persons in rebellion, or being amongst the Rebels, will be divided (excepting such as are wanted for the King's service), and small lots assigned to distressed Refugee families, and these may be proportioned to the number and wants of the claimants. All persons under the above description are desired to leave their petitions for this purpose with Philip J. Livingston, at his house near Hell Gate, on Long Island, or at the Provincial Secretary's Office, in Broad street, New York, when they will be taken into consideration.

New York, July 12, 1780.

By Lieutenant-General James Robertson :

PROCLAMATION.

The situation of Long Island rendering it necessary to establish the means of administering justice among the inhabitants without subjecting them to the interruptions and delays attending an application in this city, and it being Sir Henry Clinton's desire that the people may have all the advantages free from the inconveniences which at this moment would flow from a renewal of civil government, I have, with his approbation, appointed George Duncan Ludlow Master of Rolls for the Province and Superintendent of Police on Long Island, with powers on principles of equity, to hear and determine controversies, maintain peace and good order, and regulate the Police through the same, until civil government in all its forms can take place ; and all officers of the island are required to aid the said Magistrate and his Assistant, in their office, and obey such orders as they shall, from time to time, receive for the effectual execution of their decrees.

JAMES ROBERTSON.

New York, July 12, 1780.

The Office for regulating the Police, on Long Island, will be immediately opened in the town of Jamaica, and regular attendance given for hearing and determining Controversies on the Tuesday's and Wednesday's of every week.

GEO. D. LUDLOW, Esq.,
Master of the Rolls and Superintendent of the Police on Long Island.

Jamaica, Long Island, July 19, 1780.

By His Excellency JAMES ROBERTSON, Esquire, Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief, in and over the Province of New York, and the Territories depending thereon in America, Chancellor and Vice-Admiral of the same, and Lieutenant-General of His Majesty's Forces, &c.

WHEREAS, in consequence of an address signed by the principal inhabitants of this City, in behalf of themselves and their fellow-citizens, requesting to be armed and embodied; a proclamation, bearing date 20th of January last past, was issued by James Pattison, Esq., Major-General of His Majesty's Forces, and Commandant of New York, requiring every male inhabitant, from the age of 17 to 60 years, immediately to enroll himself under such officers as were appointed to take the command of the district in which such inhabitant respectively resided; those persons who already belonged to the volunteer companies in this city, the firemen, and people called Quakers, excepted.

And, whereas, it has been represented to me that, notwithstanding the motives urged in the aforesaid proclamation, some have neglected to comply with the reasonable requisition therein contained, I therefore thought fit to direct, that due obedience be immediately paid to the said salutary regulation; and in order more effectually to carry the same into execution, every person within the above description, who now is, or hereafter may be, permitted to reside in this city, neglecting or refusing so to enroll himself, or who shall at any time refuse to obey a proper order from his commanding officer, shall be subject to imprisonment, or banishment from the city.

And, for the better government of the militia, I do hereby institute the following rules, strictly enjoining every person to whom they relate, to pay proper attention and ready conformity to them:

I. That each Captain shall have a power of judging in the first instance of the propriety of any excuse which shall be made by a delinquent of his Company.

II. That, in case of an alarm, an absentee (if his excuse is deemed insufficient) shall be immediately sent to the main guard, and reported to the Commandant.

III. That, with respect to the city watch, or when ordered on any parade, should the excuse be thought insufficient, the absentee shall pay a fine of two dollars for the first offence, four dollars for the second, and an addition of two dollars for every succeeding offence, until he shall attend.

IV. Any person refusing to comply with the preceding rules, shall be sent to the Main Guard, and then reported to the Commandant.

V. That each Captain shall keep a regular account of the fines he may receive, and once in a month pay the same into the hands of the city treasurer, to be added to the fund arising from the Licences granted to public houses and retailers of liquors.

VI. That the officers shall carefully inspect the arms of their respective companies, once a fortnight, that they may be kept CLEAN and in good order, and when REPAIRS are wanted, the expence to be defrayed out of the funds arising from the aforesaid licences.

VII. The Major of Brigade to report once a month, to the Commandant for the time being, the state and condition of the arms and accoutrements, as also the number of fines which have been paid for delinquencies.

MARKET REGULATIONS.

WHEREAS, divers persons, influenced by a desire of inordinate Gain, have been guilty of engrossing and forestalling all kinds of victuals and provisions in this town, whereby the prices thereof are excessively enhanced, and other great and criminal abuses have been committed by persons, as well acting as Butchers, as by others who frequent the Markets in this city, to the manifest injury of the inhabitants, particularly those in indigent circumstances—For prevention whereof in future, I do hereby order :

I. That all fresh meats, victuals, and provisions of all kinds (fish excepted) shall be openly sold in one or other of the public Market Places, and nowhere else in this city (the place where Coenties Market formerly stood to be considered as one), on penalty of forfeiture, one moiety to the informer, and the other for the benefit of the poor in this city.

III. That no negro, or other slave living in town, shall be permitted to buy or sell victuals, or provisions of any kind, for the use of his or her master or employer, without a ticket in writing for that purpose, from his or her said master or employer. Nor shall persons residing in the country suffer their negroes or other slaves to sell the produce of their plantations in the said markets, without such a license or authority, specifying the nature and quantity of the articles sent under their care and direction, and observing the foregoing regulations, on pain of forfeiture, to be applied as above.

IV. That no butcher or other person shall presume to blow, or cause to be blown, any meat brought to the said markets; nor shall they add to or stuff the said meat, or the kidney thereof, with any fat, or other thing whatsoever, but the same shall be brought to the said markets in the natural state as killed, on pain of forfeiture, to be applied as above.

V. X. And whereas the penalties and forfeiture herein before inflicted may not be sufficient to restrain the lawless and avaricious pursuits of those, who had a practice of committing the criminal abuses alluded to in the said markets ; In order, therefore, effectually to enforce the due observation of these regulations, it is determined, that if any person belonging to the military be guilty of transgressing the same, such person shall be tried and punished by the sentence of a court martial, as for a breach of orders ; And if any inhabitant, or other person, shall violate the said regulations, or enter into any combination or conspiracy to defeat or invalidate the same, or to enhance the price of any of the victuals, provisions, or commodities usually offered for sale in the said markets, such inhabitant or other person shall be immediately put in confinement, and expelled the lines, as soon as an opportunity offers for that purpose. By His Excellency Lieut.-General JAMES ROBERTSON, Governor of New York, &c., &c., &c.

THE Commander-in-Chief having shown the great confidence he reposes in the Citizens of New York by trusting His Majesty's interest there to their Zeal, Loyalty, and Gallantry, I persuade myself that every citizen will with alacrity claim his title to a share of the Militia duty ; that none may be deprived of this, and that those whose zeal would lead them to appear whenever called for may not be called for too often, I think proper to declare :

That all persons are to perform the Militia duty excepting the Ministers of God's Word, his Majesty's Counsellors and principal servants, whose avocations to religious and civil, necessarily prevents their attendance on Military, duties.

All persons who, from age or infirmity, are unable to act, may do duty by substitutes, providing those they offer are judged sufficient by the Colonel of the Regiment or commanding officer of the corps to which they belong.

If any of the gentlemen of the learned professions find themselves so usefully employed as to be induced to avoid the honor of appearing in person, they are supposed to be judges of the importance of their own time, and may act by proper substitutes.

As no person deserves protection in a place of which he refuses to contribute to the defence, every person who refuses to appear when summoned to his Militia duty is to be confined in the Main Guard by the Colonel or commanding Officer of the Corps to which he belongs, where he is to be kept till further Orders.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, it hath graciously pleased Almighty God to bestow signal victories on His Majesty's Arms, and to defeat the united Efforts of combined Nations, whose Powers, even when separate, have been formidable to all Europe; it becomes us, with grateful hearts, to adore the gracious God, to whom alone our Successes are to be attributed: I HAVE THEREFORE thought fit, by and with the Advice of His Majesty's Council, to ordain and appoint, and I Do ordain and appoint, that THURSDAY, the Twenty-third Day of this Month, be set apart and observed as a Day of PUBLIC THANKSGIVING to Almighty God, for these great and unmerited Mercies: And His Majesty's subjects are strictly commanded to observe the said day with the utmost Decency and Reverence, abstaining from all servile Labor, and devoutly attending Divine Service: which is hereby directed to be solemnly performed in all Churches and Chapels, and other Places of public Worship; of which previous Notice is to be given, by publishing this Proclamation in the several Congregations.

AND I Do recommend all Ministers of the Gospel, that they offer up devout and fervent prayers to Almighty God, that these Events may not only prove advantageous to our Nation, but conducive to the PEACE and HAPPINESS of Mankind. Yet, if His Divine Providence should permit the Ambition of Hostile Powers to set this desirable Object at a Distance, and foreign Nations continue their attempts to destroy the British Empire, that He would be pleased to dispose the Minds of all the sons of Britain to unite their efforts for the common Safety.

THAT HE would open the Eyes and cure the Prejudices of the misled — revive in their Breasts the Love of their Country — teach their Kindred Hearts to glow at her Triumphs, animated with an ardent Wish again to share the Blessings of a Government which all men admire, but Providence has been kindly pleased to reserve for the Subjects of Britain.

THE FLAG OF THE DUTCH EAST INDIA COMPANY.

D.F. Valentine's Manual 1863.

Flags which have waved over New York City.

BY D. T. V.

For the purpose of illustrating the accompanying engravings, the compiler avails himself of an historical memoir on the subject, embraced in the above title, prepared by Dr. Augustus K. Gardner, and read before the New York Historical Society. The interest of the subject is increased by the labor and research exhibited in the preparation of the article.

The first European visitor to this State and city was Hudson, who in 1609 sailed up the river now bearing his name. The flag under which he sailed was that of the Dutch East India Company, which was the flag of the United Provinces of the Netherlands—orange, white, and blue, arranged in three equal horizontal stripes; in the centre of the white stripe the letters A. O. C.—Algemeene Oost-Indise Compagnie—The General East India Company.

The national ensign of the United Provinces was adopted about the year 1582, at the suggestion of William, first Prince of Nassau and Orange. After the death of William II. (1650), a red stripe was substituted for the orange.

From the time of the discovery, no visitor came into these waters, of whom we have any record, until 1612, when the Island of Manhattan was settled under the East India Company, who continued in possession until 1622, when the government fell into the hands of the West India Company.

The flag of the Dutch West India Company was nearly the same as that above described, orange, white, and blue, with the letters G. W. C.—Gooctroyeerde West-Indise Compagnie.—The Privileged West India Company, on the centre of the white stripe.

This was the dominant flag till 1664, when this island was surrendered to the English, and the Union Jack of England supplanted the tri-color of Holland, and the name of New Amsterdam was changed to New York.

The name of Union Jack is derived from the union of the three crosses of Saint George, Saint Andrew, and Saint Patrick, originally the emblems of the three kingdoms of England, Scotland, and Ireland united in the kingdom of Great Britain, while the name of Jack was probably derived from James of England; the long phrase of "the Union Flag of James"—in French, Jacques—becoming by elision the Union Jack. Another, but less probable, interpretation is, that it was derived from the jackets of the soldiers, upon which the cross, afterwards placed in the flag, was displayed.

In the month of July, 1673, the Dutch again took possession of the city, which they occupied until November 10, 1674, when, by virtue of a treaty of peace between England and Holland, the red cross again floated over this city.

From this time there was no interruption in the supremacy of the English, until the year 1689, when the memorable rule of Leisler, speedily terminated by his death, occurred. He was a warm supporter of William and Mary, and it is possible that, while he held possession of the fort, the flag of William, not then proclaimed King of England, might have floated over New York. However possible this may be, we have been unable to find any statement sustaining such a conjecture.

Were it so, however, it could have been but for a very brief period, and the English flag waved undisputed until the era of the American Revolution.

The flag of New England in America is described as blue, with a white centre, which, by a red cross, is divided into four parts, having in the first subdivision a sphere, or globe of the world divided, emblematical of America as the New World.

As the period of the Revolution approached, the inhabitants of several of the States adopted banners and flags, with and without devices. The Massachusetts colonists adopted a white flag with a green pine-tree upon it. The South Carolina colonists took, instead, a rattlesnake, with the inscription, "Don't tread on me." Sometimes the snake was divided into sections, with the name of the State affixed to each, with the motto, "Join or die." The Connecticut, more classically and religious, bore the simple motto, without device, "Qui transtulit, sustinet"—"He who brought us hither will sustain us."

When, however, there was a more concerted action among the Colonies, and an army was collected around Boston, the first flag adopted was a union of the flags of some of the separate Colonies: a red flag, with the motto, "Qui transtulit sustinet," and on the reverse, the words, "An appeal to heaven;" while the flag of the floating batteries was white, with a green pine-tree, and for a motto, "An appeal to heaven." This was before the union of the thirteen Colonies.

After that union, these flags were supplanted by one calculated to show to the world the union of the North American Colonies among themselves, and, at the same time, claiming to be an integral part of the British Empire, and, as such, demanding the rights and liberties of British subjects. A flag combining the crosses of Sts. George, and Andrew, and Patrick united, with a field of thirteen stripes of alternate white and red, was adopted for this purpose, and called the Great Union Flag.

This banner was first unfurled over the Continental Army, then about 7,000 in number, by General Washington, at the camp in Cambridge, Massachusetts, January 1, 1776.

It soon became apparent that all hope of reconciliation with the mother-country was gone, and the necessity of evincing this feeling in the flag was evident; and, in accordance with this general conviction, Congress first took action on the subject, and, June 14, 1777, adopted the following resolution: "That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white, in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

By subsequent action of Congress, it was resolved that after May 1, 1795, "the United States flag should be composed of fifteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be fifteen stars in a blue field." This was the flag used during the war of 1812

By subsequent resolution, it was determined that "from and after the 4th day of July, 1818, the flag should consist of thirteen horizontal stripes, alternate red and white; and that the union be twenty stars, white, in a blue field; and that on the admission of a new State into the Union, one star be added to the union of the flag."

To return to the flags which have waved over this city. At the commencement of the Revolution, as in New England, the people, although feeling aggrieved, were loyal, and upon the same day, the 25th of June, 1775, New York witnessed the double entry of George Washington, just elected by the Provincial Congress General-in-Chief of the American forces, and on his way to take command at Cambridge, and Tryon, the English Governor, who had arrived the day before. It was about this time that we read of the first raising of any but the English flag in New York. Previous to this, indeed, liberty-poles had been raised and cut down again; but now, March, 1775, a Union flag, with a red field, was hoisted in New York upon the liberty-pole on the "Common," bearing the inscription, "George Rex, and the liberties of America," and upon the other side, "No Popery."

The British, under Governor Tryon, vacated New York in 1775, but there is no record, which we can discover, which gives any positive date as to the raising of the American flag. But as the first important event occurring afterwards, in this city, was the reading of the Declaration of Independence, in the presence of Washington, by one of his aids, the 9th of July, 1776, in the centre of a hollow square of troops, drawn up on the spot where the Park Fountain now exists, this may have been its first unfurling in New York.

The city was held by American troops, after this event, until the 13th of September, of the same year, when Washington retreated to Harlem, and afterwards from the island, and the city was possessed by Sir Henry Clinton, who landed at the foot of Thirty-fourth street, on the 15th, and from that time held by the British until the close of the war, when they evacuated the city, November 25, 1783.

Since then, no flag but the Stars and Stripes has waved in power over our city.
